FRANCE, BRITAIN OFFER PLAN TO END SPAIN'S WAR

Urge Intervention by Six Powers.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Britain and France proposed tonight that Germany, Italy, Portugal and Russia jointly seek mediation of the Spanish civil war and permit the Spanish people to decide by ballot whether they wish Socialist or Fascist government.

[Officials in Paris stated Russia had already notified London and Paris of its acceptance in principle of the mediation proposal.]

Notes addressed to the European governments urging them to join in the mediation efforts were dispatched last Friday, the foreign office said.

Deep significance was attached to the announcement, coming as it did on the eve of tomorrow's meeting of the league of nations council at Geneva to consider the Madrid-Valencia government's appeal against Germany and Italy because of their recognition of the Fascist junta of Burgos.

Opposes Direct Intervention.

Britain has frowned upon the league session, hoping that the European neutrality committee sitting here would be permitted to handle the war crisis single-handed.

The nonintervention committee tonight agreed to prohibit indirect intervention in the Spanish war. The committee, in adopting recommendations of a subcommittee, however, failed to outline how indirect intervention would be prohibited.

Further meetings of the subcommittee and the full committee, it was stated, must await the replies of member countries of the committee to a new communication asking each to define its attitude on nonintervention. One of the main questions was understood to be methods for halting an influx of foreign volunteers to Spain.

The mediation proposal asked the four governments most interested in the conflict, because of sympathies with one or the other contestant, to join "in a spirit of humanity in endeavor to put an end to armed conflict in Spain by means of an offer of mediation with the object of enabling Spain to give united expression to its national will."

Propose Plebiscite.

At the same time Britain and France asked the governments of Moscow, Lisbon, Rome and Berlin to "declare their absolute determination to renounce strictly all direct or indirect action which might in any way be calculated to lead to foreign intervention."

In the event the governments concerned agree to attempt mediation, it was indicated a Spanish plebiscite would then be considered to permit "united expression" of their desire by Spanish citizens.

One difficulty, however, was that such a plebiscite conducted by an outside government probably would require the sending of troops into Spain, high sources said, and this was advanced as one reason France and Britain had not made the mediation proposal sooner.

Might Stay Separate.

The "important thing is to get this war stopped," an informed source said. He suggested an alternative solution might be for each side to retain territory now held and conduct separate governments.

Both the Fascist Burgos and the Socialist Madrid-Valencia governments would have to consent to any mediation, it was emphasized, but if their "big brother" nations consented it was believed the two belligerent administrations would acquiesce quickly.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London, told the nonintervention committee tonight that "Germany fully supports" the appeal to check an influx of foreign volunteers to Spain and that "my government puts forward a logical demand that the committee now should tackle the whole problem of indirect intervention."

DOG BITES CHILD; OWNER IS WARNED THROUGH AN AD

Mary Lou Southard, 1430 Chicago avenue, Evanston, daughter of C. D. Southard, general manager of Butler Brothers, a general merchandise concern, came home last Friday to tell her parents she had been bitten by a dog at Dempster street and Chicago avenue. Mr. Southard made inquiries in the neighborhood, but failed to learn the name of the dog's owner. Then he had handbills printed and distributed in the neighborhood. The circulars asked the owner of the dog to realize that unless the animal was placed under observation the child would have to receive anti-rabies serum. Yesterday his advertising brought results. Mrs. Elizabeth Herb, 2713 Walnut avenue, Evanston, saw one of the handbills and promptly called the Southard home, explaining she did not know the child had been bitten. She sent the dog to an animal shelter for ten days' observation.

OCEAN CITY WILL BUILD MEMORIAL TO MONGREL DOG

Ocean City, N. J., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—A drinking fountain, designed for the use of dogs and human beings, is to be erected on the grounds of the Ocean City High school as a memorial to Hobo, Ocean City's mascot dog who died Tuesday night at the age of 18 years.

The memorial will be financed with subscriptions received from summer visitors and all year residents.

Hobo was a friendly mongrel dog who was gentle with children and who tolerated the thousands of boardwalk strollers who stopped to pat his head. He begged his meals from boardwalk restaurants and ice cream stands in summer, and boarded around with various families in winter.

He will be buried on the high school grounds in a specially built coffin.

U. of C. Dean's Baby Found; Lost 8 Hours

For more than eight hours yesterday the Hyde Park district was in a turmoil of excitement as hundreds of policemen and students and faculty members of the University of Chicago searched the streets and alleys for the 19 month old son of a university dean who disappeared from his home in the morning.

At 7:45 p. m., after grave fear had been expressed for the baby's safety, a private watchman found him, happy but grimy, about a half mile from his home. He was playing in a street with two older children who had taken him away in the morning. The young "kidnapers" told a fantastic and confusing tale of their adventure with the baby. They said they took him from his home "because he ought to go to kindergarten."

Son of Dean Redfield.

The baby whose disappearance caused all the excitement is James Michael Redfield, son of Dr. Robert Redfield, dean of the division of social sciences at the university. Dr. Redfield and his wife, the former Margaret Lucy Park, live at 5724 Dorchester avenue. They have three other children, Lisa Berthe, 12 years old Robert III. [called Tito], 10, and Joanna, 6.

Dr. Redfield is the son of the late Attorney Robert Redfield. His mother is now Mrs. Paul Willer-Petersen. Mrs. Redfield, mother of the little boy, is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Robert Ezra Park of the university.

The youngsters whose adventurous spirit prompted them to take Jamie are Lillian Kranenberg, 10 years old, 1373 East 55th street, and her brother, Elmer, 8. They are the children of Bert Kranenberg, a janitor, and are pupils at the Ray elementary school.

Story of the "Abduction."

About 11:15 yesterday morning Mrs. Redfield saw the Kranenberg children standing on the flight of steps which leads to the front porch of the Redfield home on Dorchester avenue. A gate at the head of the stairs was in place to prevent the baby, who had been put out on the porch to play, from tumbling down.

Mrs. Redfield cautioned the Kranenberg children, who were strangers to her, not to lift Jamie over the gate. They could stay there and play with him if they wished, she said.

Five minutes later Mrs. Redfield discovered the front porch empty and notified her husband. He telephoned Mayor Kelly, a family friend.

On instructions from the mayor and Police Commissioner Allman, Acting Captain William Byrne of the Hyde Park station mobilized every available member of his command in a search for the baby.

Dr. Redfield's faculty associates formed vigilante groups. Students offered their services.

The search was at its height when the watchman, Chatley King, found the Kranenberg children and Jamie at 53d street and Kenwood avenue. They were playing train in the street with packing boxes.

Back at the Redfield home Lillian did most of the talking, her hands folded demurely, her brown eyes open wide, and her blonde curls bobbing as she spoke.

Lillian's Version of It.

"We were tied up," said Lillian when a policeman asked why she and her brother played hooky from school yesterday. "Some bad boys tied us to a post. They tied the baby, too."

"Yes, we were playing Indians," offered Elmer.

"We were not," admonished his sister. "We were playing on the grass. We were going to school. We were going to take the baby to kindergarten. Then the boys tied us to the post."

Lillian said a "nice man" freed them from the post. Asked what the children had eaten during the day, Lillian said: "A lady gave us some cookies and candy, but we gave them to the baby."

Then, apparently bewildered by the group of questioners, she burst into tears, crying, "I want my mama." She and Elmer were taken home.

EDWARD AGREES TO QUIT; PREPARES FOR FLIGHT TO JOIN MRS. WALLIS SIMPSON

Britain's Monarch Bids Farewell to Family.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

SUNNINGDALE, England, Dec. 9.—With all the royal servants withdrawn from sight and earshot King Edward VIII. of England this afternoon kept a tryst with his broken hearted mother, Queen Mary, in the duke of York's study at the royal lodge, Windsor Park. Many believe tonight she saw him for the last time as king.

To avoid being seen, the king left Fort Belvedere, his country home, on foot. He walked through a low mist that covered some of the fields on the earl of Derby's estate, adjoining the fort, and then entered an automobile standing on one of the rough farm roads.

Arrives Unseen.

In all the two mile journey he had to cover only 200 yards of public road which leads to Windsor Park, in the center of which stands the royal lodge, now the country home of the duke and duchess of York. It was the first time the king had left the fort in six days. Nobody saw his arrival at the lodge. Workmen were rounded up and told to remain hidden in a garage.

In the afternoon fog Edward crept through trees along the long avenue down which in more joyous days of royalty kings and queens had driven in state to receive the tumultuous welcome of crowds. What may be the king's last drive through the ancient park was made in ghostly silence.

Queen Awaiting.

Queen Mary, who had a slow and tedious drive from Marlborough house, was there waiting for her son. She was accompanied by her brother, the earl of Athlone, and the princess royal, countess of Harewood, Edward's sister. In days that seem now so far off it was his sister, Mary, whom the king adored and who shared his love.

First, the king saw Queen Mary with the earl of Athlone, the princess royal, and the duke of York, who arrived with a number of prominent palace officials. After awhile they withdrew, and for half an hour the mother and son were alone.

Then the king left, returning by the way he had come, without any of the watchers at Fort Belvedere knowing he had left the estate. The queen returned later to Marlborough house.

Family Gathers.

The duke of Gloucester, the third brother of the king; his duchess, and the princess royal are staying with the queen at Marlborough house and were present at dinner there tonight. The dinner also was attended by the duke and duchess of Kent. Another family conference took place with the duke of York, who was driven over from his home at 145 Piccadilly to join in at 10:15 o'clock.

The duke of York had returned by auto to London from Fort Belvedere shortly before 9 o'clock.

When he emerged from the car his face looked strained and bewildered—apparently at the enormous responsibility which his brother's renouncement of the throne thrust upon him.

Discards a Crown

EDWARD VIII. OF ENGLAND.

Wally Renews Her Proffer to Give Up Ruler

CANNES, France, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson's offer to withdraw from the life of Edward VIII. of England, "if it will solve the problem" still holds good, her spokesman, Lord Brownlow, gentleman in waiting to the king, said tonight.

Asked whether the startling night developments in London had altered Mrs. Simpson's stand, Brownlow said "her position remains the same."

It was disclosed tonight that Mrs. Simpson enjoyed a half hour motor trip through the countryside accompanied by a body guard. Despite earlier denials that she had left the Riviera villa of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, it was said reliably she "slipped out" for a short drive but had paid no visits to any of her friends or spoken with anyone during the ride.

Insists Wally Returned.

In reply to widespread reports in Cannes that Mrs. Simpson had not returned from the drive, Lord Brownlow said:

"On my word of honor, she is now at the villa and has no plans for leaving."

The American born sweetheart of Great Britain's king talked for long hours with Theodore Goddard, the attorney who handled her divorce suit against Ernest A. Simpson. [A decree nisi, which becomes absolute next April 27, was granted Oct. 27.]

Goddard said he "could not discuss the affairs of a client," but Lord Brownlow said they talked of "disposition" of Mrs. Simpson's recently acquired London residence in Cumberland terrace and "other matters" which he declined to define.

He said that Mrs. Simpson had "signed no documents," thus controverting reports that financial matters had come up for consultation.

Goddard visited Mrs. Simpson in the villa and after he left his clerk, Sydney Baron, went in the home for a brief conference.

Doctor Goes to Marseilles.

Goddard, Baron, and Dr. W. Douglas Kirkwood arrived in Cannes the night before after an airplane and taxi journey from Croydon airport near London.

Dr. Kirkwood, whose visit was said to have been purely on the request of his friend Goddard, and in no way whatever connected with Mrs. Simpson, left earlier in the day for Marseilles. He did not go near the Rogers' villa.

CANNES, France, Dec. 10 (Thursday).—Capt. Almond of the British royal air force said today he may fly King Edward VIII. of England to France. He made the statement before taking off at Marseilles at 3 a. m. for Le Bourget airport, near Paris. There he was expected to pick up Theodore Goddard, attorney for Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, and Goddard's clerk, Sydney Baron, and fly them to London. Goddard and Baron left here for Paris by train yesterday.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (Thursday).—England was prepared today for one of the most dramatic and historic acts in the long history of the British empire—the abdication of a king because of love.

All London newspapers and parliamentary spokesmen were agreed that at 3 o'clock this afternoon (9 a. m. Chicago time) Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin will announce to the house of commons that Edward VIII., king of Great Britain since last January, has signed his abdication.

First in English History.

It will be the first time that any British sovereign ever abdicated voluntarily.

The duke of York, next younger brother of the king, is expected to succeed to the throne. There have been reports of the duke's reluctance to accept the crown, but general belief is that he has been persuaded. There were rumors also of a regency with the 10 year old Princess Elizabeth as queen, but these are not believed. The princess in any event would be heir presumptive.

Royal Baggage Leaves.

Baldwin's announcement will mean that the king-emperor has chosen to renounce his throne in order to obtain freedom to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, the twice divorced Baltimore belle who has upset an empire. It will mean an end, it is expected, to ten days of critical conflict between crown and cabinet precipitated by the king's determination to marry Mrs. Simpson.

Shortly before midnight a dray loaded with royal baggage rolled from Fort Belvedere, where the king has been secluded for the last five days of Britain's most fantastic constitutional crisis, and headed for London.

Sees Mother Secretly.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning military dispatch riders sped through the foggy night from 10 Downing street, the prime minister's office, bound for Fort Belvedere. One of them carried a long, narrow box of black metal just big enough to contain a scroll. A great red seal was affixed to it. It might well have contained the abdication decree, being rushed to Fort Belvedere for the king to sign this morning so as to be out of the country before Baldwin's statement is made to the commons. His presence in the country would be embarrassing for his successor. While no incidents over the abdication announcement are expected, they are not to be excluded as possibilities.

Edward, if he flies to France, will undoubtedly go straight to Mrs. Simpson at the villa of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers at Cannes. Last Sunday, it is known, Edward telegraphed Rogers that he "might be coming to the Riviera."

The government has planned the details of the abdication down to the minutest detail, although there remains, it is admitted, the chance of an eleventh hour change of mind on the part of the king.

At the same time that Baldwin is introducing measures in the house of commons Lord Halifax, lord privy seal, is expected to take similar action in the house of lords.

Procedure Is Explained.

Baldwin's announcement is expected to take the form of a statement that advice on the king's contemplated marriage with Mrs. Simpson has been asked for from the cabinet and formally given to the sovereign. He will state, it is understood, that the government has advised against the marriage, that the king has accepted that advice, but that at the same time he has intimated a desire to abdicate in order to marry Mrs. Simpson when she is free. [Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree nisi from Ernest A. Simpson, London shipping broker, becomes absolute next April 27.]

Preparations for the abdication are reported to include arrangements under which the king will retain some titles and also be assured of suitable income. It was also generally believed that the king will formally signify his intention of living beyond the boundaries of the British empire.

Financial Plans.

Financial arrangements likely would include retention by him of the revenues of the duchy of Cornwall or the duchy of Lancaster, according to the Daily Express. This would provide hi man income amounting to about $565,000 annually.

The duchy of Cornwall's revenues produce $350,000 net. The large estate of the duchy goes to the eldest son of a British sovereign by inheritance and consists of the property not only in Cornwall and Devon but also in London.

The estate has been crown property from time immemorial and the duchy dates from 1337 when Edward the Black Prince was created duke of Cornwall.

Provided Sum for Brother.

After the accession of the late King George V., the present king succeeded to the duchy. When the civil list was passed in May, to last through Edward's entire reign, it included a provision that the duchy incomes should be used to relieve the total grants and provide an income of $125,000 annually for the duke of York.

This was at the king's wish, but the incomes, it is claimed, remain invested in himself hereafter as hereditary duke under an ancient charter.

The duchy of Lancaster belongs to the king as duke of Lancaster and produces annual revenue of $215,000. Estates comprising the duchy are dispersed over thirteen different counties and are managed by a council presided over by the chancellor of the duchy, who is a member of the government. Sir John Davidson, a member of parliament, is the present chancellor.

A new select committee will have to be set up to prepare a new civil list for Edward, but this could be delayed until the new year.

Plan Bill to Legalize Act.

The government, according to plans thus far disclosed, will introduce a bill in parliament legalizing the abdication and altering the law of succession so that the duke of York may accede to the throne as George VI. This bill is understood to be all ready, even to the exact amount of money the king will receive.

It is upon the terms of this bill that Walter T. Monckton, attorney general of the duchy of Cornwall, and Sir John Simon, home minister, legal advisers for the king and the government, have been working and conferring together so frequently.

Similar legislation will be introduced in the parliaments of all the British dominions, for under the Westminster statute of 1931, their assent must be obtained to alter the succession to the throne.

Baldwin, immediately after a midnight cabinet session, is reported to have communicated immediately with President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State and with prime ministers of the other dominions.

The measures are expected to be rushed through all the parliaments as emergency legislation.

According to latest disclosures Edward forced Prime Minister Baldwin to accept abdication, as his final word in answer to the cabinet's ultimatum on Mrs. Simpson, at the five hour dinner meeting which took place at Fort Belvedere Tuesday night. That dinner, destined perhaps to become historical, was attended by, besides the king and Baldwin, the duke of York, the duke of Kent, the king's youngest brother, and an array of legal talent.

No Precedent for Act.

The situation has never been, as announced, that the king was unable to make up his mind. It was simply, it is understood, that the cabinet had been confronted for several days with his declaration of abdication unless they let him marry Mrs. Simpson. They withheld the announcement until legal requirements could be met. At the same time the king consented to make no disturbing move until all preliminaries for the new reign could be arranged.

Difficulties in arranging the required legislation—there was no precedent to follow—are believed to explain the delay in announcing the abdication.

The whole country, meanwhile, appeared rather crushed and jittery as the import of today's scheduled events leaked out. People seemed dismayed and uneasy, as if they expected the whole empire might come tumbling down around their ears. As the Daily Telegraph declared, there is widespread fear of tarnish on the gold of the imperial crown.

The house of commons lobbies were electrified yesterday afternoon when the first reports of the king's impending renouncement of the throne circulated. There was tumult throughout Whitehall.

A crowd hovered around 10 Downing street all day and some stayed through the night watching cabinet ministers, legal advisers, and dispatch riders come and go.

When Prime Minister Baldwin rises to make his statement the house of commons will be crowded for the most dramatic session in recent times, not excluding even the period preceding the war.

Police authorities made special arrangements to deal with any crowds that may gather outside the parliament or in the neighborhood of Buckingham palace, Marlborough house, or any other royal residence following Baldwin's announcement. A double force of men will be available. Those normally coming on duty at 6 p. m. have been instructed to report at 4 p. m. More than 1,500 police were affected.

An indication that attempts may be made to stir up trouble was contained in a statement by Sir Oswald Mosley, Fascist leader, speaking at a luncheon of the British Union of Fascists yesterday.

"We will not see the king hustled off the throne without reference to the British people," said the Black Shirt chief. "Nor are we prepared to stand idly by while the king is pushed off."

Early Procedure in Commons.

Yesterday's meeting of the house of commons was colorless. The usual question was put by Maj. C. R. Attlee, Laborite leader, for an explanation of the situation. Baldwin replied that he was not in position to add anything, but hoped to make a statement later.

Attlee then asked if the prime minister could give the house a good hope of a statement soon, pointing out that anxiety is increasing with the delay, and Baldwin replied that he realized that as much as any one.

F. J. Bellenger, Laborite, broke in at this point:

"May I ask the right honorable gentleman whether he is aware of the grave financial inconvenience that is being caused to many subjects by the delay in coming to a decision and will he kindly suggest to his majesty the necessity of——."

Cries of "Order! Order!" interrupted Bellenger, and the sentence was not finished.

Baldwin, however, replied:

"I can assure him that has not escaped me."

LABOR ROARS O.K. OF KING EDWARD FROM AUSTRALIA

Demonstration Staged in Parliament.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—In uproarious fashion the first favorable political demonstration in King Edward's favor from the dominions came today from the Labor benches of Australia's parliament.

In Canberra Prime Minister Lyons of Australia made a brief statement just before parliament adjourned in an 18 minute sitting. He refused to allow any debate on the question.

Roar from Labor Benches.

The Labor benches roared their objections. Labor Leader Curtin arose and said his party would leave the king to choose his own wife and "will not agree that this choice should be marred in any way."

He added the king must, however, accept full responsibility before his conscience and the empire. Once his choice is made, Curtin said, Australia's Labor party hopes the king will "remain on the throne."

The prime minister had said, "the position is still uncertain, although I hope profoundly the crisis will be averted. Respectful and sympathetic silence from parliament is the best contribution to offer toward a happy solution. May God strengthen his majesty and guide his decision aright."

Another Uproar.

When adjournment was moved there was another uproar from the Labor benches as the members sang over and over again the first line of the national anthem: "God save our gracious king."

Meanwhile the New Zealand parliament, which adjourned last night after being in almost continuous session since Saturday, stood ready to be summoned immediately if the necessity arose.

The South African government maintained strict silence on communications which it sent to London in answer to questions from the British parliament. At Pretoria, South Africa, coded messages continued to arrive for Prime Minister Hertzog.

He Gets $6 Week Relief; Kills 2 Deer; Gets 100 Days

Valhalla, N. Y., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—James Rafferty, 35 years old, of Thornwood, who is supporting his wife, mother, and 12 year old paralytic daughter on $6 weekly relief funds, was sentenced to serve 100 days in jail today for shooting two deer. The game warden said one deer might be considered food, but two was too many.

No Milk Before 6 A. M. Is the Law in Houston

Houston, Tex., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The milkman's sleep—to say nothing of his customer's—was guaranteed today by law. The city council passed an ordinance making it unlawful for anyone to deliver milk by vehicle between the hours of midnight and 6 a. m.

REPORT FRANCE WILL SEND U. S. ENVOY ON DEBTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 9.—THE TRIBUNE learns on the best authority tonight that Georges Bonnet, former finance minister, is being offered the ambassadorship to Washington for one year—a sort of special mission—to negotiate on war debts and try to obtain badly needed credits in the United States. Bonnet was the negotiator when French war debts were settled with Great Britain.

There are further reasons of domestic politics prompting the government to offer him the ambassadorship. Bonnet is a political ally of the Popular Front coalition, but has been making sharp criticisms of the Blum cabinet's financial policy. If and when the cabinet overturn comes, it is likely Bonnet will be chosen for a ministry. Thus it is likely he will accept the Washington appointment only if he feels reasonably certain the cabinet is going to last for a while. That it will do so seems more likely the last couple of days with the communist promise to coöperate with their Socialist brethren.

KING SERIOUSLY CONCERNED--OVER ONE OF HIS DOGS

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—King Edward VIII. of England, with the world waiting for his greatest decision, busied himself today with his dogs.

Seriously concerned over the leg injury of Labrador, a retriever, the royal master of Fort Belvedere visited his kennels the first thing today.

Dissatisfied with his pet's progress, the king called a veterinary. When the latter arrived, bringing four pekingese along, the two knit their brows together over the problem. After the veterinary left, said advices from Belvedere, the king looked relieved—almost carefree—again.

ABDICATION GIVES ENGLAND TANGLE OF LEGAL ISSUES

Experts in Conflict Over Necessary Procedure.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A bewildering legal tangle faces the British government and constitutional experts over the abdication of King Edward VIII. of England.

The idea of a British king's abdication has been untouched since the act of settlement of 1701, which more or less established the rules of the modern British monarchy.

Even the greatest authorities hold conflicting views, and until it is tried nobody knows what can be done and what cannot or how to do it.

Much of the recent hurrying about of lawyers connected with the crown was connected with the discussion and settlement of the question of whether the king could abdicate at all, and what steps are necessary.

Report Drafting of Bill.

Legal experts tonight were understood to be drafting a bill for consideration by the cabinet so they would be prepared for any contingency.

One of the leading authorities on the constitution declared that the king could simply step down and the duke of York immediately and automatically become king.

He admitted, however, that it would be best to pass a "declarative act," which is what the lawyers were understood to be drafting. This would prevent any discussion later.

In abdicating Edward will break the line of descent from Princess Sophia of Hanover, whose descendants were established as the British monarchs by the act of settlement.

Princess Elizabeth, the elder daughter of the duke of York, would become heir presumptive—if her father becomes king—but if a brother were born she would be passed over by him for the succession when their father died.

Questions Right to Quit.

Prof. Arthur Berriedale Keith, one of the most noted constitutional authorities, opposes the idea that the king can abdicate when he wishes. Only by act of parliament, according to him, can the king leave the throne. Even such an act would not bind the dominion parliaments, which, under the statute of Westminster, since 1931 claim the same power to pass on the matter as the British parliament.

Again the experts differ radically on the question.

Keith says that the act would bind them if it expressly said it did. Some authorities hold they could not be bound by it, and South African leaders even declare they are free to name any one they wish as king and are entirely unbound by any decision on the matter by London.

Another question which has been puzzling the British is whether parliament would have to be dissolved and a new election held.

Sees Parliament Independent.

"No," said Herman Finer, parliamentary expert of the University of London. "The duration of parliament is independent of the passing of the crown from one king to another," he declared, and the duke of York, upon the political "death" of his brother, would immediately become king.

There is no way, according to most experts, to bring the matter before the people and let them vote whether the king shall abdicate. This seems now to be unnecessary speculation.

If the cabinet resigned and its successor were defeated on a vote in parliament, a new election would be held, at which the victory of this second cabinet's supporters would amount to a public vote in favor of the king.

His last act as sovereign in abdicating would be to proclaim his abdication under the great seal and probably just before, by courtesy, he would inform parliament.

He might even wish to address parliament personally to explain the reasons, for there is nothing in the laws to prevent this, though the right is not specifically granted.

CHURCHILL'S SON 'DISGUSTED' WITH U. S.; GOES HOME

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Randolph Churchill, son of Winston Churchill, the British statesman, sailed for home today, disgusted with the United States after two and a half months here as a roving correspondent for the London Daily Mail.

"I got a very bad impression of the American press," Churchill said, "and part of my stay was made horrible by what was written and said about King Edward and Mrs. Simpson.

"Americans do not understand the issues. There is no resentment because Mrs. Simpson is American nor because she is a commoner. That viewpoint is childish and hysterical. The issue is the church, because of the fact that she has had two divorces."

ferences, Goddard and Baron boarded a Paris bound train, but left their luggage behind with that of Dr. Kirkwood in the hotel where the trio spent the previous night. Later they were joined at Marseilles by the doctor.

Meanwhile Mrs. Simpson remained in excellent spirits, so it was said. She brought with her, it was learned, the greater part of her jewelry, including many lavish gifts of King Edward.

During the day, as great clouds blacked out the Riviera's famed sunshine, Lord Brownlow came from the pink walled villa to talk with the press.

"Mr. Goddard's visit," he said, "as was stated last night, was for the purpose of discussing Mrs. Simpson's business affairs in London."

"Too Ridiculous."

Later Goddard, the barrister, said: "The stories which I understand are going about concerning Dr. Kirkwood are too ridiculous for words. He not only is my medical adviser, but one of my oldest friends. I always have been advised for personal reasons never to fly. He came for that reason and for that reason alone.

"I came to see Mrs. Simpson, for whom I acted in her recent divorce. I deemed it advisable to do so in connection with various other matters. That I am now doing. I obviously cannot say what I am doing in my connection as her solicitor."

WALLY'S 'AUNT BESSIE' SHAKEN BY EMPIRE CRISIS

Guards Letters in London Home of Mrs. Simpson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson's "Aunt Bessie," Mrs. D. B. Merryman of Baltimore, is acting unhappily the rôle of watchdog, it was learned today. She is guarding Mrs. Simpson's London house and royal letters while Mrs. Simpson is in retreat at Cannes, France.

Her pleas to accompany her niece in the flight to the Riviera were turned down because it was felt some one must hold the fort at 16 Cumberland terrace to make sure that no snooper invades the luxurious town house.

Plans originally were made for Mrs. Simpson to go to the Riviera by plane. They were dropped, it was said, because she fears plane accidents.

Wally's Aunt Exhausted.

Mrs. Merryman was reported to be reduced almost to nervous exhaustion by the whirl of England's "constitutional crisis" into which she was so suddenly plunged. She came to London to act as chaperon for her niece after the latter's divorce decree nisi was obtained from Ernest Aldrich Simpson, London shipping broker, on Oct. 27 at Ipswich.

Already agitated by the signs of the approaching uproar, she was more shaken than ever when Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin finally locked horns with King Edward over the marriage question and the press lifted its censorship, exploding the whole affair in the face of the startled British public.

The chief reason why Aunt Bessie has to stand by in the London house is said to be the presence of a number of letters from King Edward and other private papers belonging to Mrs. Simpson. She is keeping watch to see that they are not stolen or even seen by any of the many persons eager to get at them, either for personal profit or to aid the fight of those who are bitterly opposed to the royal romance.

Campaign Against Wally.

Signs of a growing personal campaign against Mrs. Simpson continued to develop. The London Times made a new thrust today, carrying on an attack begun by the Morning Post on Saturday and taken up in yesterday's Times. The leading editorial was devoted largely to throwing cold water on the hope—eagerly seized upon by most of the British press—that Mrs. Simpson's offer to renounce the king meant a way out of the tangle.

The Times referred to the statement as a "dramatic offer" and hinted strongly that it was merely a matter of form and a grand stand play for sympathy.

QUEEN OF ITALY VISITS DAUGHTER, ILL OF FLU IN GERMAN EPIDEMIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—Queen Elena of Italy, accompanied by her eldest daughter, Countess Calvi di Bergolo, arrived in Kassel today to attend her second daughter, Princess Mafalda, wife of Prince Philip of Hesse, who is seriously ill. Princess Mafalda is a victim of the epidemic of influenza which is raging in Germany.

The influenza in itself is not serious, but this year's epidemic was marked by complications frequently leading to peritonitis and acute kidney trouble. Princess Mafalda, whose husband is an aid to Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air and economics dictator, was reported convalescent when she suffered a relapse and complications which induced her family to rush to Kassel.

In Berlin all hospitals are overcrowded and a number of schools were closed because of the influenza epidemic.

Town Asks U. S. Build It a Cave, Safe from Air Raids

Beaufort, N. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Among the federal aid projects Beaufort wants in 1937 is an underground chamber where its citizens might hide in the event of an air or gas attack in time of war. The project was included in a list for this area decided upon at a meeting of civic leaders today. Beaufort, being situated on the coast, it was asserted, is a strategic point for advancing air attacks from the Atlantic.

KING'S GRANDSIRE FAMOUS FOR HIS PRINCELY LOVES

Recall Lily Langtry and Mrs. George Keppel.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

When King Edward VIII. was born the late Kier-Hardie, socialist member of parliament from West Ham, may have been more of a prophet than he knew. Dissenting on principle from a resolution of congratulation in the house, he said:

"The assumption was that the newly born child would be called upon, some day, to reign over this great empire. But, up to the present, we have no means of knowing his qualifications or fitness.

"From his childhood this boy would be surrounded by sycophants and flatterers by the score, and would be taught to believe himself of a superior creation. A line would be drawn between him and the people he would be called to rule over. In due course he would be sent upon a world tour, and a morganatic alliance would follow, and the end of it all would be the country would have to foot the bill."

Compared With Grandfather.

The present king has often been compared in temperament, in the attraction which the society of lovely women has for him, to his grandfather, Edward VII.

Sir Sidney Lee, one of Edward VII.'s biographers who is the least sycophantic, writes of him:

"Of criticism he had his fair share—it was mainly directed at his private life and his so-called plans for the encirclement of Germany. What lad 'cribbed, cabined and confined' as he was to the date of his marriage, would not have flung loose into the joyous intoxication of the social whirl?

A Defense of the King.

"What man, so full of energy as he was, when debarred by virtue of his birth and the jealousy of his mother [Queen Victoria, whom he succeeded on the throne on her death in 1901] from an all absorbing occupation, would not have turned his energies and attention to the exhilirating attraction of the present? One's sympathy goes out to any man who, when debarred from any active participation in affairs, is at the same time the center of a swarm of temptations such as few men have to endure.

"It is a tribute to the fibre of the king's character that, in spite of temptations which would have ruined a less virile man, he acquired the full art of kingship by his own tenacity of purpose. One can point to no dominating shadow behind the throne. It was his view that British interests must come first."

Affair with "the Jersey Lily."

One of the temptations that fell across Grandfather Edward's pathway when he was prince of Wales was the Jersey Lily, as the late Lily Langtry was known after her portrait by Millais. She was a flawless peach on the tree of beauty.

The future king met this tempting creature at a supper given by Sir Allen Young, an arctic explorer, and later made her one of the intimate circle of "the Marlborough House set." George Buchanan Fife writes:

"The prince of Wales, always an ardent admirer of lovely women, lost little time in expressing his admiration for her. He lifted her to the highest social distinction and delighted in it."

She is described by one historian as "a woman of striking figure, well-proportioned and lithesome—shapely and finely poised was her head. Her face was oval and long. Delicately and finely chiseled was every feature. Her greatest charm was her pure-white complexion [the gift of the wind and sun and fog of the island of Jersey, where she was born.]"

She had a Mae West figure, abundant chestnut hair worn in a knot at the back of her neck and banged in front.

After she had acquired a fortune in funds and jewels and while she was still a reigning English beauty, Edward cooled toward her. The classical story is that she so far forgot herself as to drop a lump of ice down his back one night at a supper party. In her own memoirs she denies this and tells what happened:

"One of the most admired women of the time [not saying whether she referred to herself or not] was at a ball. It was the small hours and her waiting husband was getting bored. He hunted up his wife and found her, very wide awake, surrounded by a bevy of admirers, thoroughly enjoying herself. His suggestion that they should go home was, therefore, not received with enthusiasm. As he persisted and waxed rather warm in argument, she, when his back was turned, deftly dropped a spoonful of strawberry ice cream down his back to settle the question."

Came to United States.

When Edward dropped out of the picture Lily went on the stage. She later came to the United States and built a house in New York. When she was 47 she married Hugo Gerald de Bathe and subsequently became Lady de Bathe. She died in 1929 in Monte Carlo at the age of 77.

Maxine Elliott, American actress, was frequently mentioned among Edward's friends, but the one woman friend who remained in royal favor until the king's death was Mrs. George Keppel, like Mrs. Simpson, the wife of an untitled British subject, who met Edward two years before his accession to the throne. It is said that Queen Alexandra took her into the death chamber [1910] to see the king's body.

Sir Sidney Lee writes of the grace and beauty of the queen and of the vivacious court that she and the king set up after the gloom of the Victorian period.

Frequest Guest of King.

"Among the lesser ladies," he writes, "could be reckoned the wittiest, most elegant representatives of the fair sex, in whose society the king delighted. Among the frequent guests at Sandringham was the Hon. Mrs. George Keppel, who had married, when still a young girl, a younger son of the earl of Albermarle." [Younger sons of British peers are commoners.]

"The Keppels had long been a court family and the Hon. Mrs. George thus came early into contact with the court. Of Junoesque stature, extremely stately, with regular features and a lovely smile, mentally alert, clever in witty repartee, yet kind hearted to a high degree, Mrs. Keppel quickly won hearts—and kept them.

"Others who were warmly welcomed were Lady Paget, Mrs. Greville; Consuelo, duchess of Marlborough, the vivacious daughter of W. K. Vanderbilt of New York; Lady Londonderry, a stately and beautiful hostess; Mrs. Arthur Sassoon, Mrs. Willie James, who entertained lavishly at West Dean Park, and the acknowledged beauties, Lady Troubridge, Lady Lonsdale, and Mrs. Cornwallis West."

Sometimes Considered Abdication.

At Biarritz, where the king made annual visits as the duke of Lancaster, taking a floor in the Hotel du Palais, it is recorded of him in 1908 that he "lunched with Lady Troubridge, Sir Ernest Cassel, Mrs. Newman, and the Hon. Mrs. George Keppel."

The king always attended church on Sundays and was an autocrat in social affairs.

"With assumption of the crown," writes Sir Sidney, "the king lost some of his old elasticity and vivacity. Now and then he would wonder whether it would not be better to avoid a sea of troubles by abdicating, but Edward VII. was no coward and though times of depression came to him he quickly resumed his guise of the happy monarch, such as the world imagined him to be."

SUNBURN METER PERFECTED FOR VACATION SPOTS

Summer and winter resorts may now advertise the exact value of the sunlight which attracts their customers. Northwestern university's physics department has developed a "sunburnometer," an instrument which measures the intensity of the invisible ultraviolet sunburn producing rays.

The machine, which was designed by Profs. Walter S. Huxford and Robert Cashman, is for use primarily in hospitals to test the value of sun lamps and other therapeutic units, but it also can be used to measure the ultraviolet content of sun rays. The scientists plan to make a study of Florida and California resort sunlight.

BRITISH BUSINESS TO LOSE MILLIONS BY ABDICATION

Industrial Area Has Big Stake in Coronation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 9.—The abdication of King Edward VIII. of England will cost British manufacturers and business men more than $250,000,000, according to some estimates, and this industrial section of the country was in a state of great anxiety tonight.

The work on special coronation articles was halted six days ago, except where the products could still be used if the king to be crowned were not Edward.

Where possible, manufacturers shifted their workers to general tasks in which the king's portrait or the royal cipher or name were not concerned.

Many Workers Idle.

In many cases, however, the work had to be halted completely to avoid the risk of losing almost the entire investment, and the result is that workers are idle and wages and overhead expenses are being lost.

Manufacturers say it will be possible to dispose of much of the huge stock of wares already completed, but at greatly reduced prices and with heavy loss.

A source of much worry to industrialists and financiers is the matter of future coronation plans. It might be possible to go on with them as scheduled, crowning George VI. instead of Edward VIII., but there would be many modifications, for it would be necessary to crown a queen consort as well.

Americans Face Loss.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Americans and others who have paid out money as deposits for seats along the processional route have no legal means of recovering their cash because of cancelation of the coronation ceremonies, it was said here tonight.

That matter rests entirely with the contractors.

This point was settled after a crop of lawsuits following the postponement of the coronation of King Edward VII. in 1902.

The grandfather of the present monarch fell ill and the celebrations did not take place as scheduled but at a later date.

Business men said, however, cancelation of orders for delivery of coronation goods might bring forth a fresh host of legal difficulties.

PAPER IN OHIO SPURNS NEWS ON WALLY AND KING FOR TWO WEEKS

Lancaster, O., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Lancaster Eagle-Gazette, which claimed distinction as the only newspaper in America to ignore what it called "gossip" on the affairs of King Edward VIII. of England and Mrs. Wally Simpson, defended its stand editorially today and declared that since the case had become legitimate news it had printed properly accredited stories.

The Eagle-Gazette for 14 days did not carry news of the Simpson affair on the grounds that it was purely rumor and idle gossip.

"We should like to point out," its editorial read, "that our editorial barrier against 'gossip' was influenced by a sincere desire not to suppress news of vital interest or portent, but to protect our readers from the merciless flow of balderdash to which American newspapers first succumbed in 'follow the leader' sequence. . . .

"We are not disciples of the popular news creed that an international affair d'amour constitutes top news interest to Americans.

"We believe, however, that such affairs, when catapulted to an imperial crisis scope, deserve full news coverage, which we have given since the first breath of authenticity permeated the English situation."

other millions of his subjects who somehow had the idea the king-emperor really ruled."

These sources emphasized the situation was not so black as painted by the most pessimistic, but on the other hand they know that Edward did yeoman service for the empire as "the royal drummer."

The coronation was expected, from a business point of view, to be a gigantic empire sales meeting.

London Gateway Club Omits Dinner Toast to King

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—For the first time a toast to "the king" was omitted tonight at a dinner at the London Gateway club. Instead, the presiding officer proposed a toast to the royal family, although "his majesty the king" appeared on the toast list.

Boys and Pup Run Away 12 Miles—to a Doghouse

Walter Scurlock, 10 years old, 811 North Mozart street, and Robert Miller, 8, of 706 North Albany avenue, ran away from their homes yesterday at noon, taking with them their dog Queen. At midnight the boys and the dog were found, cowering together in a dog house behind 3200 West 111th street, more than twelve miles away from their homes. They were discovered by H. Hofman, a real estate dealer at that address, who took them to the Morgan Park police. Their parents were notified.

SENATE EXTENDS 3 CENT SALES TAX AND ADJOURNS

Vote on Bill 35 to 5; Beat Lowery Confirmation.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10 [Thursday]. —[Special.]—After voting to continue the 3 cent sales tax until May 1, 1937, the state senate early this morning concluded the work of the second special session and adjourned sine die. The bill was approved, 35 to 5, drawing one vote more than necessary for immediate enactment. Having passed the house on Tuesday, it now goes to Gov. Horner for signature.

Approval also was given the administration's measure prolonging the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission as a fund allocating board until June 1. A third bill will retain the sales tax on public utility services and others made the necessary appropriations.

Senator R. V. Graham of Cicero obtained passage of his measures to permit his town to issue relief tax warants under the new township law.

Block Lowery Confirmation.

The legislative acts were almost overshadowed during sessions late last night and early this morning when Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, called parliamentary turns on adherents of Gov. Horner and blocked confirmation of the appointment of John M. Lowery of Chicago as chief grain inspector of Illinois.

Lowery was to have succeeded Timothy Kiley, who was removed last spring because of his support of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen against the governor during the bitter primary campaign. Apparently Kiley's removal still rankled the Kelly-Nash organization, for it fought the Lowery appointment.

Even that opposition would not have prevailed, however, had not Senator Ward displayed his knowledge of the senate rules. When confirmation was proposed by Graham late last night and was approved by a vote of 17 to 4 Ward dragged out the constitution to show that 26 votes were necessary.

Blocked on Second Attempt.

Then, when Graham made a second attempt early today, another legislative day, Ward came up with a rule to the effect that once an appointment has been refused confirmation it cannot be attempted save by request of the senate. Lieut. Gov. Donovan sustained both points.

Four special sessions have kept the general assembly on the go since October, 1935. In broad terms its accomplishments include passage of the following major legislation: Permanent registration, amendments to the old age pension law, the township relief tax, appropriation of $14,500,000 for relief, elimination of all functions of the relief commission save allocation of funds, passage of the health, comfort and safety laws, and extension of the three cent sales tax.

The second session just concluded extended 338 days and is believed to have been the longest special session in the state's history.

The Lowery incident made many wonder how far healed is the breach between the Kelly-Nash and Horner forces. Quiescent during the fall campaign, the primary enmity may be manifest again by actions of Ward and others of the Chicago Democratic bloc, who either voted with him or stayed off the roll call.

Ward is reported to have told the executive committee shortly before the senate session that "our organization [the Kelly-Nash group] is not for Lowery." He did not give a reason for this opposition on the floor of the senate, declaring instead that Senator George M. Maypole of Chicago, who made the original objection when Lowery's name was sent in by the governor several months ago, was ill and that the senate should not consider it until he could be present.

Opposition to Graham Grows.

Politics was an all day matter of interest for the senators over and above the mere legislative routine ahead of them. Of particular importance was a meeting of nine downstate Democrats to consider organization of the senate at the sixtieth session next month. Gov. Horner has announced support of Graham for a third term as president pro tempore, but the opposition to Graham by some of the conferees was said to be surprising.

James O. Monroe of Collinsville called the meeting at the suggestion of R. Wallace Karraker of Jonesboro. No decisions were announced, save that of inviting all downstaters to a second conference on Jan. 5, on the eve of the senate caucus.

Senator Maypole is an avowed candidate for the job. Ward is unannounced, but available. Some predictions were made that the president pro temporeship and the floor leadership be vested in the same man, the latter having been an empty title for several sessions.

MOVE FOR SAVING OF $750,000 A MONTH IN RELIEF

Take Aid from 20,000 Illinois Families.

Reclassifying of more than 1,000,000 Illinois residents who are now getting public aid will save an estimated $750,000 a month, beginning Jan. 31. This was revealed in a survey yesterday which indicated that at least 20,000 families will be cut from the rolls of three governmental agencies.

When the new alignment is completed the families still receiving aid will be divided as follows: relief, 140,000 cases; Works Progress administration, 162,000, and Resettlement administration, 10,000.

Most of the saving—about $500,000 a month—will be to state and local governments because of displacement of WPA workers by persons now on relief rolls. Federal expenditures will be cut through transfer of most drouth cases from WPA to RA at a lower monthly rate of payment plus elimination of many cases.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission, it was learned yesterday, has reviewed 24,000 WPA cases and that about 14 per cent of these will be cut off from any public aid. When the reviewing process is applied to all 174,000 WPA cases in the state it is expected that 17,000 jobs will be opened for persons now getting an average of $30 a month on relief. The WPA workers dismissed will be those whose families have found new sources of income in the last year.

Meanwhile, WPA is moving rapidly with its part of the revision. Since Nov. 14, more than 5,000 drouth cases have been crossed off the rolls, leaving 7,000 yet to be dropped. Not all of these will be picked up by the Resettlement administration, according to W. J. Carmichael, state RA director in Champaign, who said yesterday that if the families can borrow from any standard agency, the RA will not help them. The number to receive RA aid probably will be about 10,000.

POPE IS GAINING, BUT PULSE STILL CAUSES WORRY

Allowed to See Sister; May Sit Up Today.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Physicians attending 79 year old Pope Pius XI. kept a careful check on his heartbeats tonight to determine whether he will be able to sit up in a chair tomorrow.

Vatican announcements said the pontiff was gaining strength in his fight against the partial leg paralysis and the infirmities of old age which have kept him in bed since Saturday. A reliable source declared, however, that the irregularity of his pulse still occasioned some concern among his intimates.

In spite of the anxiety concerning his pulse, it was understood his holiness' condition was so much improved that his sister, Donna Camilla Ratti, was permitted to sit at his bedside tonight and talk with him for a short time. Hitherto relatives had been kept from seeing the pontiff.

Requests Food for First Time.

He was reported to have requested food for the first time since he was stricken. A cup of chicken broth was served to him.

Hot packs were being applied to his chest regularly to stimulate his circulation, and Dr. Amanti Milani, his physician, was working to prevent a spread of the swelling of his legs.

If the treatment proves effective, the holy father may be allowed to leave his bed for a time tomorrow. He will be compelled to remain in an armchair in his bedroom, however, as he is still unable to move his lower limbs.

His temperament has rebelled against lying in bed. Yesterday and today he wanted to get up, but Dr. Milani decided against that move.

"Everything Going Well."

"Everything is going well," said a verbal bulletin issued this morning. "Dr. Milani visited his holiness this morning and remains most satisfied."

Later in the day the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, asserted the pope's health continued to improve, but it declared he would have to take great care for some days.

Besides his physician, the holy father received only Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, secretary of state, before his sister was admitted.

Prelates said Cardinal Pacelli entered the sick room with a stack of documents, discussed various business with the pope for an hour and then said:

"I don't want to tire you. We will finish these later."

"No," the pope was quoted as replying. "We will finish them now." The conference was continued another half-hour.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE LEADS SOCIAL CREDIT NOMINEE IN ALBERTA

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 9.—(AP)—J. H. Tremblay, Liberal candidate in the Grouard district by-election, maintained a slim lead tonight over Dr. Willie Desrosiers, Social Credit nominee, but the final result may not be known for days. This was the first test of parties since the Aberhart social credit government came into power.

Latest figures showed a majority of 140 for Tremblay with four polls to come. With ballots counted and revised from 37 of the 41 polls, Tremblay had 1,688 votes, Desrosiers, 1,548. There are 353 voters registered in the four polls missing and in the 1935 pronvincial election, 164 voted.

It may not be until Dec. 17 that final figures are known. It was reported here deputy returning officers in two polls sealed their reports in ballot boxes instead of sending them to the returning officer for the precincts. If the report is correct it will mean the boxes will not be opened until Dec. 17 and figures made known.

14 DIE AS DUTCH PLANE CRASHES, BURNS; 3 SAVED

Hits Houses After Take-off Near London.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The British air ministry tonight ordered a thorough investigation into the crash of a K. L. M. [Dutch] passenger airliner which crashed and burned today, claiming fourteen lives. Three persons were saved from the worst disaster of its kind ever recorded in Great Britain. No Americans were aboard.

K. L. M. officials stated they did not know the cause of the crash, which occurred just after 10:30 a. m. near Croydon airport, where the plane had taken off in a fog for Amsterdam.

The plane was a Douglas DC2 monoplane, similar in type to the craft which was second in the England to Australia air Derby in October, 1934.

Autogyro Inventor Killed.

The three survivors were Fräulein Hilden Bongertman, stewardess; Mynheer van Bemmel, radio operator, and Walter Schuback, a German passenger. All were hospitalized.

Among the dead were:

Juan de la Cierva of Spain, inventor of the autogyro; Admiral Arvid Lindman, former premier of Sweden, who had come to England to act as deputy for King Gustav V. of Sweden at a Masonic function. Baron Gottfried Meyern-Hohenberg, who was going to Berlin to bid farewell to his former wife, Luli Deste, Austrian film actress. She is going to Hollywood.

The airliner had been delayed a half hour by fog. Shortly after 10:30 residents on Hillcrest road, at the edge of the airport, saw the liner looming through the fog, flying low. It skimmed the top of the first row of houses and then, with a crash heard a quarter of a mile away, struck the roof of an empty house, demolishing the upper stories and setting them afire.

Stewardess Jumps.

Amid a tangle of telephone lines, bricks, tiles, rafters and the shattered remains of a large tree the blazing fuselage plowed across a road and plunged into the fronts of two houses opposite, setting them afire. Firemen battled the blazes for more than three hours before they were brought under control.

Stewardess Bongertman flung herself from a window of the plane a second before the crash. She was found wandering about the street, little hurt.

Efforts to telephone ambulances and the fire brigade were frustrated by the collapse of wires. A hysterical woman rushed a half mile down the road to the nearest alarm to sound an alarm.

MADE WINDMILL PLANE.

Juan de la Cierva, who was killed in an airliner crash near Croydon yesterday, always enjoyed the opera and one night in Madrid became concerned with a windmill on the set, a clumsy affair whose blades heaved as they spun. He left the opera before it was completed and went to his workshop. His autogyro was the result.

It was the only important contribution to mechanical flight made since the Wright brothers invented the airplane. The young Spaniard believed firmly the autogyro would make flights safe and lead to cheap planes that could be landed in the back yard and parked in the garage.

Son of Statesman.

Son of a powerful Spanish statesman, Señor de la Cierva himself was trained for politics and was a loyal follower of former King Alfonso. De la Cierva even sat in parliament, but he devoted his life to aviation. Of his start he said:

"After the gliders I built many planes and in 1911 I built the first Spanish plane. In 1919 I built a three-motored plane. It crashed."

Until then all planes were built on the principle that they must get a good running start, then soar. Planes demanded too much landing space, so he began thinking of the helicopter. Every boy knew that if a toy pinwheel spun fast enough it would go up.

De la Cierva built his first autogyro on the pinwheel principle. The vanes revolved horizontally. The upward air currents kept the vanes spinning, and the vanes were mounted flexibly and had freedom to move up and down as they rotated.

Tested in England.

In 1920 he made his first test flights with an autogyro at Farnborough, England. In 1925, the British air ministry had an autogyro tested and purchased several. Later De la Cierva flew a gyro across the English channel and the future of his invention was assured.

He demonstrated a gyro in America at the insistence of Harold F. Pitcairn. Pitcairn engineers gave the machine its self-starter, apparently the major American contribution to the invention's evolution. In Philadelphia De la Cierva received the John Scott medal for useful inventions and the Cresson medal of the Franklin Institute.

In 1928 De la Cierva's autogyro crashed in France from an altitude of 1,000 feet, but he was not injured. The 1932 award of the Daniel Guggenheim gold medal for outstanding work for promotion of aeronautics was awarded to him.

KEEP UP SEARCH FOR 5 MISSING IN FRENCH PLANE

DAKAR, Senegal, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Air and sea searchers for the missing four motored airplane Southern Cross refused today to abandon hope of finding its five occupants alive.

They agreed that the plane, piloted by Jean Mermoz, noted French flyer, must have descended on the ocean after Mermoz reported by radio Monday that one of the motors had failed on the regular flight to Brazil.

Mermoz, however, is known as one of the most resourceful aviators in France and the searchers pointed out the chances of the Southern Cross remaining afloat were good.

Board of Health Doctor's Son Seized in Tavern Row

William B. Meyer, 24 years old, 901 Center street, son of Dr. William H. Meyer, a physician for the Chicago board of health, will appear in the Chicago avenue court today on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested in a tavern at Chicago avenue and Dearborn street as he was attempting to force the bartender to give him free drinks by displaying a gold star bearing the inscription, "Assistant to the Chief Justice of the Municipal court." Police said he threatened to have the tavern closed.

Jewels of Late Mrs. Gary Sold by N. Y. Museum

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—An estimated $475,000 in jewelry, left by the late Mrs. Emma Townsend Gary, widow of Judge Elbert H. Gary, the steel magnate, to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, has been sold to Harry Winston, New York gem dealer, and an unidentified purchaser. Despite stipulations by Mrs. Gary that the jewelry should never be sold and should be exhibited in her name, the museum obtained court permission to sell the collection on the grounds that it was unsuited for museum display.

ELMWOOD PARK WIFE IS FOUND SLAIN; 2 SEIZED

Police Hunt Mysterious Tavern Patrons.

Two ex-convicts were taken into custody early today by the state's attorney's police for questioning about the murder of Mrs. Lillian Klemz, 48 years old, wife of Charles A. Klemz, village trustee of Elmwood Park. Mrs. Klemz's battered body was found yesterday morning in a prairie in Norwood Park township. She had been missing since Nov. 28 from her home at 7806 Westwood drive, Elmwood Park.

The men seized are Charles Rose, 31 years old, and his brother John, 43, both of 2857 Dickens avenue. Both denied any connection with the crime and police did not explain the basis for their arrest beyond saying they would be held for the inquest today. Earlier police announced they were seeking three mysterious strangers who appeared at a tavern where Mrs. Klemz was seen shortly before her disappearance.

$500 Rings Stolen.

Mrs. Klemz's body was found lying beside a junk heap east of Oriole avenue, a little used country lane, and north of an extension of Wilson avenue. Mrs. Klemz's head had been crushed with a heavy stone, found near by. Two rings valued at $500 were missing.

Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police and Sergt. Frank Donohue of the coroner's office took Klemz, his son, Charles Jr., a Lane Technical High school pupil, and three other persons to the prosecutor's office for questioning about the last known movements of Mrs. Klemz.

Klemz Talks to Police.

Klemz, a stationary engineer at 531 North Dearborn street, told the investigators his wife was addicted to liquor and often stayed out alone until the early morning hours. So he was not surprised, he said, when she failed to return home on the morning of Sunday, Nov. 29.

Klemz said he reported his wife's disappearance to the Elmwood Park police before noon on that day, then went to a loop theater with his son. He waited until Sunday night before enlisting the aid of the Chicago police in the search. Klemz's statement was corroborated by his son.

The others questioned are Peter Bjelland and his wife, owners of a tavern at 7501 West Grand avenue, Elmwood Park, and Mrs. Elsie Foelker, 2134 73d avenue, Elmwood Park, a friend of the slain woman. They told police that Mrs. Klemz, accompanied by Mrs. Foelker, entered the tavern about 10 o'clock on the night of Saturday, Nov. 28.

Three Strangers Enter.

Mrs. Foelker left the tavern about 1 a. m., Bjelland said, and an hour later three men, whose names he did not know, entered the place. One of these men walked to a rear table, where Mrs. Klemz was sitting, and engaged her in conversation for ten minutes, according to Bjelland. Soon afterward, he said, the three men departed.

"At 3 a. m. I told Mrs. Klemz we were closing up," Bjelland related, "and I advised her to take a taxi home. She said she wasn't afraid, and started walking west in Grand avenue toward her home four blocks away."

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, said he learned the three strangers had been occasional customers of Bjelland's tavern during the weeks before Mrs. Klemz disappeared, but have not appeared at the place since then.

LOS ANGELES VOTES 2 TO 1 TO PURCHASE ELECTRICAL PLANTS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Los Angeles voters by a 2 to 1 margin approved purchase by the city for $46,340,000 of the electrical properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation.

Complete semi-official figures today on yesterday's special election gave 91,817 votes in favor of the proposal and 43,949 against.

The city will have a virtual monopoly on the sale and distribution of electric power, much of which will come from Boulder dam.

Also approved, 88,184 to 47,485, was a charter amendment to set up a pension system for employés of the municipal bureau of power and light.

The bureau and the utilities company agreed previously on the purchase price. The election authorized the bureau to borrow the needed money and repay it out of revenue.

The amendment for purchasing the big electrical system and merging it with the city's also granted 35 year franchises to three gas companies.

ASKS INJUNCTION BARRING THEATER PRIZE DRAWINGS

Attorney Thomas J. McCormick, who has offices at 127 North Dearborn street, filed suit yesterday in the Superior court, asking an injunction to restrain the Balaban & Katz corporation from conducting "prize nights" in their Will Rogers theater at Belmont and Central avenues.

The suit alleges that prize nights are in violation of the state and city lottery laws and are dangerous to the morals of Attorney McCormick's four children.

MEET TODAY ON PLANS TO CURB PAROLE ABUSES

Law enforcement officials, members of the legislature and of the Chicago judiciary will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the offices of Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, at 10 South La Salle street, to formulate plans for remedial legislation intended to halt Illinois parole abuses and scandals. The meeting will be the second of three.

The third meeting will be held with Chicago members of the legislature, according to Mr. Loesch, and the course of action decided on at today's meeting will be submitted to the legislators for drafting as a bill, to be introduced in the general assembly at its coming session.

Those Invited to Attend.

Those invited to the meeting this afternoon are: Judge John Prystalski of the Circuit court and Judge Robert C. O'Connell of the Superior court [both of whom now are sitting in the Criminal court]; State Senator Harold G. Ward, Democratic leader; State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican leader in the lower house; Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, and Benjamin Bachrach, public defender. Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court also may attend.

Judge Prystalski and Col. Chamberlin are members of the commission appointed by Gov. Horner several months ago to investigate Illinois penal institutions and workings of the parole system. They have held hearings and have interviewed prison and parole officials and are expected to contribute much valuable data at today's meeting. Their official report to the legislature, which convenes Jan. 2, is not expected to be made for several weeks, however.

At the first meeting in Mr. Loesch's offices, held about three weeks ago, Judge Prystalski assailed the state law that permits indeterminate prison sentences, leaves the trial judge powerless to fix exact punishment for a crime, and gives tremendous authority to the parole board.

Differences of Opinion.

Col. Chamberlin and Mr. Loesch are known to differ in their views of the present parole set-up. Col. Chamberlin believes the law is sound and that the blame lies with its administration. He also favors secret paroles to give former convicts the chance to reform. Mr. Loesch is against secrecy and believes the law should be revised. They agree, however, that paroled convicts should be kept under supervision for eighteen months.

Out of today's meeting, it is hoped, will come concrete proposals and a definite course of action so that the situation may be remedied by the legislature at its coming session.

BUSINESS IS A SCHOOL

By CALEB

A CHAIN store executive was showing us the records of some of his store managers. Two succeeding records were impressive by contrast.

Store Manager Duncan W—— had an almost uniformly high standing in every section of his report. His store rated high on the "physical check"—for cleanliness, neatness, and so on. He had a good record of keeping fast sellers on sale.

The "arithmetic" of his store was right. His stock of goods in proportion to sales, his low percentage of markdowns, his margin of gross profit—all these dovetailed well together.

Store Manager Oscar S—— had a spotty and unsatisfactory record. His store was below average on the "physical check." He was continually out of fast-selling items.

His sales were below average, his gross profit was unsatisfactory, his markdowns and merchandise not accounted for were high.

They were the same age—these men. They had been graduated from the same university. They had been with the chain organization the same length of time. They both had good personalities.

"Why are their results so different?" we asked. "Is W—— smarter than S——? Does he know the chain business better?

"No. S—— probably knows more about the business than W——! It can all be summed up in one sentence. W—— knows how to teach what he knows. He teaches his people and they profit by his knowledge. S—— knows, but doesn't give his people clear and adequate instruction."

WHEN a man carries executive responsibility in a business, it may be presumed he knows some things good for the business which his subordinates do not know.

If he is unable to pass that along to the benefit of his organization and the business, he is less than completely effective.

If a business man has capacity to teach as well as direct—the effectiveness of his organization is possible of progressive improvement.

Rightfully, all business is a school. The corporation executive—if he is modern, and building for the future—is properly as much an educator as the college president.

In our business, we believe there is no end to learning. Learning is made easy when responsible people can impart what they know.

FRANCE, BRITAIN OFFER PLAN TO END SPAIN'S WAR

Ask Germany, Italy and Russia to Help.

be due, first, to the hatred between the opposing Spanish forces, and second, to the presence already of thousands of Italian and German soldiers.

A reliable source close to Quai d'Orsay said tonight 25,000 German soldiers landed at Cadiz between Nov. 26 and Dec. 6. There is equally reliable information that 60,000 Italians are on the way.

Sees Fascist Delays.

The Quai d'Orsay does not believe that Berlin and Rome will flatly refuse but rather delay replying and be evasive in their answer, while hurrying further reinforcements to the rebel leader, Gen. Francisco Franco. It is also feared that the Italians and Germans will insist on getting paid for the money, men and munitions they have poured into Spain. Moreover Italians and Germans have said repeatedly they are determined to oppose with all means establishment of any "bolshevik outpost" in Spain.

A statement in the Paris leftist press, apparently inspired by the Quai d'Orsay, suggests that President Roosevelt and Pope Pius XI. may be asked to use their influence, the pope with the Spanish Catholics and Roosevelt with the republican masses. The French government's bold proposal is described in the press as the biggest diplomatic undertaking since negotiating the Versailles treaty.

Bombers Exchange Raids.

MADRID, Dec. 9.—(AP)—As bitter winds blew in from the snow clad Guadarrama mountains today fifteen government planes bombed advanced Fascist positions in the Casa de Campo, west of the city, and badly damaged the insurgent supply base at Campamento de Retamares. Twenty-three Fascist ships retaliated by pouring projectiles on the Barajas airport and government entrenchments along the Manzanares river.

In Guadalajara, northeast of Madrid, two French newspapermen lay seriously wounded in a hospital after a narrow escape when their airplane was shot down while en route to France.

Louis De-La-Pre, correspondent for Paris-Soir, and Andre Chateau, correspondent for the Havas [French] news agency, were the victims. Both were said to be in serious condition.

Chateau and De-La-Pre said they were unable to establish the identity of the machine which shot down the plane in which they were riding with a Dr. Henny of the Swiss Red Cross, two young girls, the pilot and the radio operator.

[The Spanish embassy in Paris asserted the craft was a German Junkers warplane. The Spanish government has accused Germany of aiding the Spanish Fascists.]

FOUR U. S. FLYERS SAIL FOR SERVICE IN SPANISH WAR

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—A third group of American aviators left on the French liner Normandie today to join the loyalist forces in Spain. Among four in the new group were Orrin Dwight Bell, New York, major in the United States army reserve corps; Dereck D. Dickinson, a former army pilot, and G. Allison of Houston, Tex. The name of the fourth was not available.

It is understood that like the others who left during the last two months they would leave for Paris immediately on arrival at Havre and then for Valencia by plane. Hiring of the four flyers was said to have been contracted on terms of $1,500 a month in American money, and $1,000 bonus for each rebel plane disabled or destroyed.

Among eleven pilots in the previous groups were Bert Acosta and Eddie Schneider of Jersey City. Friends of Acosta asserted recently that he is training American pilots in Valencia.

BROOKLYN EAGLE BECOMES OWNER OF TIMES-UNION

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The long rumored sale of the Brooklyn Times-Union, to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, was confirmed today in an announcement appearing in both newspapers.

Both newspapers will continue publication, with the Times-Union concentrating on news of Brooklyn and Long Island. The statement said the Eagle would "enlarge its news of national and world affairs, still maintaining its full local coverage."

No announcement was made of the purchase price, which involved only circulation and good will and not the printing plant or real estate of the Times-Union, but indications were that it was in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

PHILIPPINE FLOOD VICTIMS PERILED BY STARVATION

Quezon Proclaims 'State of Calamity.'

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 9.—(AP)—President Manuel Quezon proclaimed "a state of calamity" tonight in the flood-swept Cagayan river valley, while varying reports of the water's toll came out of the stricken area. Government agencies rushed relief preparations.

"Thousands of persons are missing," reported Capt. Victor Bilbao after a survey flight over the inundated valley. Bilbao said the flood was the worst in the history of Isabela province, with hundreds of houses swept away. The governor of the province, 100 miles from the river mouth, appealed for aid to prevent famine.

River Two Miles Wide.

Lieut. George Hansen, one of three army flyers who carried relief to the Cagayan valley victims, said the river ... spread, in places two miles over its banks in the flat country.

However, he said, "I think the reports of great loss of life are exaggerated, but I am not sure as I made only one landing. Undoubtedly there were considerable casualties." He said only twenty-seven bodies had been recovered.

From the air Hansen saw many houses had been carried away.

Relief Ship Prepared.

Aboard a ship in the China sea, President Quezon issued his proclamation as a step to prevent profiteering. It was designed to hold the price of necessities to the levels prevailing before the disaster.

The coast guard cutter Bustamenta got up steam to carry relief to sufferers. With 7,000 sacks of rice, medical supplies, and additional relief workers aboard, the Bustameneta will leave here tomorrow for Aparri, 300 miles north of Manila.

Reports 15,000 Homes Suffer.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Red Cross announced today receipt of a report from one of its representatives in Manila that 15,000 homes had been partially or wholly destroyed and 2,000 washed away in the recent storms which swept the Philippine Islands.

Charles H. Forster, director of the Philippine chapter of the Red Cross, cabled headquarters that 55,000 individuals were receiving Red Cross aid.

"The relief needs may reach the proportions of the October disaster," Forster said.

GERMANY MUST HAVE COLONIES, SCHACHT WARNS

Chief of Economics Cites Danger of War.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, economics minister, and right hand man of Germany's present economics dictator, Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, sounded an alarm in Frankfort today, demanding colonies and foreign markets for Germany.

He warned that the "peace of Europe and the world depends on whether or not the dense masses living in central Europe are given the possiblity to survive."

"The German people," he said, "are not willing to bear the pressure crippling their vital strength. An effort to use steady pressure to make a big nation shrink tends necessarily to social misery, unrest and finally to some kind of expansion."

Need Food and Materials.

In just so many words Schacht stated:

"The Germans cannot wrest sufficient for the nation from the soil which Germany has now," and "the lack of industrial raw materials is even greater than the lack of foodstuffs."

Dr. Schacht was angered by "European statesmen who see the European situation under the heading: 'Democracy vs. Fascism.'"

"The question is not whether nations get fed under the slogan of Fascism or democracy," he said. "The question is to see that they do not get fed. It is easier to influence a well fed nation than one that is starving."

Dr. Schacht pointed out that the provinces taken from Germany under the Versailles treaty were her richest provinces, from an agricultural point of view. He insisted that if Germany's colonies were returned to her she would be able to grow a great part of the raw materials and foodstuffs which she needs.

Improves Over France.

Dr. Schacht cited figures showing that Germany has increased the productivity of her soil far beyond her neighbors, France and Poland, though originally German soil was less productive than theirs.

"If France used our methods she would increase her production by one-third or one-half. Poland could increase hers by one-half to three-quarters," he said.

Dr. Schacht asserted that Germany reached the top limit of her agricultural production in 1933, the first year of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's reign, and that "the last three years has shown that this top limit cannot be surpassed."

Bids for World Markets.

Speaking of Germany's demand for a greater share of the world market, Dr. Schacht warned, "This problem is threatening the peace of middle Europe." He was especially bitter at the British diplomats who think "these foodstuffs and raw materials of the big nations should be left to the mercy of some of the big powers, willing or unwilling to distribute foodstuffs and raw materials which are needed.

"Every politician should realize that no proud nation can accept this voluntarily," he said.

Those who advise Germany not to increase congestion by systematically increasing the birth rate were told by Schacht that "restriction of the birth rate is a crime against God and the nation as long as there are enough possibilities in the whole world to feed the peoples living on it. Exploitation of all the possibilities is rendered impossible by the politicians."

CUDAHY REMAINS DANGEROUSLY ILL AFTER OPERATION

The condition of Edward A. Cudahy, chairman of the board of the Cudahy Packing company, who is critically ill at St. Luke's hospital following an emergency appendectomy, was reported "unchanged" last night by his physician, Dr. George H. Coleman.

Mr. Cudahy, who is 76 years old, was stricken Tuesday morning in his home at 22 Banks street and was removed immediately to the hospital, where Dr. Coleman and Dr. Selim W. McArthur performed the operation. His condition was said to be dangerous because of peritonitis.

JEHOVAH WITNESS ARRESTED.

Cecil Morris, 25 years old, 1139 North Dearborn street, a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect, was arrested yesterday for operating a sound truck at 65th street and Ellis avenue without a permit.

'SPARED HITLER,' ASSASSIN CLAIMS AT SWISS TRIAL

Feared Penalties on German Jews.

CHUR, Switzerland, Dec. 9.—(AP)—David Frankfurter, on trial for the killing of Wilhelm Gustloff, the German Nazi leader in Switzerland, testified tonight he decided not to assassinate Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels "because it would cause too great suffering among Jews in Germany."

Hunching his shoulders and nervously dabbing his face with a handkerchief, the 27 year old Jugo-Slav Jewish medical student admitted the slaying of Gustloff, last Feb. 4.

He insisted that he acted alone and that he was inspired by the personal conviction Gustloff should be "removed."

Declares Slayer Sane.

A psychiatrist, J. B. Joerger, told the court Frankfurter was responsible for all his acts although he suffers from a form of tuberculosis and is constitutionally weak.

Frankfurter is subject to mental depression, Joerger declared, and apparently planned the assassination of Gustloff to forget his own personal worries—his failure in medical examinations, his mother's death and his poverty. The prosecutor asked a sentence of 18 years in opening the case. The limit in the Swiss cantons is 25 years.

Judge Antoine Ganzone confronted Frankfurter with a note, written in Slavic on the back of a cigaret package, saying:

"I am going out to do one or two shootings. The time for judgment has arrived."

The over-wrought Frankfurter admitted writing the note, but said he did not remember when. Under questioning he testified it was addressed to no one, but was merely a personal memorandum.

Wife's Story of Killing.

Police assert Frau Gustloff told them this story of the killing:

Frankfurter appeared at the door of the Gustloff home at Davos and asked to see the 40 year old Nazi leader. She showed him into her husband's study.

As soon as the door opened, Frankfurter drew a pistol from his side pocket and fired five shots. Four struck Gustloff in the head and the fifth severed the carotid artery in his neck.

The slaying of Gustloff brought a protest last February from the German ambassador to Switzerland, and the Swiss government replied with a ban on the Nazi organization in the country.

DELAY SERVICES FOR DR. HARVEY, KILLED IN CRASH

Three Others Injured as Auto Hits Pole.

Funeral services for Dr. Frederick Harvey, 46 years old, prominent physician and surgeon, who was killed early in the day when his automobile crashed into a trolley pole in Mackinaw avenue at 92d street, were held in abeyance last evening pending the recovery of Dr. Harvey's wife, Vera, 30 years old, and their son, James, 5, who were injured in the accident. Also injured seriously was the family chauffeur, Norwood Wilson, 24 years old.

The Harveys had left their home at 2608 Lake View avenue at 4:30 a. m. to drive to Rutan, Pa., to visit Dr. Harvey's mother, Mrs. Theresa Harvey.

Dr. Harvey at Wheel.

Dr. Harvey was driving the car, according to police who were attempting to learn the cause of the accident. The coroner's inquest was continued yesterday until Feb. 23 to permit the injured persons to testify.

The child was thrown through the top of the car, a convertible sedan, and incurred only minor injuries when he landed in a sandpile. Firemen had to use axes and crowbars to extricate the others from the demolished car. All were taken to the South Chicago hospital, where Dr. Harvey died of a crushed chest.

Dr. Harvey was a staf member of the North Chicago Community hospital. He had practiced medicine in Chicago since 1915.

With British During War.

During the world war he served as a captain in the Royal Army Medical corps of the British forces from 1916 to 1919. He was a fellow of the American Medical association and of the American College of Surgeons.

On May 23, 1930, Dr. Harvey incurred minor injuries when the airplane in which he was flying to the bedside of a patient crashed near Crawfordsville, Ind. The pilot, Harold Mayer of Lake Forest, was killed and Mrs. Louise McCusker of Chicago, who was taking Dr. Harvey to operate on her mother, injured in an automobile accident in Valdosta, Ga., also was injured.

CHASED AT 75 M. P. H. BY POLICE, SPEEDER IS FINED $100 AND COSTS

Earl Sutherland, 37 years old, 9748 Vanderpoel avenue, arrested early yesterday after a chase by a police squad, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht in Trafic court on a charge of speeding 75 miles an hour in Western avenue near Howard street. Police testified that Sutherland did not stop his car until after five warning shots had been fired.

"I admit I was going fast," Sutherland declared, "but I didn't know police were chasing me until I heard the shots." Sutherland said he is employed as assistant executive secretary of the Cook county Republican central committee.

In Safety court Judge Charles S. Dougherty found Mrs. Harriett Nau, 58 years old, 520 Madison street, guilty of driving while intoxicated and announced he would hear arguments on a motion for probation today. Mrs. Nau is the wife of John Nau, 70 years old, a WPA worker. In another case Andrew Griffin, 43 years old, 17 South Karlov avenue, a roofer, was sentenced to serve ten days in the county jail for driving his car while intoxicated.

Prusinski Is Appointed Chief Deputy Coroner

The appointment of Anthony C. Prusinski as chief deputy coroner was announced yesterday by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. He succeeds Victor L. Schlaeger, who was elected clerk of the Superior court on Nov. 3. Prusinski has been an assistant to Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board. He is 35 years old and lives at 2042 North Winchester avenue. He was recommended for chief deputy coroner by the Polish central committee.

GIRL, 24, KILLED, WOMAN IS HURT AS CARS CRASH

Miss Ruth Holhurst, 24 years old, 6908 North Ashland avenue, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into the rear of another car in McCormick boulevard near Church street, Niles Center. She died early today in St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

Miss Holhurst was a passenger in a machine driven by Mrs. Howard Quinlan, 26 years old, 817 Washington street, Evanston. Mrs. Quinlan was seriously injured in the crash. Her car struck the automobile of Ernest Morgan, 5518 Winthrop avenue, which was being driven by his chauffeur, Don Rossman of the same address. Niles Center police were unable to question Mrs. Quinlan to learn the cause of the accident.

Child Killed on Sidewalk.

Cathleen Shackley, 4 years old, 403 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, was killed and her brother Edward, 2 years old, was injured seriously yesterday when they were run down by an automobile which skidded on the icy pavement and climbed over the curb at Kenilworth avenue and Washington boulevard in the suburb.

Oak Park police held John Antone, 22 years old, 216 South 4th avenue, Maywood, driver of the car, for the inquest today. Witnesses said Antone was traveling about forty miles an hour when his car went out of control as he attempted to pass another machine.

Carl Granzow, 33 years old, 9844 South Leavitt street, receiver of the Lake County National Bank of Libertyville, was seriously injured yesterday when his automobile collided with one driven by Chief of Police R. H. Gohrsch of Franklin Park. The accident happened in Milwaukee avenue south of the Libertyville city limits.

Chief Gohrsch's wife, Anna, was also injured.

John Zileta, 52 years old, 7614 Dorchester avenue, was killed last night by an automobile which struck him as he walked with his pushcart in South Chicago avenue at Dorchester avenue. The automobile sped on and a moment later collided head-on with a car driven south in South Chicago avenue by Lawrence Duggan, 31 years old, 7207 Exchange avenue. The hit and run driver abandoned his car after the crash and fled on foot. Police were seeking him after tracing the license number of the abandoned car.

Peter Setze, 6418 North Seeley avenue, was killed yesterday when his automobile overturned after striking a truck near Dwight, Ill.

Frank Kuloch, 49 years old, 4832 South Bishop street, died last night in the Chicago hospital from injuries incurred Sunday when he was struck by a hit-and-run automobile driver at 49th street and Loomis avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 969 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 736 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 18,409 persons were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

MAJ. BERRY'S NEW INDUSTRY PARLEY WILL OPEN TODAY

Recalls Fiasco at First Meeting Last Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The second annual industry conference sponsored by Maj. George L. Berry, President Roosevelt's industrial coördinator, will open here tomorrow with a program somewhat veiled in mystery but with government control over industry as its central theme.

The same show last year ended in a tumultuous walkout of business men when their requests to be heard were refused by the coördinator, shouting and trying to be heard from his platform.

Berry's ambitions, according to administration sources, prompt him to try again this year. Berry is the head of Labor's Non-Partisan league, which was for President Roosevelt in the last election, and he is said to have his eye on the governorship of Tennessee. In private life Berry is president of the printing pressmen's union.

Roper Will Not Attend.

The administration itself showed a distinct chilliness toward Berry's plans and the coldest of all was Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, who has his own ideas about telling business what to do.

The secretary added weight to the knowledge that he and Berry are engaged in a sub rosa feud when he disclosed at a press conference that he would not attend the sessions of the council.

Roper had received an invitation yesterday to attend a Berry banquet tomorrow night but it came so late that two other engagements had previously been accepted, according to the commerce secretary. He issued a formal statement pointing out that other groups were moving toward the same objectives as Berry.

Other Activities Cited.

Roper called attention to the meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers tomorrow in New York.

The executive committee of the advisory council is now studying President Roosevelt's suggestions for the coöperation of business in reducing unemployment, Roper said. The committee will meet Dec. 16 to bring together their individual suggestions and to report to the President soon after his return from South America.

Roper shied away from any position on revival of the NRA. He said he wanted to see a departmental report on the subject, which will be completed early in January, before commenting.

The possibility that the Berry conference might propose NRA restoration in some form, however, was seen by a group of professors, churchmen, and economists who issued a protest.

Coming to Chicago

[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Official confirmation of the transfer of Rear Admiral John Downes from Great Lakes Naval Training station to cruiser division No. 7 of the Pacific fleet at Long Beach, Cal., was received here yesterday. Admiral Downes will be succeeded as commandant of the training station by Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis of the Naval War college at Newport, R. I. Admiral Downes is to leave Chicago on Dec. 23 and assume his new post by Jan. 2.

PEACE EFFORTS LOSE GROUND IN MARINE STRIKE

Hopes Dim on West Coast —Ships Sail from N. Y.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Peace agreements appeared almost within reach of coastwise ship operators and maritime unions today and then faded as government officials attempted once more to bring about a resumption of negotiations between strikers and off-shore lines.

The Masters, Mates & Pilots union voted on whether to accept the coastwise shipper's proposal involving a wage increase.

The San Francisco local rejected the proposals, 282 to 9. E. B. O'Grady, president of the local, said he had not heard from other coast locals, but expressed belief the vote would be similar.

New Rules Hamper Peace.

Complications entered the peace situation in the form of new government regulations governing the hours of seamen.

The bureau of marine inspection and navigation prescribed an 8 hour day for licensed officers and various classes of unlicensed ship's personnel, excepting cooks and stewards. It made no provision for payment of overtime wages.

Observers said the ruling, to be effective on Dec. 25, developed a debate among the Masters, Mates & Pilots as they considered the coastwise peace offer.

Sailing Is Blow to Strikers.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The United States liner President Roosevelt, carrying 3,500 tons of freight and 11,152 bags of mail, sailed today while 200 seamen, followers of the insurgent strike strategy committee, staged a mass picketing demonstration.

The strikers made every effort to prevent the sailing of the Roosevelt by urging her crew to join the walkout, which has been outlawed by the International Seamen's union. Their failure to do so was another in a long series of defeats the strikers have met in their efforts to hamper the departure of United States line and other American flag vessels.

GIRL FACES MENTAL TEST.

Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Women's court yesterday ordered a mental examination for Mrs. Evelyn Joyce Gerner, 23 years old, of Eureka, Cal., who took an overdose of sleeping tablets in a restaurant at 1732 South State street.

DEATH PENALTY IN "STOMPING" SLAYING VOTED

Hazlehurst, Ga., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Lawrence Ward, 51 year old itinerant repair man accused of "stomping" his 14 year old stepdaughter to death because she had a date, was convicted of murder today and sentenced to die.

The jury deliberated fifty minutes. Judge Gordon Knox fixed the execution date at Jan. 29. The defense moved for a new trial and a hearing was set for Jan. 15 on the motion.

Ward, stolidly calm, received the verdict apparently without immediately comprehending its meaning.

As the foreman pronounced the finding Ward turned to Sherif Dan L. Evans and asked, "What was the verdict?"

"Guilty," said the sherif.

"What does that mean? Does it mean I'm going to the electric chair?" Ward continued.

"It looks like it does," the sherif told him.

Ward's expression never changed.

Twelve year old Shelley Salters, the brother of the girl, Maude, was the principal witness against his stepfather.

FATAL BURNS CALLED ACCIDENTAL.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday at the inquest over Louise, the 15 month old daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Hulsey. The baby was burned fatally during a fire in the Hulsey home at 2053 James street on Tuesday.

PRISONER FLEES; 2 STATE PAROLE OFFICERS 'FIRED'

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 9.—(AP)—A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of welfare, tonight announced the discharge of two parole officers from whom Roy Cunningham escaped en route to Joliet penitentiary.

They were Paul Starne of Springfield and D. B. Kelly of Peoria, Ill. Cunningham, a paroled burglar from Decatur, Ill., was being taken to Joliet yesterday as a parole violator in an automobile driven by Kelly. About ten miles south of Joliet he whipped out a pistol, obtained the keys to his handcuffs and forced the officers to drive him to Chicago.

When Kelly's car figured in a trafic collision Cunningham leaped out and fled.

Cunningham had been arrested Friday night in Decatur for carrying concealed weapons.

ZINTAK JURORS TELL JUDGE THEY CANNOT AGREE

But He Orders Them to Try Again Today.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

After twenty-two and a half hours of almost continuous debate the jury in the trial of Frank V. Zintak, ousted Superior court clerk and a former Democratic political leader, sent word to Robert C. O'Connell in Criminal court that it was unable to agree. The judge, however, refused to discharge the jury. Instead he ordered the jurors locked up for the night, reporting to him again this morning in the hope further deliberation might bring an agreement.

"The jury has come to the decision that they are unable to reach a verdict," said the communication which was handed to Judge O'Connell at 4 p. m., signed by the foreman, H. T. Barrett, 6511 North Sacramento avenue.

A hot argument followed in the judge's chambers. Prosecutor Robert Wright demanded that the jury be discharged forthwith, making the case a mistrial, which would permit the state to try Zintak again on the same indictment, which charges the specific embezzlement of $10,500 in escrow funds in the Superior court clerk's office. This is one of a series of similar indictments charging embezzlements totaling $26,500.

Holds Hope for Acquittal.

Defense attorney wanted the jury to continue its deliberations, apparently in the hope that the minority, which is reported to be holding out for conviction, could still be swung over to a "not guilty" verdict.

The bitter debate centered around a ruling made by the court after the jury retired Tuesday night, refusing to permit the state to send exhibits to the jury room, including documentary evidence which the state says upholds the proof of the embezzlement charge.

Prosecutor Wright's attitude was that there was no need to prolong the deadlock which he said was hopeless unless the jurors received the exhibits it asked for.

Prosecutor Wright and Attorney Short shouted at each other until the judge interrupted, addressing the prosecutor:

"You might also have noted in the record that this jury has at no time asked for the exhibits."

"I do not see the pertinency of that," replied the prosecutor.

"I do, and that is all on the subject," said the judge.

Apparently the judge was referring to the fact that the only request from the jury came late Tuesday night when it requested a transcript of the testimony of Judge Michael Kasper, who was a defense character witness, and who on examination admitted he received pay advances from Zintak. He said he thought it was a personal loan.

A Second Heated Debate.

The final decision to lock the jury up for another night came at 5 p. m. after a second spirited session between the judge and the prosecution in which First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley came personally to protest against further deliberation. The judge shouted, and admitted he was purposely shouting, to silence the prosecution protests.

"This jury is hopelessly deadlocked," said Crowley. They have deliberated for 24 hours without the exhibits. The state objects to the jury being kept over night."

"The matter is ruled on and it's final," the judge shouted. "If I have to shout, I will." With this he put on his coat and started home.

Report Jurors Stand Firm.

Reports about the courtroom were that the jury made little progress after it reached a standstill in its debates soon after retiring at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday night. According to these reports the jury fluctuated from time to time from 8 to 4 to 9 to 3 for acquittal. One juror is reported to be undecided, or swinging from one side to the other.

Zintak was in court practically all day, surrounded by a group of faithful friends, who have attended every session of the three weeks trial.

As the day wore on Zintak left the courtroom at intervals with his friends. Defense Attorney Short, however, kept a constant vigil in court. The other defense attorney, George Guenther, did not appear yesterday.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday refused to comment on the outcome of the case. However, it was reported that Zintak will have to go through at least another trial in the near future on one of the five indictments pending against him.

In this respect his case materially differs from that of Robert M. Sweitzer, also a one time Democratic wheel horse, who was tried and acquitted by a Criminal court jury a year ago on a charge of withholding more than $500,000 of the funds of his office. Sweitzer was named in only one indictment and his acquittal ended the prosecution.

His shortage was not repaid. Zintak repaid all of his before he was placed on trial.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE DONATES ITS LIBRARY TO NORTHWESTERN U.

Most of the general library of the Republican national committee has been donated to Northwestern university and will be housed in the Charles Deering library on the Evanston campus, it was announced yesterday by Theodore W. Koch, university librarian. The collection consists largely of pamphlets, mimeographed material, and newspaper clippings and mainly is concerned with statistics of the federal government, especially in the fields of agriculture, commerce, labor, finance and emergency relief.

GEN. DENHARDT FREED ON BAIL IN FIANCEE'S DEATH

New Castle, Ky., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, charged with the murder of his pretty fiancée, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, was released on bail today by Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall. The prominent soldier-politician had been held in jail at Louisville since Nov. 20.

Bond was fixed at $25,000, with the general's long time friend, Dr. A. T. McCormack, director of the Kentucky health department, as surety.

The commonwealth joined the defense in the motion to allow bail, apparently as a strategic move to thwart any attempt that might be made to make the prosecution disclose secrets of its investigation into the mysterious death of the socially prominent woman.

The 60 year old general was arrested in the Henry county courthouse here on Nov. 12, six days after the fatal shooting.

PLAN BUSINESS SCHOOL IN OLD JONES BUILDING

The Jones school building, Plymouth court and Harrison street, abandoned three years ago, will be reopened next September as a commercial high school, Superintendent William H. Johnson announced yesterday. Training will be provided each year to 500 third and fourth year pupils, boys and girls, he said. To be eligible for entrance they must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their classes.

At a meeting of the school board yesterday, three teachers were appointed to assistant principalships. They are Pearl K. Nims, to the Alcott elementary school; Mrs. Geraldine Jacobus, Budlong school, and Mrs. Henrietta O. Burns, Nash school.

The automatic retirements of Thomas J. Plant, principal of the Reilly elementary school, and Marcella Sullivan, assistant principal of the Byford elementary, were accepted.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

AN UNUSED WEAPON.

The progress made by medical science in the last century constitutes, in its aggregate, one of the greatest of human achievements. Thanks to the work of Pasteur, Lister, and a host of others, the average life in this country has been prolonged by twenty years or more. In 1800 the average span of life was 33 years. At the end of the next fifty years it had risen only to 39 years. But by 1900 the average life had been extended to 49 years and now it is not much less than 60 years.

That, of course, is only the crudest measure of the progress achieved. There is no way to measure the saving in pain, no way to evaluate relief from the terror of disease. The achievement has been so rapid that we sometimes forget that it could have been much more rapid if the knowledge acquired in medical research had been put to work as promptly as possible.

The point can be well illustrated by reference to cancer. Next after diseases of the heart and the circulatory system cancer is the most frequent cause of death in this country. Many cancers are curable provided their presence is detected soon enough and treatment is applied promptly. If people generally were alert to the danger the lives of thousands would be prolonged and a great deal of needless suffering would be avoided.

Obviously what is needed is public education in these matters. Obviously, too, one of the best means of educating the public is through advertising. Well written advertisments arrest the attention. The constant repetition of the theme eventually reaches its mark. If men and women are to become alert to the early symptoms of cancer and syphilis so that they can avail themselves of the scientific treatment now available, they must be instructed.

Readers of Dr. Heiser's "Odyssey" may have marveled that diseases like hookworm, for which the cure is perfectly understood, continue to play havoc with the populations in backward tropical countries. It would seem that human stupidity could not attain such depths. But we are not justified in assuming an attitude of superiority as long as the death rates from cancer, syphilis, tuberculosis and some other diseases continue as high as they are in America. Indeed, it can be argued plausibly that our stupidity is more profound. We know not only the cures, but the means of winning popular acceptance for them, but we fail to reap the full profit from our knowledge. Here literacy is almost universal and the population on the whole is well disposed toward scientific discoveries, but in spite of these enormous advantages progress against cancer and other diseases is very slow.

In this country medical advertising has received a bad name which it deserves only in part. Fraudulent medical advertising is as bad as or worse than any other kind of fraudulent advertising, but proper medical advertising could become an unequaled weapon in the war for public health.

How effective it might be is indicated by the improvement in habits of personal hygiene in this country in the last few generations. Any one in middle life or older cannot have failed to observe an improvement in cleanliness, in care of the teeth and hair, in eating habits, and in a host of similar matters now taken pretty much for granted. We do not always realize that this progress is to be attributed largely to constant repetition—in schoolrooms and newspaper and magazine advertising and latterly on the radio—of the rules for personal hygiene.

That accomplishment can be extended to take advantage of scientific knowledge of the prevention and cure of many of the diseases which still afflict mankind needlessly. The prejudice against medical advertising should be examined rationally. The enormous possibilities of advertising for the improvement of public health should not be lost because some kinds of medical advertising are vicious.

THE SPANISH IMPASSE.

A London dispatch announces that England and France have decided to try to arrange a joint appeal by five or six leading powers to the chiefs of the Madrid government and their opponents to cease fighting. The report is plausible in view of the apparent stalemate reached by the contending armies. The description of the situation at Madrid given TRIBUNE readers yesterday on the spot indicates a state of exhaustion on both sides. The people of Madrid have repeated Spanish history in making a heroic defense and the capital city is still in their hands. On the other hand, Gen. Franco has not retreated and if substantially reinforced and supplied from outside sources could no doubt force the defenses of the city. But that prospect has not been brightened since his recognition by Hitler and Mussolini. The filtration of men and munitions to both sides has produced no decision and its only result has been the prolongation of the military struggle and the progressive exhaustion of the country. At the same time it seems that forceful intervention by powers sympathetic with either party, Russia with the government and the Nazi and Fascist régimes at Berlin and Rome with the rebels, has become less probable.

If, as seems evident, an impasse has been reached, the sooner the killing and destruction is ended the better. But neither party wishes to make the first move and the British initiative offers a way of relieving that embarrassment. It is devoutly to be hoped both parties in Spain are at last ready to consider the cessation of violence and the possibilities of compromise. While passions and ambitions were flaming there could be no thought of compromise, but there has been a terrible blood-letting and the dreadful fever of civil war must be cooling.

NEW LICENSE PLATES.

Presumably all motorists who have been the proud possessors of license plates carrying low numbers have followed the usual custom of applying for 1937 tags prior to Dec. 1 to insure continuity. The state will receive these tax moneys a little ahead of time, but the amount is very limited. Other citizens, not interested in the number but who feel uncomfortable while carrying last year's licenses, will file applications between now and the end of the year. A still larger group will procrastinate until reminders appear in the press, and certain holdouts will wait until the police get tough. In the meantime, the state loses thousands of dollars in interest moneys awaiting the convenience of the delinquent majority.

In what manner can the method of awarding plates be arranged so as to encourage prompt payment? Of course, there will be a ready suggestion to arrest everybody carrying 1936 tags on Jan. 1, 1937, but this plan would work hardship on those whose finances are taxed to the utmost at the yuletide season. Let us preserve a Merry Christmas as something more than a mere salutation. As one correspondent has suggested, why not collect license fees for a half year next December, and, for the future, issue tags valid from July 1 to June 30?

Another recommendation comes from a reader who is "tired of the political monopoly of the low numbers." Under his plan the present system would be abolished and license No. 1 would be assigned to the first application received on Dec. 1. This scheme seems to rest on the theory that individuals want low numbers rather than a special number.

Several states have devised plans whereby plates can be purchased for longer periods than one year, while others have adopted a system of accepting payments in instalments. The whole matter offers an interesting field for public discussion, and THE TRIBUNE invites proposals. It appears certain that some plan can be produced whereby the state will not be obliged to wait an indeterminate time for this tax money without increasing the burden on the motorist.

AUSTRALIA'S OWN CONSTITUTIONAL TROUBLES.

At a time when the entire British empire is rocking on its heels Australia has a domestic and dominion trouble which probably for the time being is put in the background. It will reëmerge because it demands settlement. Americans can observe it with some sympathy because it is not unfamiliar to some of their own national uncertainties.

The Australian high court has ruled that the air navigation act is invalid as exceeding the authority of the federal parliament. This is only one of a number of questions involving the prerogative of the central government. There is a party which believes the federal authority should be extended to include wide powers in the control of industry and commerce, that authority now being limited to disputes extending over more than one state and to commerce between the states.

Efforts to obtain uniform action by the several states encounter many complications. At present the state rights feeling is too high to encourage the federal government to seek a drastic revision of the constitution, and the opposition is strong.

There is to Americans a familiar note in the statement that some of the state governments, particularly of the smaller states, are alarmed over the growing authority of the commonwealth government which threatens the diminution of their prerogatives and reserved powers. There is also a complaint Americans will find familiar which sets up that the states themselves have great difficulty in raising revenues sufficient for their numerous expenditures for local needs, such as education, roads, and policing, while the commonwealth government has more than sufficient revenue and conditions have imposed a financial dependence upon the federal treasury which the states must accept and do not like.

Editorial of the Day

THE SO-CALLED "KING'S MEN."

[Montreal Daily Star.]

It has been authoritatively declared by the British prime minister that the British dominions are entitled to a voice on the constitutional question involved in King Edward's desire to contract a marriage. It is safe to say that a large majority of the people of the various dominions were unaware of their government's privilege or rights in regard to that decision, but it is equally safe to say that those people with a full knowledge of the nature of the dispute between the king and his cabinet would declare by an overwhelming majority that the advice of the recognized advisers of the crown should be accepted.

If Mr. Baldwin and his ministers fail in their effort to uphold the constitution as it should be upheld, what should be the sovereign's opinion is apt to be influenced by the groups of schemers who want a political upheaval that will give them a chance to dictate. Of all the blows that could be directed against the welfare of Britain, one of the worst that could be imagined would be a victory by the groups that have been thwarted in every endeavor at destruction and are now urging the king to take their advice.

Incensed by the failure of their trickery in the past, they now grasp at the opportunity presented by the king's infatuation to destroy the empire. Admittedly these wreckers would gain their pet ambition if, by compassing Mr. Baldwin's resignation, they could secure for the empire a sovereign who might be grateful on future occasions for their help in the present crisis.

The king, being comparatively inexperienced in the serious functions pertaining to his office and being swayed by a dangerous romance, seems handicapped in forming a sound judgment. The so-called "king's men" are fully aware of their opportunity, and as mischief makers will offer the king a support based on personal ambition.

In the meantime, the opinion of the dominions may be asked. Our opinion is that they would decide by an overwhelming majority that the sovereign should accept the advice of the ministers who have been selected for his guidance and not that of the ambitious schemers who have been trying to control his decision.

BACTERIAL ASTHMA.

It is a perfectly laudable ambition to wish to acquire some characteristic that separates us from our fellow beings. The mechanic desires to be known not as an average but as an unusually skilled workman. Physicians are eager to excel in some particular field, hence the rise of specialism.

But sometimes we possess traits that are anything but desirable. A long time ago attention was called to the fact that disease does not affect all of us alike. Of a thousand persons afflicted with typhoid fever no two will behave in exactly the same manner. There will be certain similarities, but wide variations as well.

We may say then that the way we react to bacteria depends on ourselves—the many factors within us that cannot be weighed or measured. They are the intangible things embraced in the terms constitution, personality, disposition, habit, form, resistance, etc.

Why will one child of the family develop asthma while others remain free from symptoms? Presumably all are exposed to the same types of dust, infections, etc. When we observe a victim of this distressing malady [asthma] in a paroxysm we know we are not witnessing a pantomime. The wheezy breathing, the struggle for air, the overactivity of chest muscles present a picture which stands out boldly in contrast with normal health.

It is not that some rare toxin has attacked the patient, but that the individual himself has such a cell makeup that he responds vigorously to irritants so slight as to cause no symptoms in others. What we observe is the result of a sharp spasm of some of the bronchial tubes. Air is trapped within the lungs and the greatest difficulty is encountered when the patient tries to expel it.

In our search for the cause we test the effects of various foods, plant pollens, animal effluvia, dust, and bacteria. If the trouble arises because of undue sensitivity to eggs, these may be omitted from the diet. One can move away from the vicinity of noxious gases and certain offending proteins.

But the most obstinate cases are those which are due to a sensitivity which has been developed by the victim himself from bacteria growing within his own body. While many students of allergy have denied the importance of bacteria as a cause of asthma, evidence is accumulating that cannot be gainsaid. We have made a mistake, perhaps, in assuming that the condition can develop only from disease producing organisms inasmuch as recent reports have shown that almost any microbe can be responsible.

Each case must be investigated as a specific entity and the reaction checked for every bacillus flourishing in the body. This includes such areas as the nose and throat, the colon, and the urinary tract.

Within recent years emphasis has been placed upon the use of doses of vaccines not large enough to cause the slightest discomfort either general or local. This is quite different from the huge doses—from five to fifty million killed germs—to which we have been accustomed. Large amounts may actually add to the toxemia and overwhelm the forces of the body designed to build resistance.

In a current report Dorst and Hopphan summarize their experience with this procedure in the treatment of 62 well established cases of asthma with a history of at least two years' duration. Every possible cause was eliminated except bacteria, and whenever a food idiosyncrasy was found that patient was removed from the group.

As a result of this small quantity vaccine plan, using a dozen types of microbes or more [each applied to its individual case] they report that 30 of the patients have had no seizures for more than two years. Twenty-two have occasional attacks, but are otherwise greatly improved. In 10 cases no effect was observed. These authors advise that the injections must be extended over a long period of time, the average in their series being 15 months.

NOT HABIT FORMING.

A. R. D. writes:

1. Is tincture of stramonium a habit forming drug?
2. What are its effects?
3. What disease is it supposed to relieve or cure?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. The action of stramonium is very similar to that of belladonna. It serves as a sedative and antispasmodic.
3. It is used as a remedy in spasmodic asthma, and in Parkinson's disease, which is called paralysis agitans.

CITIZEN OR NOT?

Chicago, Dec. 3.—[Friend of the People.]—I know a young lady who is 26 years of age. She was born in Europe. She never applied for citizenship papers, yet she has voted just like an American citizen. She came to this country in 1928. Her father received his citizenship papers in 1920 or 1921. She was in Europe at that time. The young lady claims that she is a citizen. Her mother, about three months ago, applied for her citizenship papers. How could this be? The mother is not a citizen and her daughter is. Will you please let me know whether the lady can vote? Is she an American citizen? C. A.

If the father was naturalized during the daughter's minority and she was legally admitted to the United States for permanent residence before she became 21 years of age, she became a citizen under such legal, permanent admission. Also, the naturalization of the father prior to Sept. 22, 1922, would confer citizenship upon his wife under the laws in effect at that time. In regard to voting, it is understood that citizens are eligible to vote if otherwise qualified.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—In reply to "Observer's" tirade I should like to say that I, too, had the idea that American women ought to organize in protest over the Wally affair, but for an entirely different reason. It is to be deplored that "Observer" and some others can see no reason why Wally Simpson should be rejected as a possible wife for King Edward excepting on the grounds that she is American born, for this attitude is probably in large part responsible for the ever-growing impression in European countries that American women take their marriage vows with no more intention of keeping them than of flying to the moon.

To the more intelligent observers it is quite apparent that if Wally Simpson were a twice divorced English woman and not an American at all, the opposition to her marriage with the king would be just as violent as it is now. Neither are these ideas Victorian. They are older than the Christian church itself.

When a married American woman allows herself to become involved to the extent that she threatens to disrupt a royal family, a nation, and even an empire, she not only reflects discredit on American womanhood but serves to undo the tremendous efforts for international understanding and good will that are being put forth today by countless numbers of America's superlative women.
OBSERVER II.

CAPABLE.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—After all, Wally is playing for high stakes, and as she has had two adventures already I believe she is perfectly capable of landing her fish.
MRS. ISABEL CAMPBELL.

TOO MUCH WALLY?

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Mrs. A. Shogren thinks we have "too much of Wally." She should appreciate THE TRIBUNE's allotting so much space to this real and authentic romance.

We in America buy expensive books on fiction romance of kings and queens, etc., and yet when we have news and stories of a real romance of a king and an American woman for only 2 cents—pictures included—some have to complain.

The majority, I am sure, look for more of Wally and Edward and appreciate the space THE TRIBUNE gives them.

REPLY TO "AN OBSERVER."

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 7.—I feel sure that if I went philandering around with another man's wife, vacationing from one country to another, or one state to another, I would end up behind the bars for violating the Mann act. Just how come a king can get away with it? Because both are birds of a feather. Certainly a married woman gallivanting around with another man, even though he be a king, cannot be referred to as representative of American womanhood.
ANOTHER OBSERVER.

CONTRAST.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Our boys were good enough to go over there and die by the thousands to save the British empire, honor, court, crown and all, but our women are just blasted commoners. Too bad. J. CHAS. BARBER.

AMBULANCES.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—It is inhuman and cruel to throw sick and injured persons in the bottom of police patrol wagons. Other cities have police ambulances, but not Chicago. I wonder why the city fathers have never thought of providing us with a few ambulances. A. E.

THE LIBRARIAN DEFENDED.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—As one who has found librarians both capable and long suffering I feel an outsider should come to their support against the criticism of a collegian whose letter appeared in this column. His initials do not matter, as his type is myriad. I have seen him by the dozen in the libraries, moving from card file to card file with a bovine eye, less intent upon the source matter he may be after than the proximity his search may give to some skittish co-ed.

He comes down on a Saturday morning, primed with a list of references that under ordinary conditions should require four hours of any person's time, and by a fatuous approach to the librarian expects to be led to his source matter instanter, and assimilate it all in time to gallivant the balance of the day along State street or Michigan avenue. One look at their preoccupied countenances makes one realize why school is not held on Saturday, and why professors require a two day week-end recuperation against the danger of nervous prostration. On the other hand the librarian must be at the young tyrant's beck and call six days a week, and sometimes seven, and must appear interested and concerned over the often very comical notes the student presents for his or her inspection before the card file search begins.

No, I am not a librarian.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 6.—Recently a Republican political broadcast made much of the fact that Polish ham was being sold in America, that Polish rye was being shipped here in large quantities, and that as a result the American farmers are the losers.

But this radio propaganda of prejudice and hypocrisy did not reveal the fact that for every dollar of exports to America Poland buys $20 worth of American products. On this basis American trade with Poland is all to our advantage.

What if Poland should now raise the cry of "Buy Polish"? Who would gain by such a narrow nationalistic trade policy? Nobody.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO.—The Imperial Institute for Nutrition, a government organ, has made it possible for factory workers in Japan to purchase a meal for 7 sen, which is equivalent to 2 cents, that is just as nutritive, if not more so, that the most elaborate and expensive repast partaken by the country's wealthiest gourmets and prepared by Japan's finest chefs.

Already thousands of poor Japanese factory workers and schoolchildren are being fed such meals—with amazing results. According to Dr. Tadasu Saiki, head of the institute, a marked improvement has been noted in the health of workers who ate the nutrition institute prepared meal regularly for even so brief a period as two months.

In Tokio and the main factory centers of Kawaguchi and Kiryu near by there are already three main central stations which supply meals for 2,500, 1,500, and 1,000 persons daily. Many large factories and mills also contract with the nutrition institute for meals, thus dispensing with their own kitchens.

It is Dr. Saiki's claim that the mere eating of expensive foods or even the eating of highly nutritive foods will not bring health. According to him you may even bring together exactly the same foods his institute uses for a given meal, and yet not obtain anything like the results from a nutritive standpoint, unless the proper food combinations are employed.

The fact that a whole meal is eaten in a matter of a few minutes does not alter the situation, Dr. Saiki states.

That is why Dr. Saiki recommends that his balanced, nutritious meals be eaten not alone by people who cannot afford more expensive foods, but by office workers, financiers and industrialists.

At the Imperial Institute for Nutrition, which is the first government-operated nutrition institute in the world, painstaking tests have been conducted over a period of years to determine what constitutes a balanced nutritious meal.

Scientists of the institute got together with chefs to prepare tasty meals. After these meals were prepared, experiments were conducted to determine how the human system digested various combinations of foods.

At first the meals were distributed to a small number of factory workers. The results proved beyond any doubt that the experiment in nutritious diets was a success. Since then the number of persons to whom these meals are sold has increased by the thousands.

Sickness among the factory workers was reduced to an almost unbelievable extent. In some cases, such as beriberi, a disease caused by a deficiency of vitamin B, the reduction was from 16 per 1,000 per year to a single case.

The height, weight and chest measurements of fifth grade primary school children increased in a period of 58 days by 9-100ths of an inch for height as compared with the average increase of 3-100th of an inch. The increase in weight was over double the average rate and the increase in chest measurements was about twice the normal growth.

These are official figures obtained in tests conducted by the Institute for Nutrition with the coöperation of the ministry of education.

Eating rice deficient in vitamin B results in beriberi, one of the most prevalent and at the same time dreaded diseases in rice eating countries. In the meals prepared by the nutrition institute this deficiency is made up by other products.

JEALOUSY SEEN AS MOTIVE FOR SLAYING BRIDE

Girl Friend Is Mute at Her Arraignment.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Two possible jealousy motives in the slaying of Elizabeth Giltner, 25, by her closest friend, Hope Morgan, 25, were being investigated tonight by the Michigan state police. Miss Morgan confessed to firing four shots into the body of Miss Giltner at the latter's home in East Lansing yesterday while the two were preparing invitations for Miss Giltner's wedding Saturday to Capt. David S. Babcock, U. S. A.

Both motives involve Capt. Babcock, 37, who is a member of the R. O. T. C. staf at Michigan State college in East Lansing. One theory was that Miss Morgan, who had been raised with Miss Giltner since childhood, was jealous because her chum was leaving her for marriage.

May Explain Her Actions.

This, police believe, did not take the form of any particular animus toward the handsome West Pointer. Though attractive, Miss Morgan had never had the popularity among men that was enjoyed by Miss Giltner and other girls in their circle.

As proof that the marriage of her girl companions preyed upon Miss Morgan's mind, police pointed out that she had written letters to four other girls who were married recently. In these letters, Miss Morgan attempted to offer the girls advice on domestic life, apparently feeling that she was left "by the wayside."

The second possible jealousy motive was disclosed in the questioning of Capt. Babcock by the police. He denied that he had ever been alone with Miss Morgan and that she had ever had any reason to consider herself a rival for his affections. The police, although discounting this jealousy theory, planned to question Miss Morgan's father, Stuart Morgan, as to his daughter's friendship with the army officer.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Despite Miss Morgan's admission after her arrest that she fired the fatal shots on a "mad impulse," she pleaded not guilty today when she was arraigned on a first degree murder charge. Her attorneys were granted permission to have a sanity commission examine her, indicating the defense that will be offered at her trial. Miss Morgan is held at the Ingham county jail at Mason, 12 miles south of here.

Tonight in her cell Miss Morgan said she was anxious to be examined by the sanity commission and wishes to be placed in the Kalamazoo State hospital.

"I have lapses," she said, "when I'm afraid of all people. My mind has been a blank for three months. I studied psychology at Michigan State and I seem to have a lot of the symptoms I read about.

"I blow up inside and get those awful impulses to kill. Bessie [Miss Giltner] was a lovely girl, my dearest friend. I killed her. I couldn't help it.

"I have wanted to die for months. I tried to kill myself. Now I want to live. I want to fight this terrible impulse, to defeat it. I want to be sane and normal again like other girls—if I ever can."

Police officials were inclined to differ over the question of whether Miss Morgan is legally insane.

"When we first started to question her," one official said, "we believed she was insane and was trying to act sane. Now I believe she is sane and is trying to act insane."

Casts Pall Over Gayety.

The tragedy threw a pall over this city, the capital of Michigan, and college circles in neighboring East Lansing, where the two young women and Capt. Babcock were popular members of the younger set. Miss Giltner was the daughter of Dean Ward S. Giltner of Michigan State college and herself had attended classes there. Miss Morgan is a graduate of the college.

It was learned that on the night of Nov. 25—Thanksgiving eve—Miss Morgan attempted to commit suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping tablets. She was unconscious that night and all the next day. Police questioned Capt. Babcock concerning a report that he had been alone in the house with the girl Thanksgiving day, attempting to revive her, and was later aided by her father.

After the police questioned Capt. Babcock in private, Lyon quoted him as saying: "I was never alone with Miss Morgan. Her father summoned Miss Giltner and me to the house on Thanksgiving to help him in reviving his daughter. Mr. Morgan then left and we managed to bring Hope around."

Smokes Calmly in Jail.

Miss Morgan, a slim, attractive brown haired girl, maintained an appearance of bravado most of the day today. She calmly smoked cigarets as she posed for newspaper photographers. Her flashing black eyes were alert, however.

She was taken from the county jail at Mason this morning to the municipal court in Lansing where she waived preliminary examination. She was then taken immediately before Judge Leland Carr of the Ingham county Circuit court.

The girl stood mute when arraigned and Judge Carr entered a not guilty plea for her. Her attorneys then asked for the appointment of a sanity commission. The judge named a physician and a psychiatrist, both of Lansing, to make the mental examination and directed them to report on their findings by Jan. 11.

U. S. JURY HEARS THOMAS' DENIAL OF EXTORT PLOT

Frank R. Thomas of Parke Ridge took the witness stand in his own defense yesterday before a jury in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward to deny that he was the author of the two extortion notes demanding $2,000, which were mailed to Harry R. Kendall of Evanston, president of the Washington National Insurance company.

Federal agents arrested Thomas in his home at 325 South Prospect avenue in Park Ridge last Sept. 8, after his son, William, 12 years old, called for a decoy package which had been placed as directed, in a locker of the Park Ridge station of the Chicago and North Western railroad.

Yesterday he was called to the stand to tell his story after Judge Woodward had overruled a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty. Questioned by his attorney, W. H. Keeley, Thomas said he was employed as chief underwriter for the Great Northern Life Insurance company and was a consultant underwriter for a number of other companies, including Kendall's firm. He told of his civic activities in Park Ridge and how he had served as scoutmaster there.

the Santa Fe Super CHIEF

Since last winter the Santa Fe has drawn the Atlantic and Pacific 14 full hours—800 travel miles—closer together. Last May, when the sleek Diesel-drawn Super Chief inaugurated that long-sought less-than-40-hour schedule between Chicago and Los Angeles, it first became possible to journey by rail, coast-to-coast, with a loss of but two business days westbound; of but one-half of one day eastbound.

▶ Only three years ago, at this writing, the cost of a first-class round-trip ticket and lower berth, Chicago to Los Angeles and return, on a 61-hour, non-air-conditioned, no extra fare train, was $191.04. This winter, on the flashing once-a-week Super Chief, or the 50-hour daily Chief—swift, smooth, air-conditioned, with superb Fred Harvey dining car service—the same round-trip costs will be only $137.50, including the extra fares on these famous trains.

VICTORY MARGIN OF ROOSEVELT IS OVER 11 MILLION

Final Nov. 3 Returns Are Compiled.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Final returns from the presidential election, official in every state save one, showed today that the record-breaking vote amounted to 45,812,155. The record Roosevelt plurality was 11,069,699.

Only in Rhode Island, where litigation has kept the voting machines under lock, has no official count been made. Including the complete unofficial figures for that state, the totals are:

Roosevelt	27,751,612
Landon	16,681,913
Others	1,378,630
Lemke [Union]	891,858
Thomas [Socialist]	187,342
Browder [Communist]	80,181
Colvin [Prohibition]	37,609
Aiken [Social-Labor]	12,729
Scattering and void	168,911

Comparison with 1932.

In percentages, as compared with 1932, the parties stacked up this way:

	1936.	1932.
Democratic	60.7	57.3
Republican	36.4	39.6
Others	2.9	3.1

Both parties participated in the smashing of many records. The total was almost 6,000,000 more than was ever cast in a previous election and three times as many as the total in any election before 1916.

The Roosevelt-Garner ticket received almost 5,000,000 more than in 1932, when its vote was 22,821,857.

Landon and Knox won the second largest vote ever given a Republican ticket. Hoover and Curtis received 21,392,190 in 1928 and 15,761,841 in 1932.

Largest Plurality.

Carrying every state except Maine and Vermont for an electoral vote of 523 to 8, the victors' plurality was the largest ever given and almost 2,000,000 more than the total which elected Wilson in 1916. Roosevelt's plurality four years ago was 7,060,016.

President Roosevelt's 1936 plurality exceeded the total vote given any Democratic nominee prior to Alfred E. Smith's 15,000,000 in 1928.

The Union party candidates, representative William Lemke and Thomas C. O'Brien, polled less than a quarter of the votes received in the third party totals of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and Robert M. La Follette in 1924.

All minor parties showed declines this year. The best comparative showing was made by the communists, Earl W. Browder and James A. Ford, Negro, who had three-quarters as many votes as that party's 1932 candidates.

The Socialists, behind Norman Thomas and George A. Nelson, slipped to fourth place.

HULL PUTS LIMIT ON SCOPE OF HIS NEUTRALITY PLAN

Calls Project 'Continental and Not World-Wide.'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, head of the United States delegation to the inter-American peace conference, issued a statement tonight emphasizing the scope of his neutrality project is "continental and not world-wide."

Hull's statement was made after long conversations seeking to harmonize the Argentine view on neutrality with proposals by the United States and Brazil.

"The American republics would only be called upon under the proposal," Hull said, "to consult through the suggested committee when the peace and safety of one or more of the nations of this continent is involved.

Viewed as Clarification.

"I may say further that it neither moves in the direction or away from sanctions. It does not in any way affect exports from this hemisphere to other countries, either in time of peace or in time of war."

Informed quarters interpreted Hull's statement as a clarification of the proposal in answer to some versions that one article, referring to the Kellog-Briand pact, might give it world-wide application.

The secretary's statement followed various indications progress was being made in harmonizing the Argentine nonisolationist viewpoint with the pact.

Authoritative sources interpreted the statement further as an indication such efforts for harmony were a matter of mechanism and detail, and not of fundamental principles.

Chaco Issue May be Raised.

Bolivia's submission of a proposal for sanctions against an aggressor raised the possibility tonight the Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay might be projected into the peace conference.

The Bolivian plan asserts one way in which an aggressor can be identified is by a nation's refusal to submit consideration of the cause of a war to peace organizations "previously established or to international arbitration especially agreed upon."

Bolivia has charged that Paraguay has delayed discussion of the basic territorial dispute involved in the three year Chaco war by the committee of neutrals organized at Buenos Aires. Paraguay, Bolivia argues, desires to continue occupying the territory it has held in the wild Gran Chaco region since an armistice ended the struggle in 1935.

Doubts Linking of Conferences.

The Chaco peace protocol arranged at the time of the armistice provides for submission of territorial questions to the world court at The Hague if direct negotiations fail.

Carlos Saavedra Lamas, Argentine foreign minister, expressed the opinion the Chaco peace conference and the general inter-American parley would not be linked directly. He is the chairman of both groups.

Bolivia would like to have the Chaco question raised at the inter-American conference, but Paraguay has been adamant in its stand that the inter-American gathering has nothing to do with the Chaco struggle, the only important international war in the western hemisphere in recent years.

Best Remedy for Coughs is Easily Mixed at Home

Needs No Cooking. Big Saving.

To get the quickest relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never use any other kind of cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better medicine than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it has no equal. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

You'll Feel Better this Winter and through all your "Middle Years"

... if you'll take life easier, rest when you're tired, watch what you eat, and, if you drink, choose a whiskey that AGREES with you.

Fine, rich taste is the first thing any man wants in whiskey. But don't forget kindness! Seagram's Crowns give you both.

You can be sure of kindness if you'll consider the verdict of a group of trained, impartial men who recently investigated the question, "How does the human system respond to different forms of whiskey?"

These men, commissioned by the House of Seagram to find the answer, determined that Seagram's Crown Whiskies, blended as Seagram blends them, are truly kind—the form of whiskey most likely to agree with most men. In brief, A MOST WHOLESOME FORM OF WHISKEY.

Use Whiskey in moderation—choose Crowns. This is the plan millions of sensible men are following. Ask for Crowns at the bar. Serve them in your home for the enjoyment of your guests.

NEGOTIATE TODAY FOR UNIFIED CITY TRACTION PLAN

Surface Lines to Ask New Franchise.

Chicago's local transportation problem will be aired today in the first formal meeting of city officials and representatives of the Chicago Surface Lines since the way was opened by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for an effective approach to a settlement of the transit muddle. Last month the judge instructed representatives of the owners of the street railway company to apply to the city for a new ordinance.

Negotiations for a new franchise will begin at the city hall at 11 o'clock this morning at a meeting of the city council's local transportation committee. The meeting was called by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman, following a conference Tuesday between Mayor Kelly and Guy A. Richardson, president of the surface lines.

Outlook Highly Favorable.

Both city officials and representatives of the lines yesterday expressed the opinion that the negotiations are opening under the most favorable circumstances of any approach to this problem in the last fifteen years.

It was pointed out that the basis for consolidation of the four surface lines companies into a single corporation is contained in the Abbott plan for reorganization of the companies, which are now in receivership. Judge Wilkerson in tentatively approving this plan made it a condition that its proponents apply for a new franchise. The surface lines have operated under extensions of 1907 ordinances since 1927.

The ultimate goal of the franchise makers is the same that has featured all transit plans in the last quarter of a century, that of a single comprehensive system under one ownership and management. How soon and the method by which that goal can be reached is probably the chief problem facing the negotiators.

Three Possible Outcomes.

There are three possible directions which the present negotiations can take, according to interested parties. They are:

1. A franchise covering only the surface lines without consideration to the bus and elevated systems.

2. A franchise providing for immediate merger of the three systems with a single management.

3. A franchise for the surface lines which will make provision for future consolidation of the three systems.

The determination of Mayor Kelly and other city officials to bring about a unified system would seem to preclude the issuance of a franchise dealing solely with the surface lines. The second possibility, that of immediately effecting a unified system, the ultimate goal, is complicated by serious financial problems.

The third solution, that of granting a franchise to the surface lines which would provide for later unification, appears the most likely of accomplishment at the moment.

Surface lines officials are definitly in favor of the third method. Many city officials, too, feel that if an early settlement of the franchise situation is to be effected, this may be the most practical course to pursue.

Ald. Quinn said yesterday that today's meeting will be devoted to a preliminary discussion of the whole transit subject.

Mayor Kelly said he was hopeful that the negotiations would move forward rapidly "in a businesslike manner without any political hubbub." He has expressed the hope that the surface lines would submit a tentative franchise to the city.

WEST TOWNS READY FOR COURT FIGHT TO GET MODERN BUSES

President James A. Howe of Oak Park declared last evening that unless officials of the Chicago and West Towns Railway company take steps to modernize its service he will recommend that legal action be taken to force them to do so. His statement was made after representatives of 12 of the west town suburbs served by the railway company met with company officials in the Oak Park village hall.

The meeting had been called to demand that the railway company replace the twenty-nine street cars destroyed by fire in the Oak Park car barns last Wednesday with modern motor bus equipment. Howe and other village officials asserted that the equipment used by the West Towns railway was obsolete and dilapidated.

"If the railway company can't operate in a modern way," President George Stedronsky of Cicero asserted, "why don't they get out and let somebody who will give modern service run their lines?"

Present at the meeting was Bert Collett, manager of the railway company. He declared he had no statement to make. President Howe was directed by the other town officials to name a committee to investigate the situation further.

HIGH COUNCIL OF JAPAN ASSAILS PREMIER'S ACTS

Advisers of Mikado May Force Cabinet Out.

TOKIO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Japanese privy council members today assailed the foreign policies of the premier and his foreign minister indicating, some observers felt, that their resignations might be demanded.

The conclusion of an anti-communist pact with Germany and the fact that negotiations with the Nanking [central] Chinese government have been broken off because of Japan's activity in China came under fire from the council.

One member of the privy council—which advises the emperor on important matters—raised the question whether the government was ready to make a "grave decision."

The query was interpreted by informed observers as a hint the cabinet of Premier Koki Hirota might be asked to quit. The answer was said to have been evasive.

Apologizes for Diplomacy.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita was understood, however, to have apologized for Japan's diplomacy in all the nations the councillors mentioned. His statements brought only expressions of disapproval from most of his inquisitors, who urged him to be more cautious in the future.

China's severance of talks with Japan, Arita said, was due to a misconception of the Japanese-German agreement and the conflict in Suiyuan province of northern China.

There Inner Mongolians have been fighting Suiyuanese, who have charged Japanese are assisting the Mongolians. Premier Chang Ching-hui of Manchukuo, Japanese sponsored state, recently announced Manchukuo would aid the Mongolians.

Denies Pact with Italy.

He said he was trying to end the trouble with China by diplomatic means alone. He denied Japan had made any secret agreement with Italy and said his government contemplated no anti-communist accord with that country.

Arita admitted he saw no prospect that Russia would extend Japanese fishing rights off the Siberian coast beyond their expiration date, Dec. 31.

Negotiations for prolongation of the Japanese privileges had been under way prior to disclosure of the German-Japanese anti-communist pact, when they were discontinued.

Four Japanese workingmen were arrested today in connection with an alleged assassination plot against Premier Hirota. Two others, Ko Watanabe and Kakuhei Matsumoto, previously had been charged with planning to kill the premier in order to attract public attention to agrarian disputes.

Slay Japanese Officers.

KWEISUI, Suiyuan province, China, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The mutiny of a brigade of irregular cavalry, which killed thirty Japanese officers and threw their bodies to the wolves, was reported by Chinese sources today. The mutiny was declared to have occurred near Ulan Hua, fifty miles east of Pailingmiao, capital of Inner Mongolia.

The commander of the brigade was Wang Vin, a renegade Mongol from Chahar province who has long been under Japanese influence, the reports said. Suiyuan provincial troops disarmed the mutineers and seized horses and large quantities of equipment including arms and ammunition, it was said.

PLOTTER TAKES STAND IN HEAD AND HANDS CASE

Brookville, Ind., Dec. 9.—(AP)—John J. Poholsky, former Works Progress administration employé, accused Heber L. Hicks, former chauffeur, today of actively participating in the "head and hands" killing of Harry R. Miller, moderately wealthy retired Cincinnati fire captain.

He took the stand unexpectedly as the state's first witness in Hicks' murder trial. Under cross-examination Poholsky said: "We are all guilty. I expect to be tried. I am not afraid of the electric chair."

Hicks' confession to Capt. Matt Leach, head of the Indiana state police, last July denied he took an active part in the killing, although admitting he planned Miller's death in his lust for part of the former fire fighter's $150,000 fortune.

Hicks told Leach he hoped to benefit financially through his association with Miller's sister, Miss Flora Miller, 66, for whom he worked as chauffeur. Miss Miller inherited the estate.

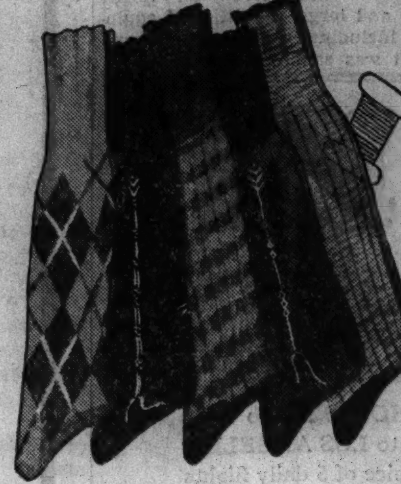
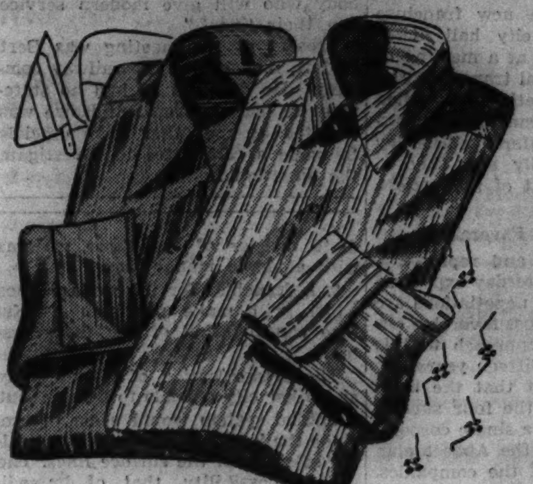
Mr. S. Claus
Dear Sir:

I am all for practical things, as long as they're a lot better than I am in the habit of buying myself. Shown here are a few items that are beyond me, but they are my idea of good gifts.



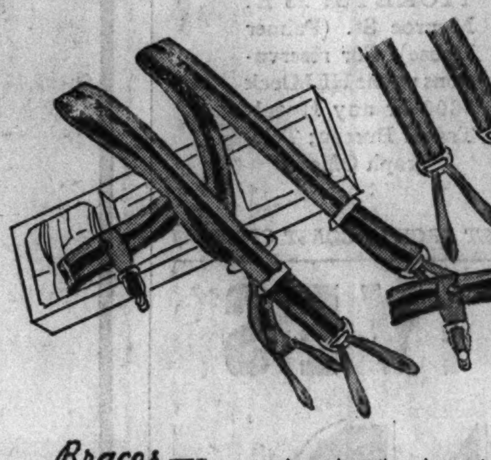
Hosiery—For efficient ankle and foot protection in cold weather, there's wool socks from England in either bold squares or small all-over patterns. For the occasions when dressiness is of major concern, I'd be more than content with the imported French lisles with neatly designed clocks embroidered entirely by hand. Wool or lisle hosiery. Pair, $1.50

Hosiery, First Floor.



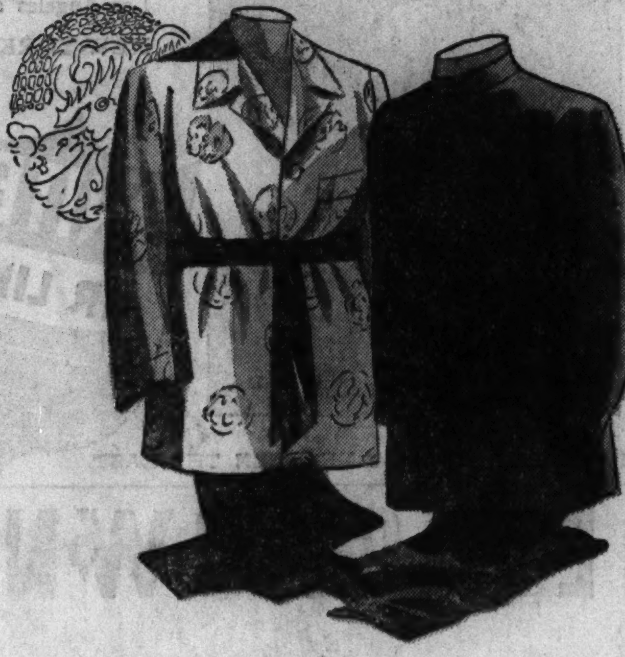
Shirts—I am fussy about the shape and set of my collars, like French cuffs, particular about colorings, and the quality of fabrics. The shirts that come up to what I want, in fact, exceed my requirements, are these tailored with custom-like perfection of D. and J. Anderson shirtings, woven in Scotland. Another important detail of these shirts are the stays in slots in the underside of the collar. $5

Shirts, First Floor.



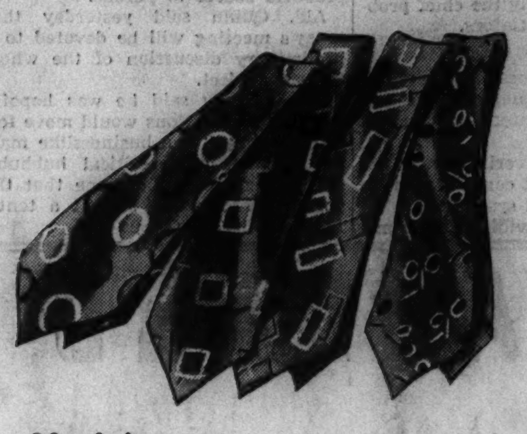
Braces—To one who subscribes heartily to the idea that a man should have as many braces as he has trousers, my present supply is nothing to boast of—I could use several more. Among those I have seen with distinctive style interest that strike me as being able to shoulder the responsibility with comfort and assurance are these of elastic webbing in regimental stripe and herringbone weave in solid colors. All with leather ends. With garters to match. Set, $2.50

Braces, First Floor.



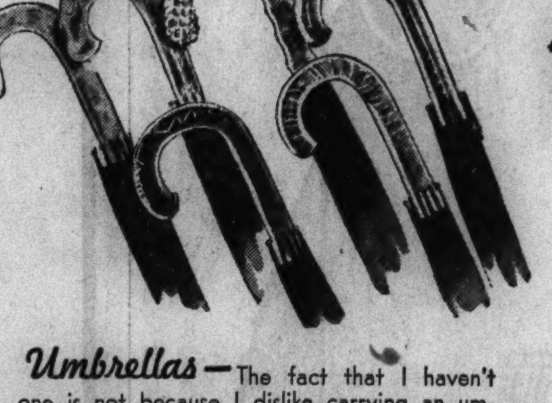
Lounge Pajamas—I may never get any to equal these in imposing splendor, but I'll at least know that there are Silk Lounge Pajamas that would satisfy my inner urge for elegance forever. The magnificence of these pajamas is breath taking—and whether you know anything at all about fine silks and delicate needlework, or are a connoisseur of such things, you can't help but appreciate that here is luxury of the highest order. Pajamas sketched right, $7.50—those on the left, $12.50

Pajamas, First Floor.



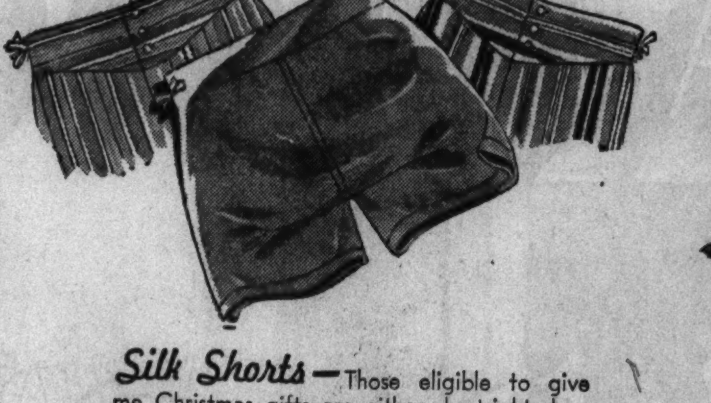
Neckties—It might be better for me if I were presented with a necktie certificate and left to do my own selecting, but a gift certificate on Christmas morning leaves me cold—I'd much rather have the necktie. Preferred and needed are ties that look well with a starched collar. A few of these "capeskin" satins whose scroll, Paisley, and other equally effective all-over patterns, set on not too brilliant color grounds, would be perfect. $2

Ties, First Floor.



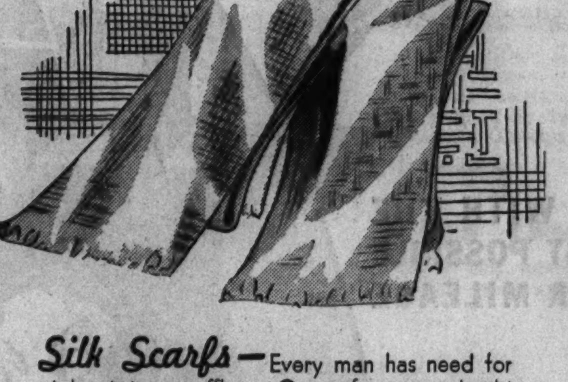
Umbrellas—The fact that I haven't one is not because I dislike carrying an umbrella when the weather demands, or because I am in the habit of leaving them about—all that's needed to turn me into a confirmed umbrella carrier is to give me one from this group. The likable qualities about them are their sturdy walking-stick-like handles of imported woods—the thickness of their stems, and the dull finish of the serge silk coverings. $5.95

Umbrellas, First Floor.



Silk Shorts—Those eligible to give me Christmas gifts are either shortsighted or sticklers for convention. At any rate, silk shorts are something I have yet to receive. For the benefit of those who shouldn't have any hesitation about providing me with silk shorts, here are some of imported silk, striped and colored to a man's liking. Along with that, they're tailored in a manner that would make me wear them to the exclusion of all other types. $1

Shorts, First Floor.



Silk Scarfs—Every man has need for at least two mufflers. One, of course, should be wool and the other a white silk. The occasions when he has use for one are frequent, and if he's partial to a dark ulster, or Chesterfield, as I am, a white muffler will see him 'round the clock. Definitely in the tails and top hat class, and qualified to be worn with them, are these woven in Switzerland of heavy jacquarded silk effectively bordered by shadow stripes. $5

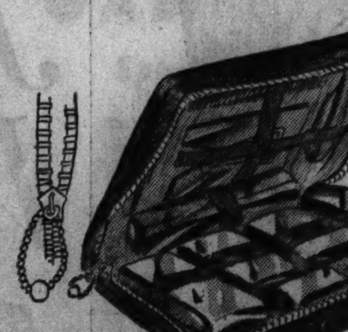
Men's Scarfs, First Floor.

As to a Fitted Case—Any One of These Three Fulfills Requirements

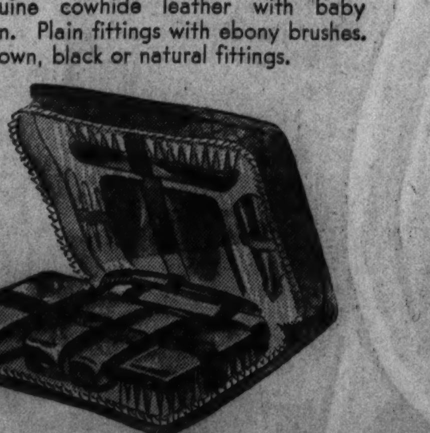
They're compact, light in weight, easy to pack, stand upright when open, and are equipped with only the essentials in the way of fittings, and are far less expensive than the quality, leather or workmanship prepares you for

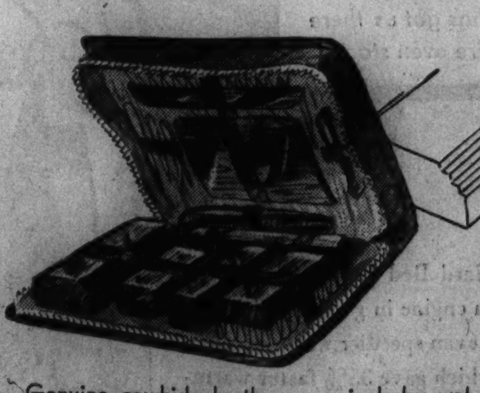
$5 each

Of genuine cowhide leather with baby walrus grain. Plain fittings with ebony brushes. Black or brown, black or natural fittings.



Genuine cowhide leather with baby walrus grain. With chromium fittings and leather lining. Their shallow bottom makes packing an easy matter. Black or brown leather.



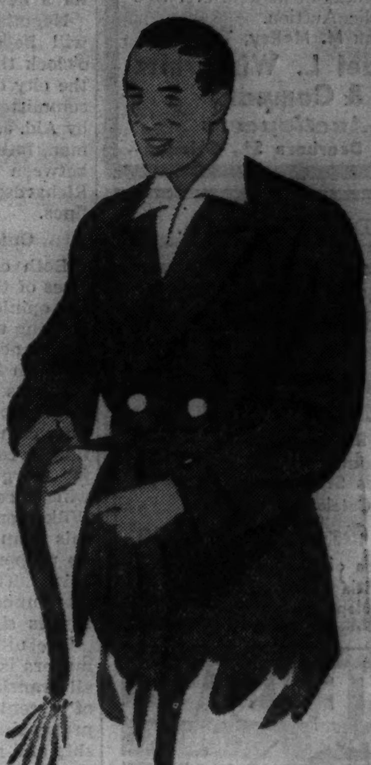


Genuine cowhide leather case in baby walrus grain. Modernistic fittings—the brushes with ebony backs. Black or brown, black or natural fittings.

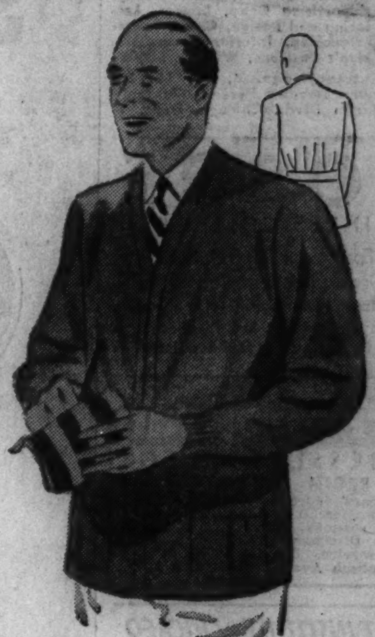
Men's Fitted Cases and Luggage. First Floor.

Robes

Sized for comfort and tailored of wool flannel $13.50



From its wide peaked lapels, to its effective large white buttons, this robe follows the styling of a polo coat. The fringe at the end of the "sta-tast" sash is hand knotted. Robes navy, blue, maroon and tan.



Slide fastener or button front sweater jackets, several notches higher in style interest than their predecessors, are tailored to size and come in blue, tan, heather, gray. $5.

Suede Leather Sports Coats. Among those you can depend upon to be grateful for a sports coat like this, is the ardent early and late season golfer and the man who demands of his sport and knockabout clothes style as well as utility. Treated to styling and tailoring equal to that lavished on expensive cloth coats—these want for nothing to make an impressive impression. $10.75.

Robes, Sports Shop, 2nd Floor.

Mail and Telephone Orders will receive prompt attention. Call State 2000. When ordering slippers please specify a second choice.

GOOD FELLOWS ISSUE NEW CALL; MORE HELP VITAL

Find Many Facing Bleak Christmas.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

It may be the jolliest Christmas in years for most of us, but what about — — —

Little Veronica, 14 years old, who has to be the mother of a family of six? Her own mother died eighteen month ago of cancer and her father was killed in a factory accident in October. Veronica and the five babies have one room—second floor rear—on the west side in the shadow of the factory where their father once worked. They manage to keep body and soul together and that's about all.

And what about Mother Connelley—widowed, crippled, with six boys and five girls? She's sent three of the children to some strange relatives because she can't keep them in food and clothing. Now she's trying to hold the rest of her little family together in a damp basement room out south. Christmas? She doesn't dare to think about it. The tears come and her throat aches with suppressed sobs at the idea of her babies waking on Christmas morning without a sprig of holly or even a shiny toy.

Out of Work 8 Years.

And still again, what about Master Joshua, Ellen, his wife, and their brood of little ones? Misfortune seems to be lurking along Joshua's trail. He's been out of work most of the last eight years. He wants to work but first it was rheumatic fever, then an injured leg that meant amputation, and now he is crippled by rheumatism worse than before. Ellen gets a day's work now and then, but only enough to keep shoes on their feet and food in their mouths.

What does Christmas hold for these families and what does it hold for hundreds—even thousands more in equally unfortunate circumstances?

Yesterday the Good Fellow editor—a happy, jolly sort ordinarily—sat at his desk in the Tribune tower perplexed. His brow was wrinkled, his dark eyes serious.

"How are things going?" this writer queried. "Lots of turkey and cranberries and toys for the families that Santa might miss?"

Not Enough Are Helping.

"Yes, lots—lots of Good Fellows, old ones and many new ones," he said, slowly, "but not enough." Then his eyes wandered across his desk to a picture of two dirty faced urchins, their noses nestled against a toy shop window.

"There'll be too many of those on Christmas eve if we don't find some more Good Fellows," he ventured. "Children like Veronica and her little brothers and sisters and like Mother Connelley's family—boys and girls looking longingly in the windows next door without so much as a stocking to hang by their own chimney. And I know what Christmas means to little children. I've got two of my own."

This appeal is addressed especially to mothers and their daughters, to women with good jobs and to housewives with abundant kitchens and happy families. Usually it's the women who do the most for charity but this year it's the husbands and the brothers who are the Good Fellows.

OPERA'S CHILD STAR WILL GET $50,000 A YEAR

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday approved two contracts for Betty Jaynes, 15 year old opera singer. The contracts, for motion picture and concert appearances, will give the girl an estimated $50,000 a year.

Court approval was necessary because Betty, whose real name is Betty Jane Schultz, is a minor. The contracts were signed by her mother, Mrs. Stella L. Schultz, who was appointed her guardian several weeks ago.

Both contracts, one with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and the other with a concert booking company, are for seven years, but may be disallowed at any time after Betty reaches the age of 18. The Hollywood contract guarantees a salary of $250 to $1,300 a week, with additional compensation for any pictures she may make. It also provides for all expenses and a tutor. The concert contract guarantees $1,000 a concert.

Betty and her mother, with Paul Longone, manager of the Chicago City Opera company, and Mrs. Longone will leave today for New York, where Betty will undergo screen tests.

Secret Bar Report Clears Judge in Ciollaro Release

A secret report by an investigating committee of the Chicago Bar association concerning the release from prison in 1927 of Vincenzo Ciollaro, a slayer, became public yesterday for the first time. It was made last summer. The report said that Judge Charles A. Williams of the Superior court was not to blame for freeing Ciollaro on a writ of habeas corpus, but that Attorney William G. Anderson, colored, who persuaded the judge to effect the release, was apparently guilty of "gross negligence." The Illinois Supreme court later reversed Judge Williams' ruling that Ciollaro's conviction was illegal. The police are now seeking Ciollaro.

FEDERATION OF LABOR ADMITS ITS FIGURES ON IDLE MILLION TOO HIGH

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Admitting its last estimate of unemployment may have been too high by more than 1,000,000, the American Federation of Labor is preparing a new count of the jobless.

The last estimate, for August, listed 10,740,000 unemployed. The monthly count then was discontinued to await completion of the government's 1936 business census. As soon as figures from this are obtained, a new estimate will be published.

The A. F. of L. executive council has reported that its method of computing unemployment is "inadequate" in periods of business recovery.

In the face of repeated criticism of the federation's estimates, the council also said the country was "without any adequate method of measuring unemployment."

Couple in Police Slaying Case Drop Divorce Suit

Harry and Tillie Obinger, central figures in a recent slaying case, dropped their divorce suits in the Circuit court of Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday. Obinger is in the county jail awaiting grand jury action on a charge of murdering Policeman Martin Condon of the Gresham station on Nov. 30 because of his attentions to Mrs. Obinger. Attorney Norman Becker said Mrs. Obinger has decided to stand by her husband in his trouble.

Ban on Tavern Hostesses Goes in Effect Dec. 19

The deadline for veto by Mayor Kelly of the anti-tavern hostess ordinance passed yesterday without action by the mayor and the ordinance therefore becomes effective on Dec. 19. Passed by the city council on Dec. 2, the new law prohibits any woman from soliciting tavern patrons to buy drinks. A new ordinance prohibiting the sale of cigarets from machines also will become effective on Dec. 19.

MAYOR DENIES PLAN TO BOOST OPERATING LEVY

Seeks New Revenue for Higher Wages.

Denial that he plans to ask the state legislature to increase the city's operating fund tax levy, which is now pegged at $37,000,000, was voiced by Mayor Kelly yesterday.

Mayor Kelly's statement followed an intimation by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] at a city finance committee budget meeting on Tuesday that the city would ask a boost of its pegged levy, if necessary, so that it could eliminate the 39 payless days of city employés. It is expected that the city finance committee will conclude its budget hearings today.

The mayor said additional sources of revenue must be found "if the city is to follow the lead of industry toward higher wage levels."

Pay Suit Nears Close.

Judge Harry M. Fisher in the Circuit court yesterday began hearing final arguments in the suit in which 27 sitting aldermen, 22 former aldermen, and the estates of five dead aldermen are seeking to compel the city council to restore $200,000 in pay cuts for the period from 1932 to 1935. The arguments will be completed on Monday.

Quin O'Brien, assistant corporation counsel, declared the sitting aldermen are passing the buck by making a show of reducing expenses at the same time that they are seeking to add to the city's financial burden with their back pay demands.

County Budget Cut Seen.

Warning of an impending slash in the county budget was given yesterday at the first meeting of the county finance committee for consideration of 1937 departmental requests. Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman, pointed out that the county's revenue expectation for next year is $15,661,879, while departmental estimates of 1937 needs total more than $18,000,000. The county governments received $20,663,982 in appropriations this year.

Edward J. McCabe, chief deputy assessor, when told that the assessor's allotment next year will be at least $350,000 under this year's appropriation of $1,162,062, retorted that the slash will mean a two months' delay in the making of the 1936 tax assessment. This, he said, will force postponement of the July 1 deadline for the payment of 1936 taxes.

Clash on Whealan Estimate.

There was a clash when County Auditor Lee J. Howard challenged the estimate of Emmet Whealan, member of the tax board of appeals, that his group, which spent $145,504 this year, will need $171,000 next year. Whealan challenged Howard's qualifications as a critic, whereupon Commissioner Dan Ryan arose and shouted that "Whealan can't come up here and scare us."

"And you're crazy if you think you can scare me," Whealan retorted angrily. When Whealan subsided he promised to talk over his budget needs with Howard and report back to the finance committee.

UPHOLD ELECTION FRAUD SENTENCE OF G. O. P. JUDGES

The Appellate court yesterday affirmed the Criminal court convictions of Nicholas J. Collins, 66 years old, 1022 Grand avenue, and Attorney Henry J. Fedele, 35 years old, who now lives in Rockford, for conspiracy to commit fraud in the primary election of April 10, 1934. Collings, a Republican worker in the 18th precinct of the 26th ward, and Fedele, Republican judge in the same precinct, are under sentences of one year each in the Bridewell.

Collins, Fedele and two other men who did not appeal were sentenced by Judge John C. Lewe, after all four had served jail sentences for contempt of court in connection with vote count frauds uncovered in their precinct. The others and the sentences imposed by Judge Lewe were Nick Rose, 45 years old, 2117 Warren avenue, one year, and Albin J. Berquist, 37 years old.

New Information Booth to Be Placed in City Hall

Howard C. Brodman, superintendent of maps and director of information for the city, said yesterday that a new information booth will be installed in the rotunda between the city hall and the county building within the next few days. Since the present booth was opened three and one-half years ago at the direction of Mayor Kelly the attendants have answered 3,640,000 questions, or about one for each Chicago citizen, Brodman said. About 5,000 questions are now answered daily.

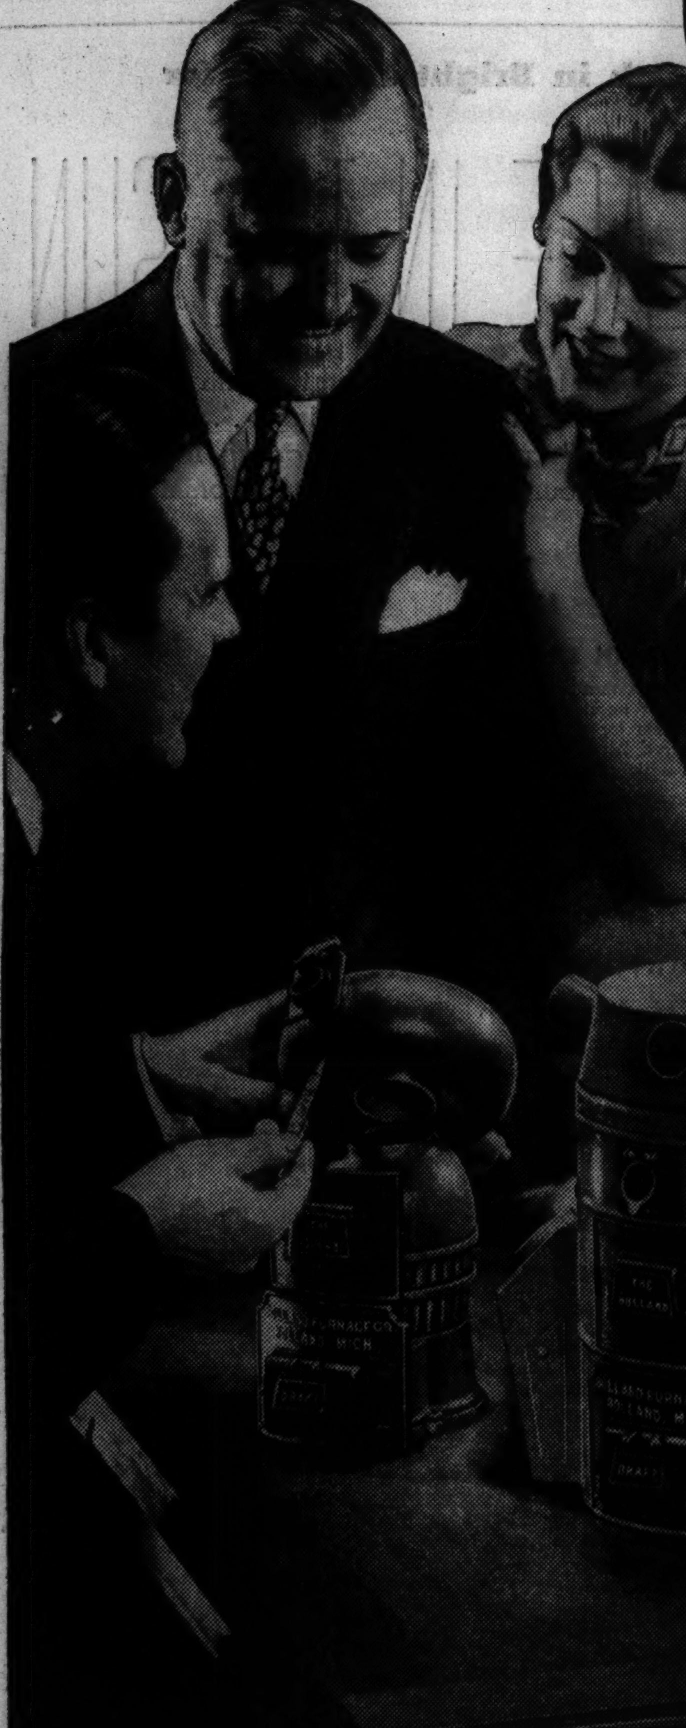
HOLLAND DRIVES AHEAD WITH NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Record sales being set in Chicago territory with rotogravure pages in the Chicago Sunday Tribune



HOLLAND SALES in the Chicago territory this season will pass all previous years' sales records. Localized advertising in the Tribune produces voluntary inquiries from consumers and makes solicitations more effective.

Mr. Chesser M. Campbell
Advertising Manager
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. Campbell:

We know you will be pleased to learn that our current Sunday rotogravure advertising in the Tribune is producing splendid results.

As you are aware, our advertising is concentrated in the territories revealing the greatest potentials for heating and air conditioning units. This selection of markets has made newspaper advertising the backbone of our advertising effort. This policy, which has been pursued for a period of years, has brought us the greatest return from our expenditure.

While we use other media to a limited extent, our experience has convinced us beyond a doubt that a consistent newspaper campaign is essential to the maximum development of our sales volume.

Our localized newspaper advertising, because it definitely paves the way for our salesmen by building acceptance of our units, has been very effective in stimulating and enthusing them. Following the appearance of each advertisement, there is a marked increase in phone calls and letters.

Our newspaper advertising has also eliminated the necessity of using as large a quantity of miscellaneous literature as formerly. We use with traceable results millions of reprints of our rotogravure page advertisements, distributing them door-to-door throughout our branch territories.

When our season is over I frankly believe that we will have passed all previous years' sales records which we have enjoyed in this territory. The key newspaper in our entire program is the Chicago Tribune in which we spend more money than in any other newspaper.

Warmfriendly yours,

H Boersma

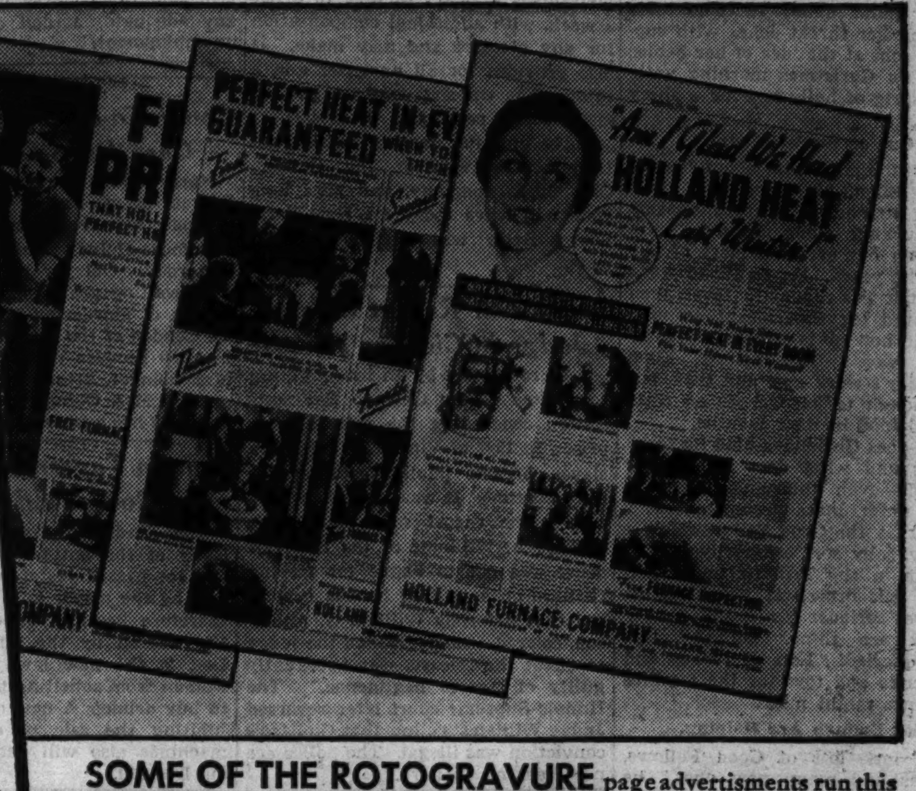
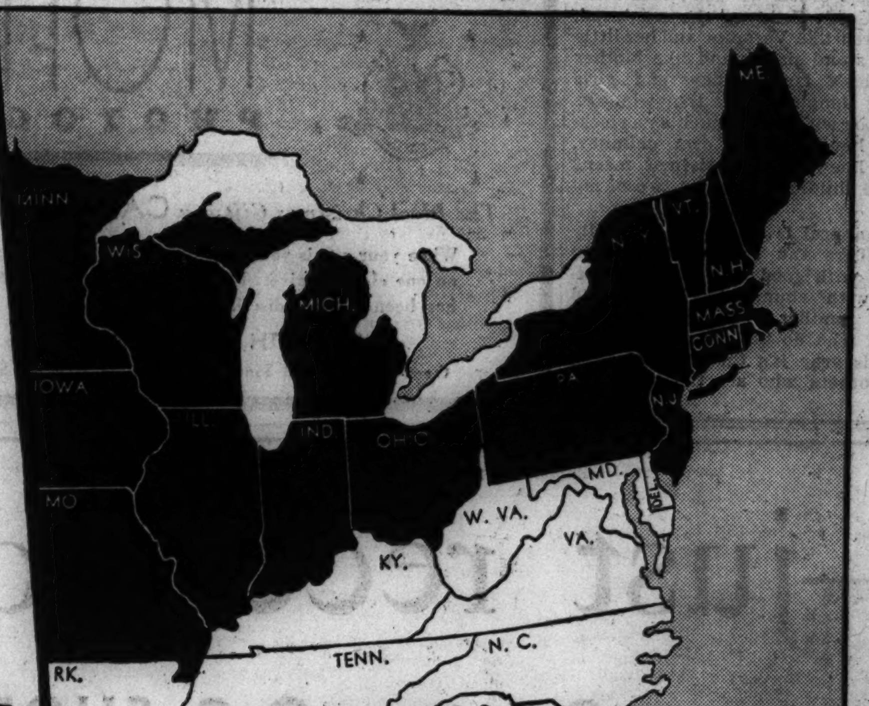
"WORLD'S LARGEST INSTALLERS OF HOME HEATING SYSTEMS"



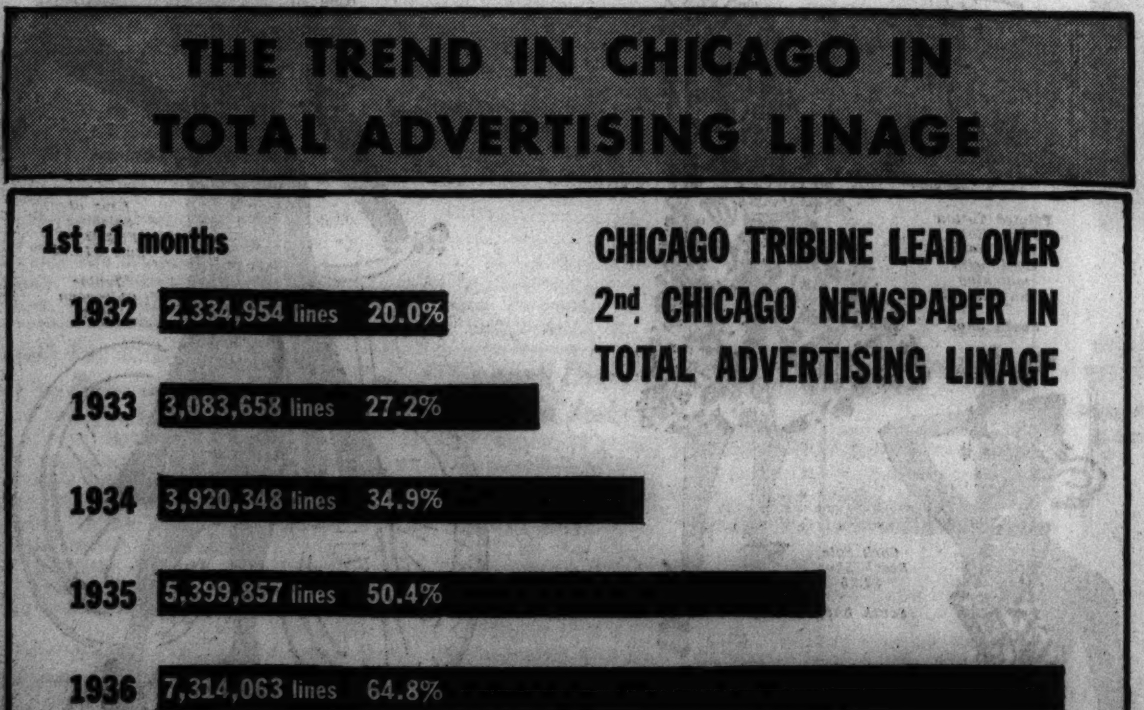
PERFECT HEAT IN EVERY ROOM GUARANTEED
"Am I Glad We Had HOLLAND HEAT Last Winter!"
HOLLAND FURNACE COMPANY

SOME OF THE ROTOGRAVURE page advertisments run this year in the Chicago Tribune by the Holland Furnace Company, which spends more money for advertising in the Tribune than in any other newspaper in the country. Holland uses millions of reprints of these advertisments, distributing them door to door with traceable results.



THE U. S. Real Property Inventory indicates that over 85% of all one- and two-family dwellings with central heating plants are located in the seventeen states shown in black on the above map. Here, in the real heating market of the nation, Holland concentrates its advertising in the Tribune and in newspapers in other cities to back up its factory branches and salesmen.

THE TREND IN CHICAGO IN TOTAL ADVERTISING LINAGE



COMING out of the depression, the Holland Furnace Company looked around for the best advertising attack.

It considered all kinds of media, experimented with several. But experience, running back sixteen years, recalled the successful use of newspapers.

In 1920 Holland selected the Chicago Tribune to test the power of full page newspaper advertisments to back up the factory sales force and to build volume sales.

The plan proved so successful that it was lifted bodily to every major heating market of the country.

As a result, the Holland Furnace Company grew to be America's largest manufacturer of warm air furnaces sold and installed by the factory.

Enthusiastic response from salesmen

So again in 1936, with markets again active, full pages in the Chicago Tribune touched off the advertising and sales campaign of the Holland Furnace Company.

From May to September, full pages ran each month in the Sunday Tribune rotogravure picture section and in other newspapers in markets with the best potentials.

Holland has made the Tribune the key newspaper in its entire advertising program, spending more in it than in any other newspaper in the country.

Mr. Boersma summarizes the results in his letter above. Rotogravure pages in the Sunday Tribune are setting an all-time sales record in the Chicago territory.

A very important factor in the success of the campaign was the enthusiastic reaction of the sales force. Tribune roto pages strengthened morale, increased leads for salesmen, and made individual solicitations more effective.

Over 800,000 daily circulation —Over 1,000,000 Sunday

Holland's successful use of Tribune advertising is typical of the increased results which the Tribune is producing for manufacturers and retailers today.

With a total circulation in excess of 800,000 on weekdays and in excess of 1,000,000 on Sunday, the Tribune is the only Chicago newspaper which gives advertisers full market circulation.

It is the only one with majority coverage of all the families and home owners in Chicago and suburbs.

The Tribune, daily and Sunday, reaches over 640,000 families in metropolitan Chicago. This is over 225,000 more than read any other Chicago newspaper.

To this coverage of Chicago and its suburbs is added an effective circulation among the key families in hundreds of towns in the greater Chicago market.

Tribune rates among the lowest in the country

The Chicago Tribune, as evidenced by circulation and advertising records, is Chicago's first newspaper and first advertising medium.

It alone has the reader interest and volume coverage of every buying group needed to win this great market.

Ask a Tribune representative—or your advertising counsel—to lay out a program of Tribune advertising by which you can take full advantage of expanding sales opportunities in the Chicago territory.

ASK STATE GIVE FREE MEDICINE IN WAR ON SYPHILIS

Jirka Seeks Cash to Get Fight Out in Open.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Free distribution to physicians of syphilis remedies, in the same fashion that diptheria serum now is furnished, will be recommended to the next general assembly in January, the state health department announced today.

Dr. Frank J. Jirka, director, and Dr. A. C. Baxter, assistant director, made the announcement following two addresses on syphilis control before the conference of Illinois health officers and public health nurses, which concluded its two day session today.

Both Dr. R. A. Vonderlehr of Washington, assistant surgeon general, and Dr. Carolyn N. McDonald of the Loyola university medical school, Chicago, recommended a campaign of education with the object of placing syphilis on the same open basis as any other communicable disease—to take it from behind the cloud of secrecy which now veils it and fight it in the open.

Federal Aid Favors Plan.

Dr. Vonderlehr also recommended that states furnish arsenicles—syphilis medicine—as they distribute diptheria toxoid and antitoxin.

This plan already was in the minds of Dr. Jirka and Dr. Baxter, who revealed that an appropriation of more than $200,000 will be included in the department's biennial budget to make possible this free distribution of syphilis medicine and which will be considered by the legislature after it convenes in January. The medicine would be made available to any physician who requested it.

"We consider this the greatest step forward in preventive medicine in a generation," read a joint statement from Dr. Jirka and Dr. Baxter. "It will keep many people from becoming charges of the state in various institutions and welfare agencies. We hope the legislature will give sympathetic attention to our request."

600 Go Insane Yearly.

Dr. Baxter, who presided at the conference during reading of the syphilis papers, said that in Illinois more than 600 cases of neuro-syphilis—insanity—are committed to state institutions every year. The usual life of these patients after commitment is three years.

A plea for enlightenment concerning syphilis so sufferers will consult reputable men for treatment, rather than rely on quack medicine, was made by Dr. Vonderlehr.

Dr. McDonald, who spoke on "Syphilis Control in Prenatal Care," is a pathological obstetrician. She told of work with prospective mothers afflicted with syphilis, and stressed the importance of laboratory reports on blood specimens taken from these women. Syphilis can be cured during prenatal care, she said, and the child born without the affliction.

MRS. ANNA PAUS, 102, CHICAGOAN 80 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Anna Paus, 102 years old, a resident of Chicago for more than eighty years, died yesterday in her home at 3430 North Lawndale avenue. She was born in Germany and came to America when she was 19 years old. Relatives in Chicago told her of the village in the middle west and she came here, making her home for a short time on what is now the south side.

One day her husband, Ludwig Paus, came home to report he had purchased land at the present intersection of Broadway and Diversey parkway. When she saw the site Mrs. Paus often recalled that she told him, "I would hate even to be buried on that forlorn sand pile." She lived to see the place become a busy business corner. At a birthday celebration last year she told how Mr. Paus poured buckets of water on their frame house all night long during the fire of 1871, and it was saved. After the fire they opened their home to neighbors who had lost everything.

Mrs. Paus is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Martha K. Williams; five grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren. The funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow in the chapel at 4717 Broadway.

Jacob Dietz Dies at 79; Resident of City Since 1884

Jacob Dietz, 79 years old, a resident of Chicago for 52 years, died yesterday at his home, 1867 Norwood street, following a heart attack. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in the chapel at 1458 Belmont avenue. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Dietz came here from Germany in 1884 and entered the retail meat business. Surviving him are the widow, Mrs. Emma Dietz, and two daughters, Mrs. Rosa Brookman, 1841 Norwood street, and Mrs. Dora Wildman of Florida.

Hold Youth for Extortion Letters to Behr of I. A. C.

Kenneth William Faulkner, 19 years old, was held last night by federal agents after confessing that last January he had sent letters demanding $5,000 to John W. Behr of Wilmette, athletic director of the Illinois Athletic club, under threat to kidnap his 18 year old daughter Barbara Ann. He will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Truck Helper Loses Life When Struck by Door

James Conway, 23 years old, 822 West 80th street, was killed yesterday when his head was crushed by a heavy swinging door on the rear of the truck on which he was working. He was standing inside the truck and the door swung against him as the truck was jolted by a depression in the pavement of the alley at 224 East 71st street.

M. J. O'CONNOR, DEPUTY COUNTY CONTROLER, DIES

Known as Authority on Tax Problems.

Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controler for several years and an authority on county tax matters, died in the Passavant hospital yesterday after a brief illness. Mr. O'Connor was 65 years old.

Seized with a heart attack in his home at 6941 Lowe avenue on Saturday, Mr. O'Connor was taken to the hospital where his condition became steadily worse. His wife, Ida, and their daughter, Mary, who is a student at the University of Illinois, were at his bedside when he died.

A Native of Chicago.

Mr. O'Connor was born in Chicago and received his early education in parochial schools here. He entered the county service in 1903 as a bailiff in the sheriff's office, where he served until 1907 when he went into private business.

On Jan. 21, 1911, Mr. O'Connor was appointed clerk in the county controler's office. This marked the beginning of 25 years of unbroken service in the office, during which he earned his reputation as a financial expert whose counsel in important county financial matters was invariably sought.

Deputy Controler Since 1915.

Mr. O'Connor had been deputy controler since 1915, and for the last several years was chief financial adviser to the county board.

Besides his widow and daughter, Mr. O'Connor is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Matthew M. Tracy and Miss Mary A. O'Connor, both of Chicago.

MRS. J. L. MOSS DIES; SERVICES WILL BE PRIVATE

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriet Calhoun Moss, 74 years old, 320 North Mayflower road, Lake Forest, who died in St. Luke's hospital Tuesday after an operation, will be held in the home at 2 p. m. today. Services and burial will be private. Mrs. Moss is survived by her husband, Jesse Lathrop Moss, who for 30 years prior to his retirement last year was secretary of the Newberry library. Their son, Jesse Jr., died in St. Luke's hospital on Nov. 9 of complications that arose from injuries incurred in airplane crashes in 1931 and 1933.

Suit Asks Beacom Heirs Pay U. S. Tax on $564,284

The First National bank as administrator sued in the Superior court yesterday to compel the widow and four children of Harold Beacom, an attorney who died on Dec. 6, to pay their proportionate shares of the federal tax on $564,284 insurance on Mr. Beacom's life. The bank declared in its suit that the estate has assets of only $5,000 besides the insurance money. The defendants and the amounts they are asked to pay are: Mrs. Margaret Pirie Beacom, 2430 Lake View avenue, the widow, $27,810.68; Harold Jr. and Alfred Beacom, $15,844.59 each, and Elizabeth and Jeannine Beacom, $13,906 each.

Mrs. P. T. O'Connell Dies; Mother of Municipal Judge

Mrs. Patrick T. O'Connell, 68 years old, mother of Judge Harold P. O'Connell of the Municipal court, died yesterday in her home at 9411 Laflin street. She had been ill a week. Mrs. O'Connell had resided on the south side all her life. Besides Judge O'Connell she is survived by her husband, Patrick T. O'Connell, another son, Raymond, and three daughters, Misses Agnes, Helen, and Genevieve O'Connell.

J. C. Hecker, Official of Chase National Bank, Dies

Mattituck, N. Y., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Joseph C. Hecker, 58, of Brooklyn, a second vice president of the Chase National bank at the Hamilton Trust branch in Brooklyn, died here today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Allyn Cuthill.

DR. MOTT H. ARNOLD, EX-CONGRESSMAN'S BROTHER, DIES AT 52

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Mott H. Arnold, 52, well known physician and surgeon, died here today.

His brother, William Wright Arnold of Robinson, Ill., was congressman from Robinson for several terms, resigning that position two years ago when he was appointed by President Roosevelt as judge of the Court of Tax Appeals in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Arnold graduated from West Point and the University of Illinois. He married the former Grace Chapman in Siegel, Ill., 28 years ago. The couple later moved to Billings, Mont., where Dr. Arnold practiced medicine. The family moved to San Diego in 1917. Mrs. Arnold died 10 years ago.

RITES TOMORROW FOR DR. BEHRENTS, EX-MISSIONARY

Funeral services for Dr. Olav S. Behrents, retired medical missionary of Three Rivers, Mich., who died on Tuesday in Presbyterian hospital, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Lutheran Memorial church [Mindekirken], 2614 North Kedzie avenue. Interment will be in Mount Olive cemetery.

Dr. Behrents, who was 64 years old, was graduated from Rush Medical college in 1903 and the following year went to China as a medical missionary for the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America. During the 23 years he spent in the Province of Honan he went through several famines. In 1927 he retired to the general practice of medicine in Three Rivers. He had a wide acquaintance in Chicago, having taken post-graduate work at Rush college on several of his furloughs.

Surviving him are the widow, Mrs. Ida Behrents; three daughters, Grace, Carol, and Beulah; and two sons, Paul and Gordon, the latter a student at the University of Chicago.

Husband and Wife Held After Theft Confession

Richard D. Summers, 24 years old, 538 Wrightwood avenue, who has a police record, and his wife, Laura, 22 years old, mother of a 14 month old girl, were in custody of the Sheffield avenue police yesterday for investigation into a number of north side burglaries. Summers confessed he stole jewelry valued at $500 from the home of Dr. Frank Hurlstone, 2442 Orchard street, on Nov. 26. He said his wife disposed of the jewelry in pawn shops. The couple was arrested Tuesday night at Wrightwood avenue and Clark street by Policemen Frank Rala and Frank Scaglione.

Aaron M. Speer, School Board Official, Is Dead

Aaron M. Speer, 331 Central Park avenue, Wilmette, assistant auditor of the Chicago board of education, died yesterday in the Henrotin hospital. He was 56 years old. Until 1932 Mr. Speer for twenty years had served as cashier and vice president of the People's Trust and Savings bank. Surviving are the widow, Margaret, and two daughters. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at St. Augustine's church in Wilmette. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

T. SCHMID DEAD; SOUTH SIDE CIVIC LEADER, BANKER

His Store a Landmark in the '80s.

Theophilus Schmid, pioneer merchant, banker and civic leader of the Roseland community on the far south side, died yesterday at his home, 10856 Wabash avenue, after a long illness. He was 76 years old.

Mr. Schmid was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., and graduated from the University of Michigan pharmaceutical school in 1881. Nine years later he established a drug store at 111th street and Michigan which was a landmark for many years. He retired in 1919. In 1925 he aided in organizing the Roseland National bank, becoming its president.

Bank Pays Off in Full.

The collapse of the Bain banks, caused their deposits to dwindle, until the bank closed its doors in 1933, settling all accounts in full. Since then Mr. Schmid had been president of the Standard Building and Loan association.

Mr. Schmid worked for many years to improve educational facilities in his community. From 1925 to 1930 he was a member of the board of education. While chairman of the building and grounds committee he was instrumental in giving Roseland the Fenger High school and Brennan, Bennett, Mount Vernon, and Gompers elementary schools.

Mr. Schmid was also a member of the South Park pension board for many years. He organized the Roseland chapter of the Patriotic Sons of America, and was a past master of the Kensington lodge, No. 804 of A. F. & A. M.

Surviving are his widow, Anna, and four children, Mrs. Frieda Simson, Harold, Sarah, and Theophilus Jr. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Bethany Reformed church with burial at Mount Greenwood cemetery.

3 CHILDREN KILLED, 10 HURT IN CRASH OF SCHOOL BUS, TRUCK

Fayetteville, N. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Three school children were killed and at least ten of their young companions injured today when a school bus collided with a produce truck on a highway four miles from here.

The dead were tentatively identified as Ernestine Johnson, 15; Inez Bulla, 15, and Mack Williams, 16. They were residents of the Sunnyside community and pupils at the Stedman High school.

The wreck occurred on the Fayetteville-Clinton highway near Bander.

BATTLE TO SAVE SOLE SURVIVOR OF BOY TRIPLETS

Oxygen was being administered yesterday at St. Anne's hospital in an attempt to keep alive one of three boy babies born earlier in the day to Mrs. Hazel Stillwell, 32 years old, 3217 North Lockwood avenue. The other two were born dead. Dr. Morris Feldman, who is attending Mrs. Stillwell, said that it was unusual that any of the three had survived. Mrs. Stillwell, whose condition is satisfactory, is the mother of another child, Patricia, 16 months old. Her husband, Henry, is a clothing salesman and athletic director of the 9th district of the American Legion.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Stylists Catch New Swank in Tones of Beige

Suede Gloves and Hosiery Boast New Shade.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Those who take time out from the gift buying binge to snoop around for something in the way of adornment for themselves have our understanding. It is difficult to keep an unselfish attitude when you are surrounded by such exciting new hats and accessories. Or new colors that are insidiously making themselves noticed. Beige, for instance. It's a long time since this shade has been so smart and so decoratively flattering. The tones of thi~ rather neglected color are especially good this season.

Soft suede gloves, the most luxurious extras to be seen, are of that exquisitely lovely fawn beige, and when the finger seams are sewed with sooty black you have found something! Long and luxurious beige suede gloves are matched to hosiery of this same flattering color. Combine these with a simple black dress or with a fur coat and black hat, bag and pumps and you have a costume of great distinction.

There are all kinds and widths of feige belts, in suede, with self-covered buckles or with gold metal clasps. Also a prize assortment of beige colored neck scarfs. Some of the big buys of the times are the short and long sleeved soft beige blouses, tailored or not so tailored for tweeds or for black wool costume.

A sports shop has a grand showing of beige sweaters, and in another shop are some exceptionally fine fawn beige suede sports jackets. But the best of the beige buys are the clever, small midseason hats, beige felt, beige wool, and beige ribbed ribbon material. Some of them have black accents, a black fringe edge, a black chenille dotted wisp of veiling, black band or bows, or a black feather or wing.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The only thing nicer than owning one fine perfume is owning five! A Christmas offering of a perfume wardrobe, containing five in either dram size or de luxe size bottles is a great boon to husbands or suitors on the gift hunt.

Suggestion to suitors:

By all means look up the "perfume wardrobe." This is a handsome gold and beige box containing five perfumes, all the kind that make the feminine heart go pitty-pat like mad. If you want to do the thing up handsomely you can get this perfume wardrobe in the de luxe edition, which means that the five bottles therein are de luxe sizes. In this version it's one of those ultraelegant gifts that would impress even a spoiled princess.

But there is another version, an exact replica of the de luxe edition, but with the five perfumes in dram sizes. This, we think, is one of the gift sensations of the season. It's a stunning set and the whole idea of offering several perfumes intsead of one charms the perfume loving woman's heart. What's perhaps best of all, the whole thing won't make a terrible dent in the Christmas savings. You'll be surprised at how few dollars, all things considered, you'll have to plank out for it.

There's an awful lot of guff broadcast about perfumes for personalities, types, clothes and occasions. As a matter of fact it's just about impossible to define why any one perfume appeals to a woman more than another, or why one suits her to perfection where another makes the innocent bystanders head for the great outdoors. Women like to experiment with fragrances, and to have enough of them to choose one they feel like at the moment. What she'll dab on her fur coat as she dashes to the office may not be at all what she'll use with her most fluttery evening gown. It's a matter of mood—and of other things which we, at least, honestly admit we can't define.

With the perfume wardrobe she has five choices at hand, all lovely. There's a velvety gardenia, a gay fragrance for the dance, a beautiful woodsey odor for sports, a soft mysterious blend for her more romantic moods, and one that's downright exotic, for those occasions when she feels she could give the Dietrichs, the Garbos and all the other glamour gals a good run for their money.

This set is lovely to look at—and even lovelier to own. Give it a look, you bewildered male shoppers.

New Interchurch Movement Launched at Meeting in City

The formation of a new nationwide interchurch movement by a group of leaders of American Protestant churches was announced yesterday following a meeting at the Hotel La Salle. The organization is called a Movement for World Christianity. Beginning in January the group will publish a quarterly journal called World Christianity—a Digest, under the editorship of Prof. Charles S. Braden of the department of comparative religion at Northwestern university.

The group will maintain a research department at New Haven, Conn., which will engage in mission studies and trends in foreign lands, especially those of an interdenominational character. Another phase of the movement's work will be the advocacy of a coöperative program of foreign missions along lines suggested in the Rockefeller endowed Laymen's Missionary inquiry.

Father Must Continue His Support for Joan Marsh

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The State Appellate court today upheld a County court ruling compelling Charles G. Rosher, movie cameraman, to continue paying $150 monthly support money for his daughter, Joan Marsh, screen actress. The appeals court decision took no formal notice of Rosher's claim Miss Marsh, who passed her 18th birthday during the last year, is now making enough in film and radio salaries to support herself. Rosher was divorced from Mrs. Lolita Rosher in 1923.

Modify Santa Claus Myth for the Older Child

Explain Its Significance, in Spiritual Sense.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I believed in Santa Claus until I was 9 years old," I read in a woman's autobiography the other day.

I don't believe many children reach the age of 9 before they either question the existence of Santa Claus or are disillusioned by some playmate. I may be wrong, but we have no statistics on the subject. This is one of the few things about which, as far as I know, no wide study or investigation has been made!

We do know, however, that sooner or later our child is going to question Santa's ability to crawl down a small chimney hole while carrying huge bags of toys and to drive all over the earth in one star spangled night to leave gifts for large and small alike. And, finally, our youngster will ask us point blank: "Mother, is there a Santa Claus?"

Since we know that is sure to happen, I think it's rather a good thing to be prepared. How you answer will depend upon two things—upon your individual standard of truth and upon how intensely you desire your child to hold onto the Santa Claus belief as long as possible.

Now I'm not one of those people who scorn fairy tales for children, or who believe in debunking the imaginative and picturesque and traditional. And nobody, I do believe, could have been more thrilled by dreams and thoughts of Santa Claus and his tiny, magic reindeer and silvery bells than I was as a child. But I believe that it is possible to go too far in cherishing the myth. And I believe that when your child asks you point blank: "Mommie, is there a Santa Claus?" the time has come for you to tell him the truth. Usually the mere asking of the question means that he is somewhat prepared to hear it.

Even so, you don't have to snatch Santa Claus all away from him. There's more than one way to tell the truth. Santa Claus is a beautiful Christmas fairy tale that people have loved for hundreds of years, you can tell him. Santa Claus is the spirit of Christmas, of merriment, of giving. Believing in Santa Claus is a kind of Christmas game, a part of Christmas that every one, of every age, enjoys.

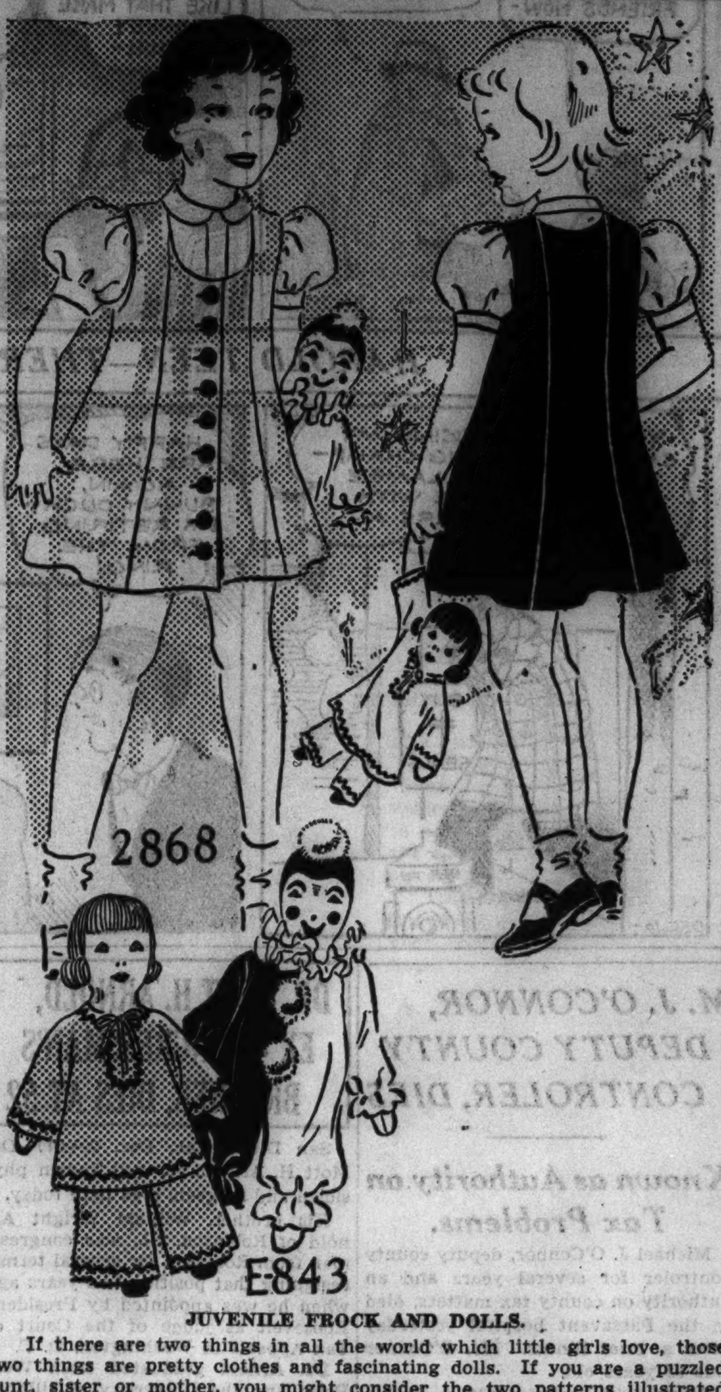
A Dress and Clever Dolls



JUVENILE FROCK AND DOLLS.

If there are two things in all the world which little girls love, those two things are pretty clothes and fascinating dolls. If you are a puzzled aunt, sister or mother, you might consider the two patterns illustrated today, because they definitly offer a solution to your Christmas gift problem.

The dress is a lovely little jumper model, always practical, always attractive on tiny silhouettes. The original of this model is created in plaid woolen, with the blouse of cotton in a harmonizing shade. Harmonizing buttons dress up the front of the jumper. The blouse has generously puffed sleeves which flatter chubby young arms.

Style No. 2868 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 35 inch material with 1⅛ yards of 35 inch material for the blouse.

The dolls are Mary Ann and Obang the Clown. They are made from daddy's white socks. Their garments are simple to make, too. Mary Ann's cotton pajamas have fashionable rick-rack braid. The cap worn by Obang is created from the toe of an old black silk sock!

Pattern No. E-843 includes designs for both dolls. It also contains transfer patterns for the facial features of both dolls.

BY MARY MEADE.

"With his ears along his back, on a gallopading run Came a hot, cross bunny for a hot, cross bun. . . ."

The nonsense is Poet Arthur Guiterman's. But the lines express what most of us feel about hot cross buns, sweet rolls, or even parkerhouse rolls—home made ones, that is. If we don't literally make a "gallopading run" for them, we do so figuratively. Fresh from the oven, they're the people's choice.

Hot cross buns, Mother Goose's "one a penny, two a penny," kind may be made from any sweet roll dough. Though traditional at Eastertime, these buns are much too delicious to be confined to one season. The distinguishing characteristic is the cross shaped gash on each bun, which is filled with frosting.

Hot Cross Buns.

1 cup milk
1 cake compressed yeast
1½ cups flour
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs
⅓ cup butter
⅔ cup raisins
Flour to make soft dough

Scald the milk and cool it to lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast in it, and add the 1½ cups of flour. Beat together well, cover, and let the batter remain in a warm place [80 degrees F.] until light. Add the sugar, salt, eggs [beaten] and melted butter, and enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn onto a floured board and knead lightly, working in the raisins. Turn dough into a warm, greased bowl and allow it to rise until double in bulk. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and divide into pieces for buns. Shape each into a small ball. Place the buns in a lightly greased tin, close together. Brush the tops with butter, cover the tin and allow to rise again. When about half risen, slash the tops of the rolls, making two gashes at right angles across each. When the buns have risen to more than twice their original size, bake at 375 degrees for 5 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees [moderate] to complete the baking. Just before removing the buns from the oven, brush the tops with milk sweetened with a little sugar. While the buns are warm, fill the crosses with confectioner's sugar frosting.

Parkerhouse rolls fit for company may be quite easily made by this recipe. It is wise to remember that in making any rolls a soft dough is wanted, one barely stiff enough to handle. The approximate amount of flour is given here, but this is variable and more or less may be required.

Parkerhouse Rolls.

1 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons butter
¾ teaspoon salt
½ yeast cake
2 tablespoons lukewarm water
3 cups flour

To the scalded milk add the sugar, butter and salt, and stir until dissolved. Dissolve the yeast in the 2 tablespoons of warm water and add it to the first mixture when that has cooled to lukewarm. Stir and knead in enough flour to make a soft dough, place in a bowl and brush the top of the dough with butter. Cover and allow the bread to rise for several hours in a warm place until it has doubled in bulk. Turn out on a lightly floured board, knead lightly and roll ¾ inch thick. Cut with a round, floured cutter, and crease each roll across the middle with a floured knife handle. Brush one half of each roll with melted butter and fold the other half over it. Place rolls in an oiled tin, an inch apart, and allow to rise again to double their bulk. Bake at 425 degrees for about 20 minutes.

More Parties Are Announced for Debutantes

Holiday Season to Be Hectic One for Buds.

PLANS have been made for several new parties for the debutante set, making an already gay holiday season even more hectically gay. Most of the buds who are away at schools will be returning by Friday or Saturday of next week, and their parents still are busy writing regrets and acceptances for parties—to have the complete calendar of engagements in order for the debutantes when they return home.

The ten young women who will assist at the tea-dance Mrs. Wallace Wakem will give for her granddaughter, Miss Celeste Wakem, at the Arts club on Dec. 26 have been invited to stay for a quick supper at the club, with their escorts, and then to see the Princeton Triangle show. After the show they will join all of the debutante set at the Blackstone for the supper-dance the Gustavus F. Swifts and the Robert C. Orrs will give for Miss Jane Swift and Miss Ellen Adair Orr.

Assisting Miss Wakem will be Miss Marjorie Moore and Miss Julia Patterson and their holiday house guest, Miss Peggy Elmes of New York; Miss Narcissa Thorne, Miss Caryl Nicolson, Miss Anne Jay Bryant, Miss Anne Tracy, Miss Margery Nicol, Miss Jane Stude, and Miss Charlotte Lunkin of New York, who is coming from Sarah Lawrence on the 18th with Miss Waken to be her guest for the Christmas season.

Miss Stude's mother, Mrs. Henry Stude, will give a luncheon for Miss Wakem, who is the daughter of Mrs. Charles J. Haines, on Jan. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Wegg will entertain at a dinner and hocky party on Dec. 29 for the bud. Mr. and Mrs. Vail R. Bucklin will give a dinner for Miss Wakem on Dec. 21, taking their guests afterward to the Yale Glee club concert.

Another Ball at Blackstone.

Still later that night the debutantes will go to the Blackstone to dance at the ball Mrs. Wayne Wills is giving for Miss Patterson and Miss Moore, her daughter and niece. Also on the 21st is a dinner-dance at the Racquet club for Miss Margot Reid to be given by Mr. and Mrs. William Roy Carney and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hixon. The young people who attend this party will have several hours of dancing, broken only by the ride from Dearborn parkway to the party at the Blackstone.

Due to the illness of Edward A. Cudahy, his daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, and Mr. Wilhelm, have recalled invitations to the dinner-dance they were to have given tomorrow night at the Racquet club for Miss Reid, Miss Thorne, Miss Swift, Miss Annie May Henry, and Miss Judy Butler.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid to a dinner-dance at the Casino on Dec. 23 for their daughter, Miss Margot, and the invitations are out for the debut tea-dance on Dec. 28 at the Casino of Miss Barbara Frey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Frey.

Invitations are out also for the tea-dance on Dec. 28 at the Blackstone for Miss Barbara Bentley and Miss Rosemary Sauer to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bentley and Mrs. William Albert Sauer. Miss Ruth Tilden will give an eggnog party at home in Winnetka on Dec. 27 for Miss Bentley. Later Mr. and Mrs. Averill Tilden will give a dinner for Miss Mary Warner, another of the debutantes. Miss Ethel Wanner of La Jolla, Cal., will be Miss Tilden's guest over the holidays, coming from the Finch school in New York. The girls were classmates at the Bishop school in California.

Young women who are enjoying their second or third season "out" are not invited to more than three or four of the larger debutante dances, depending on how many of the debutantes they know well, but they do enjoy a variety of more informal parties.

This afternoon a group is gathering at the home of Miss Frances Jeffery in State parkway before going to an out of the way restaurant to have a spaghetti dinner in a party that was organized by Miss Jeffery and Mitchell D. Follansbee Jr. and some of their contemporaries. Miss Jeffery's debut tea and ball were

New Quarters of Arts Club Are Charming

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The new home of the Arts club in the south Wrigley building upholds the tradition for chic and charm that has been built up by the club during the twenty years of its history in its three other homes. But far more spacious is this new home with the most interesting and entrancing outlook the club ever has had.

I cannot think of any city club anywhere in this country, except the River club in New York, perhaps, from which one has such a view. Not the grand, almost overpowering view that one gets from a club whose home is atop a skyscraper, but an intimate closeup that is just as stimulating and exciting, it seems to me.

There may be those who will wonder how the murky brown waters of the Chicago river can be soul satisfying, but they are forgetting that the view includes also the Michigan avenue bridge, the quays adjoining it, the tall buildings on the south bank, the lights, the constant stream of trafic crossing the bridge, and the life on the river which now includes great pieces of ice that have found their way from the lake into the river.

The members may have felt sad when they had to give up the rooms in the North Wrigley building in which the club had functioned for about a dozen years, but yesterday when they saw their almost completed new home and took one look out of a south window, they must have felt delighted that they had had to move.

The two large dining rooms on the third floor are not ready, but all the rest of the club was open yesterday for the inspection of the 600 members and guests who attended the opening reception between 4 and 6 o'clock.

Arthur Heun did the architectural plans for the rooms and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president, worked out the decorations. She has preserved the Directoire feeling of the stunning rooms decorated by the late Mrs. John Alden Carpenter [Rue Winterbotham] when she was the club's president, on the lower floor—the second of the building—but on the upper of the two floors the club occupies she has "gone baroque in a big way."

Most of the colors are vivid and rich, especially the blue of the entrance hall which is the blue of the deep sea without, however, the greenish tone that one usually associates with sea blue. A pale pink ceiling and pink light fixtures are effective with the blue of the walls. The floor, like those of the inner halls, is of black terrazzo marble.

Pompeian red and a dark brick red are combined on the walls of the octagonal inner hall which has pale gray pillars and ceiling. The main hall, in which hangs one of the handsome crystal chandeliers from the old club, has walls of such a pale gray that they are almost white, glass curtains of the same soft shade and terracotta taffeta draperies through which electric light is filtered. At one end is the powder room where the brilliant Empire green that was such a favorite color with Rue Carpenter has been preserved. Combined with it is white.

At the other end is the entrance to the lounge, a stunning room with several large windows facing south. In all of these Mrs. Goodsped has placed furniture so that they are cozy places in which to relax at tea time and enjoy not only tea but the view. The color scheme of the lounge is built around one of Mme. Cutoli's modern tapestries that were exhibited at the club last lyear. This particular one is a Bracque that was purchased by Harold F. McCormick, the secretary of the club, and presented to the club. It is in soft greens, browns, tans, and near whites.

The Lurcat designed rug that the club purchased from Mme. Cutoli some years ago, but which was not used recently in the old rooms, occupies the center of the black wood floor in the lounge and contributes to the color scheme, for the gold of the rug is repeated in some of the furniture coverings. So are the gray and white and black of the snake line designs in the rug border. Most of the furniture is the same that was in the North Wrigley but it all has new coverings. The walls and Venetian blinds are pale green, the draperies of reseda green corduroy, and the pillars and pilasters of gold over green are topped by pure gold.

At the far end of the lounge, which is a large room with the furniture

Fourth Presbyterian Gets Chalice Saved During Chicago Fire

A panorama of 65 years was viewed last night at Fourth Presbyterian church when older members recalled historic incidents in the congregation's life together with notable civic events of the period, including the Chicago fire of 1871 and the Haymarket riots.

Among the reminiscers were Edward H. Smith, senior elder; Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, oldest active member; Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor emeritus, and Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, pastor.

Dr. Anderson presented a chalice which was rescued from Northminster church during the fire of 1871 by Elder Charles M. Howe, who buried it along with family silver in the sand of Lake Michigan. After it was believed to have been lost, it was returned and the session, having provided a new one, gave it to Mr. Howe. It came into the possession of Mrs. F. W. Crosby, Lake Forest, daughter of Mr. Howe, who gave it to Dr. Anderson to present to the church.

The First Film from Mongolia Makes a Hit

"SON OF MONGOLIA."
Produced by Lenfilm.
Directed by Ilya Trauberg.
Presented at the World Playhouse.

THE CAST.

Tseven	Tseven Rabdan
Dulma	Igin-Khorlo
The Chauffeur	Sosor-Barma
The Innkeeper	Gombo
The Prince	Bato-Ochir

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

And now, bows from the silversheet, the first Mongolian movie. It's good, too. A unique and quite inoffensive blend of propaganda, comedy, and travelog.

The Russians produced it. But most of the acting is performed by Mongolian players from the state theater at Ulan-Bator, speaking in their native tongue.

Against fascinating and authentic backgrounds—the film was made in the autonomous republic of Ulan-Bator—a naive story unfolds.

It is the tale of an inarticulate, lovesick Mongolian herdsman, one of three rivals for a fair herdswoman's hand. Feeling certain that he will never be accepted by the lady unless he becomes a hero, he consults various sages as to what he shall do. His innkeeper rival, knowing that Dulma—that's the girl—really prefers Tseven—pulls a mean trick. He pays a traveling monk to tell the youth that, if he travels over the border, he will discover the trick of hero-ing. . .

And so, the simple fellow departs. . . . And such a time as he has in hostile Manchukuo. Dear! Dear! His protests against the manner in which the Japanese conduct their affairs—so different from the soviet way of doing things, lands him in prison. . . . But he escapes through the connivance of another Mongolian, and the wit of his trained horse [sort of a Mongolian Tom Mix, Actor Rabdan!] and hies him home.

Here he warns his government about bewaring of the Japanese, outwrestles the community strong man and becomes the triumphant winner of the big shots' thanks, the people's admiration, and Dulma's heart and hand.

There is about this film a delightful folk quality, a fresh and simple humor that rise serene from encroaching sovietisms. The players are completely at home before the camera, and very engaging in their little oddities. One of these you notice is a habit of singing to themselves. I do it and it makes people mad—but you like it in the Mongolians.

Photography is excellent, direction was intelligent, and literate English subtitles make the action entirely understandable.

TOYS follow the times note. Trailers are on the toy counters this year. The Dionne babies have been replaced by girls, each in a different colored dress, with her name on a medal at her neck, and there's a children's game called Three Men on a Horse. One of the mysteries of the toy shopping season, however, is the small set of dishes showing the quints, with name printed on each dish, but only four of everything—four plates, four cups and saucers, and four each of knives, forks, and spoons.

WHILE you're all preoccupied with Mrs. Simpson and the king we want to call attention to the red haired, witty, intellectually inclined young woman who queens it over a ten counter restaurant on the south side. Our informant—we haven't got out that way ourself—says she exercises as much power over the customers who flock into the place as Mrs. Simpson over the king or Mme. Recamier in her salon. For a smile from her burly truck drivers mop the floor, peel potatoes, or wipe dishes. Cars and delivery trucks pack the vicinity, and the place is constantly filled with talk and laughter.

This short order despot is no beauty, it is pointed out, but she is magnetic, gay, and impartial, and, according to our informant, sends everybody out feeling happy for the rest of the day. Although she keeps the radio tuned in for symphonies and opera, to the disgust of customers who want to hear the ball games, and reads poetry and economics, she is a shrewd business woman. A few mornings ago she was heard to tell the other waitress: "Here's 50 cents. Go down to the market and get some carrots. Give them your nicest smile and tell them you want them for the restaurant, but don't let them gyp you. If the price is too high act as if you don't want them and remind them that tomorrow is Sunday and they don't want any left over."

NOTE for balletomanes. A canny west side enthusiast of the Ballet Russe discovered that the second issue of Life contained full page color plates of Massine and Danilova in "Le Beau Danube," cornered the available supply in her neighborhood—forty—and is selling them at 50 cents a copy.

BY way of keeping you informed as to what kind of things go on, we relay the bewildering comment of a mother to her small child, overheard at the South Shore station at 79th street and Exchange avenue:

"There, now, if you keep your finger out of your mouth, like a good boy, mother won't put her finger in your eye any more."

A PREVIEW of "Reunion," the new Dionne quintuplet picture that opens Saturday at the Apollo, suggests possible reason why Mrs. Simpson offered to give up Edward. Perhaps she, too, just learned that he was the legal guardian of the quints.

Bonelli Sings Role of Iago in Opera 'Otello'

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago City Opera company repeated "Otello" last night, with Giovanni Martinelli again in the title rôle and Edith Mason as Desdemona.

Richard Bonelli sang Iago, the part which Lawrence Tibbett had taken in the revival of the Verdi work earlier in the season. He is a less majestic and inhuman Iago than Tibbett, and has not the taller baritone's calm blackness of heart. This Iago did a little storming on his own account. He became gleeful in the completeness of his triumph.

Angelo Canarutto, the young conductor who took "La Bohême" last Sunday because of Roberto Moranzoni's illness, directed "Otello" for the same reason. He has great talent for the job, with a nice eloquence of phrase and a gift for squeezing from the score all the poetry of which it is capable.

A special word for the excellent Cassio of Giuseppe Cavadore. The man's voice is smooth and attractively textured and his portrayal of the weak, bibulous official remarkably effective.

This is the last week of the opera's season. It ends Sunday night with a special nonsubscription "La Juive."

Leslie Howard Will Bring His 'Hamlet' to City

Production to Open Here Christmas Night.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Plans were completed yesterday for a brief engagement of Leslie Howard in his production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" at the Grand Opera house, opening on Christmas night. Eight night performances and three matinées will be given. His stay in this theater cannot continue beyond Jan. 2 because the "Ziegfeld Follies" is scheduled to arrive there on Jan. 4.

Howard will end his New York run of five weeks in "Hamlet" at the Imperial theater next Sunday night and will give his company a rest until the Chicago première. He had to secure special permission from the Actors' Equity association to close the engagement and reopen elsewhere before the expiration of the eight weeks period stipulated in that organization's contracts. This permission was granted Tuesday.

After a year's preparation Mr. Howard launched his "Hamlet" on Broadway, marking his Shakespearean debut, on Nov. 10. Two weeks earlier John Gielgud, a star from London, had offered "Hamlet" under the management of Guthrie McClintic, Katharine Cornell's husband, and had scored a hit. Comparisons between his interpretation and Howard's were inevitable, and the latter suffered in the outburst of Shakespearean analysis in the press.

The New York dramatic critics conceded, however, that Howard's stage settings for the play were much more impressive than Gielgud's and that his company was superior in a number of the major rôles. In his support he has Wilfrid Walter as the King, Mary Servoss as the Queen; Pamela Stanley, a well known English actress, as Ophelia; Aubrey Mather as Polonius, Joseph Holland as Horatio, Clifford Evans as Laertes, Albert Carroll as Osric, and John Barclay as the Ghost.

This engagement will be Howard's first appearance on the Chicago stage since "Berkeley Square" in 1930, the year in which his film career began. Since then he has returned to the footlights twice, in "The Animal Kingdom" and "The Petrified Forest," but neither of these plays reached Chicago. His Romeo to Norma Shearer's Juliet in the motion picture version of the Shakespearean tragedy is a matter of recent memory. In London in 1933 he acted the rôle of William Shakespeare in a drama called "This Side Idolatry."

They don't reproduce the rose window in the Cathedral of Rheims, an archway in the Alhambra or the Taj Mahal by moonlight. They're the kind you see on the members at Meadowbrook—or the floor of the Stock Exchange—in the proud little shops of London—and on the best dressed men in Chicago.

The Man on the Blue

By Luke Short

SYNOPSIS.

Shamrock Ireland, arrogant young westerner, wanted for shooting a town marshal in self-defense over a card game, reaches Arizona on his blue and saves the life of Sherif Lobell, who is about to be shot by a girl, Nancy Hyatt. The Hyatts—Nancy and her brother, Mayo—have lost their ranch, the Double Diamond, to the bank. Mayo, recently paroled, has threatened to kill any man who serves him with a dispossess. Because Shamrock believes it was Mayo who betrayed the man who brought him up, he accepts the dangerous task of serving the papers. He confronts Mayo Hyatt at his ranch and learns he has misjudged him, but Nancy scorns him. She tried to shoot Lobell to save her brother, paroled on good behavior, from killing him. Shamrock decides to investigate Lobell's grudge against the Hyatts. He bullies Lobell into appointing him deputy sherif. Shamrock suspects Lobell intends to kill him "by accident" and cleverly outwits him, causing Lobell to shoot one of his own men. Maginnis, a stable boy, is wanted, according to Lobell, across the border as a killer. Shamrock senses that Lobell, for some reason of his own, plans to have the lad shot while "attempting to escape" on the trip across the border. He steals the jail keys so that the boy cannot be taken out while he's away at the Hyatt ranch with Lobell. Lobell sends Shamrock in to face Hyatt. To convince the Hyatts he is with them Shamrock offers to shoot Lobell. He persuades Hyatt to leave the ranch till they can investigate.

INSTALMENT XXII.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER.

With a still, cold face, Shamrock started across the corral lot.

All five of them were facing him, mounted, watchful, as he approached.

"Where is he?" Lobell asked.

Shamrock swung onto Blue before he answered. Then he looked deliberately at Lobell, the mockery in his eyes little dancing lights.

"He give up," Shamrock said. "If you come back in an hour, the place is yours."

Lobell didn't say anything for a full ten seconds, then he said: "Well, isn't that fine. How many men are in there?"

"Ten" Shamrock said, looking the sherif in the eye.

The sherif thought a moment. "Countin' Hyatt?"

"Did I say Hyatt?" Shamrock asked softly. "I didn't mean to. He ain't there." He spoke the lie deliberately, with obvious enjoyment.

The sherif came erect in his saddle, then he leaned forward, all the false good humor gone from his face. "He ain't there, did you say?"

For answer, Shamrock turned in the saddle so he could survey the men behind him. "Hyatt was tipped off that we were comin' out here this mornin'. And if I don't miss my guess plenty, he knew why we were comin'. He's gone, hightailed it. His foreman's in there ready to pay off the hands. Give him time to leave, he says, and the place is ours." He paused, his gaze still on the other men. "Somebody had been talkin'," he said quietly, meaningly.

Each of the four looked at the others, then at the sherif, then at Shamrock, and squirmed uncomfortably.

"I thought I heard Hyatt's voice," Pace said bluntly.

"I thought I did too," Shamrock answered, and let it go at that.

The sherif was looking over his men, and Shamrock tried to keep from holding his breath until Lobell spoke. Shamrock was sure Pace and Freed had been told last night of the plans to down Hyatt, and maybe the other two had. He was staking everything on that chance.

Then Lobell said: "So that's it? Somebody has been gettin' ideas." His voice was soft, purring, smooth, and deadly.

"I'd of swort that was Hyatt walkin' to the bunkhouse when we was comin' down that far hill," Pace persisted.

"Go in and see," Shamrock invited. "There's that foreman in there just honin' to see you—any of you, but Lobell especially. They want to thank you for bein' out of a job."

"Nothin' happened to you," Pace blustered.

Shamrock said nothing. He knew Pace was calculating his chances of getting through the same welcome Shamrock did, and he knew too that Pace's kind found courage only in numbers. And now Pace fell silent in the face of Lobell's cool stare. Of all, Harmer was the calmest. He was almost indifferent, yet he met Lobell's look in kind, and did not shift his gaze.

"Let's go," Lobell said briefly.

Shamrock immediately turned Blue beside the sherif. The others, in the order of their coming, turned and started down the road, Pace and Harmer in the lead.

"It's funny, ain't it," the sherif said suddenly, "that you can save some jaspers' necks a dozen times, but if you call on 'em for a little gratitude, they sell out for a drink."

None of them spoke, and the sherif mused on, but this time in silence. They had gone a mile before Lobell asked:

"Where'd Hyatt get all the men? Five is their crew."

"I saw one of them in the Legal Tender last night," Shamrock lied.

"Gunman?"

"Looked it."

The sherif was quiet a while. "When did Hyatt leave?"

"Last night," Shamrock said carelessly.

They were slogging down the trail, each of them tense and wary, when Lobell turned suddenly to Shamrock: "Last night, you say. Are you sure of that?"

"The foreman said so."

Lobell lapsed into silence again, yet Shamrock wondered. He was about to risk a question, then decided against it.

"Did you ever mention this Maginnis to Hyatt?" the sherif asked presently.

Shamrock looked blankly at him. "No. Why should I?"

"So that's it?" the sherif said softly.

The sherif's face was strangely composed. Shamrock cast about for a clue to Lobell's reasoning, but he could not find it.

It was scarcely a minute until the sherif's horse shied a little, skitting out to the side of the road. He cursed him gently, and the men who had looked back, turned around again to their business.

Shamrock saw it. With a deadly swift, near invisible flick of his hand the sherif whipped his gun up and shot. The slug hit Pace in the back and he was driven over the horn of his saddle; then he slipped off into the road.

Before the rest could quiet their horses, the sherif had them covered. They all stopped, Shamrock included, looking stupidly at the sherif, then at Pace.

He was lying face down in the dust, a hole in his back.

"The next time one of you think you can sell me out, remember that," the sherif said pleasantly. He looked over at Freed. "I don't think you were in it, Freed. I don't know, but I don't think so."

Freed licked his lips nervously. "I—I don't savvy it, chief."

"After we took that Maginnis kid in, George and Harmer took Coyne's body over to the hardware store. Freed, you took them horses back to the stable. Ireland and me was in the Legal Tender. Comin' out here for Hyatt was his idea. After I left him, I went back and told Pace about it. Then I went down to see Coyne. Everybody was busy—except Pace." He laughed softly. "He was the only man free.

"He skipped out and told one of Hyatt's men that we'd caught Maginnis. Hyatt was in town somewhere, and the jasper told him. Hyatt staged that key grab. And Pace helped him. Hyatt didn't carry a gun because he knew if another murder was hung on him, the county would string him up. It would have gone off good, except that door slammed and he didn't have time to talk to Maginnis." He spoke to Freed now. "They knew it would wake you, Freed, so Pace give his head a hell of a bump to make it look like he was slugged, and Hyatt hightailed it past you." He paused a moment, regarding Freed coldly. "Of course, Pace could have brought you in on it when you got back. It's damn funny a man could sneak into that jail with you in it."

"I—I done a lot of things, but I ain't crossed you yet, chief," Freed said surlily.

Lobell holstered his gun. "I don't suppose a one of you knot headed jaspers know what this means?"

No one spoke.

"It means Hyatt is likely in town now with a gang of men and that he's yanked Maginnis clean out of jail." His voice was harsh with anger. "Ride, damit! Ride. Don't stare at me! Ride!"

Vote to Drop Use of Word Professor at Louisiana Tech

Ruston, La., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The men's faculty club of Louisiana Tech voted today to drop the title "professor."

The action was taken on complaints that the word is subject to "abuse and misuse" and that it "no longer implies respect and often holds a teacher in ridicule."

The word "professor" is defined as a "skilled and learned teacher of the highest grade."

The instructors said they objected principally to its street application to the man who plays the fiddle while the medicine man mingles among the crowd and offers "three bottles for a dollar."

Private Duty Nurses Give 1,172 Free Days to Poor

Private duty nurses contributed 1,172 days of service to patients who could not afford to pay for this care, Miss Ethel Holbrook, president of the First district of the Illinois State Nurses' association, reported last night at the annual meeting at the Auditorium hotel. Miss Holbrook also told of a "refresher course" that is being planned for this winter to enable nurses to learn of the latest developments in various types of nursing.

Actors Collide; Barrymore Is Knocked Down

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—It was a scene in "Maytime" at Metro studio, in which John Barrymore was to rush out of Jeanette MacDonald's dressing room as Nelson Eddy rushes in.

Robert Leonard directed one rehersal and called for the take "with lots of action."

The door opened and Barrymore strode out. Eddy lunged forward. As they rushed past each other Eddy's right shoulder caught Barrymore on the chin and sent the actor sprawling.

When John was picked up and dusted off the lower part of his profile was swollen.

"I didn't realize Eddy was such a big man. I thought you were equal height to the shoulders," Leonard apologized to Barrymore. Eddy also apologized.

Clark Gable and Myrna Loy are doing a Christmas bit by autographing sheets of tuberculosis seals between shots on their "Parnell" set. Any one who mails them a sheet of stamps will get it signed.

Errol Flynn wears a sash around his waist; says belts are too uncomfortable.

Anita Louis is moving forward fast as a leading woman after five years as an ingénue. Warner studio has cast her in "Call It a Day" with Alice Brady, Olivia De Havilland, Roland Young, and Frieda Inescort, and in "The Go-Getter" with George Brent and Ricardo Cortez.

Richard Boleslawski, directing "The Past of Mrs. Cheyney," was lamenting Hollywood's shortage of blond leading men. "Whom can a director put in his picture, Nelson Eddy, Gene Raymond, or Leslie Howard?" he asked. He answered his own question by casting Ralph Forbes.

Louise Latimer's legs were slightly burned in an accident that might have resulted seriously. She was posing for fashion stills in a metallic dress when her clothing caught fire from a spark from a shorted wire. Tom Kelly, the photographer, beat out the flame.

Shirley Lloyd, young actress at Warner's, has changed her name to Karen Lloyd. She said there always has been one Karen in the family and that it's the family's lucky name.

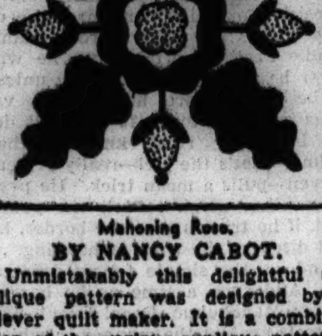
Quilt Combines Various Favorite Applique Designs

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Mahoning Rose.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Unmistakably this delightful applique pattern was designed by a clever quilt maker. It is a combination of the various applique patterns which have been favorites for generations. It has the charm of the quilt, the original of which was made hundreds of years ago, and all the fascination employed in most of the fairly modern rose designs. It is a large block, measuring 17½ inches square when completed, and sixteen of the blocks are required for an entire coverlet. They are set together with four inch bands of white material, surrounded by a four inch border and finished with a half inch binding.

Peter Ball Will Wed Cherry Pinckard Today.

Miss Cherry Pinckard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pinckard of London, will be married this afternoon in New York to Peter Ball, son of Dr. and Mrs. Otho F. Ball of 1325 Astor street. The wedding will take place in St. Bartholomew's church, with the rector, the Rev. George Paul T. Sargent, reading the ceremony. A reception will follow at the Sulgrave, where the bride and her parents have been staying since coming from England in mid-November. Miss Biddy Ainley of London and Miss Nancy Reid of New York will attend the bride, and Richard F. Baum of Chicago will be Mr. Ball's best man. Ushering will be John Buffington Tredway and Thomas Palmer Tredway, both of Erie, Pa.; Paul Poole of Chicago, and Eric E. Oulashin of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Ball will live in New York.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman and Mrs. Frank Hibbard have been reëlected honorary president and president of the Casino. Other officers are: First vice president, Arthur Meeker; second vice president, Howard F. Gillette; secretary, Joseph T. Ryerson; treasurer, Charles S. Dewey; governors, Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Charles Y. Freeman, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Morris L. Johnston, Noble B. Judah, Mrs. John C. Murphy, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Barrett Wendell Jr., and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr.

Woman's Athletic Club to Hear David Seabury.

David Seabury will lecture on "Understanding Our Times" at 11 o'clock this morning at the Woman's Athletic club. Members may bring three guests to the lecture.

Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis will talk on Russia at the causerie of the Alliance Française this afternoon. Mrs. Ralph Winston will be hostess at the tea following the lecture, assisted by Mrs. George W. Lupton, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. Frank Mulford, and Mrs. Walter Bracken, among others.

Countess Potocka, Mrs. Carl Schmidt, Mrs. Lawrence Y. Crump, Miss Beatrice Bamford, Miss Betty Ballachey, and Miss Jane Cushing will be ushers at a lecture at the Drake hotel at 8 o'clock tonight. The lecture is sponsored by the Tower Town Friends of the Chicago Junior school. Mrs. Jack Vallely of California will speak on world affairs as they are mirrored in current literature.

WEDDINGS

Announcement is made of the marriage in New York on Dec. 3 of Miss Margaret Kraffmiller of that city to George Hills Marsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Thomas Marsh of Geneva. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh will live in New York, where young Mr. Marsh has been pursuing a dramatic career since leaving Dartmouth college. The wedding took place in the Little Church Around the Corner.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Genevieve M. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Johnson, 9239 South Ada street, to Conrad J. Le Master, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Le Master, 8445 Oglesby avenue, on Nov. 28 at Messiah Evangelical Lutheran church. The day was her parents' 30th wedding anniversary. A wedding dinner was served at the Wedgewood hotel, and a reception followed. After a three weeks' wedding trip to Honduras, Panama, and Cuba Mr. and Mrs. Le Master will live on the south side.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Brubaker, 1708 West 102d street, announce the wedding of their daughter, Katherine J. Brubaker, to Howard S. Baumgardner, son of Mrs. Amy Baumgardner of Cincinnati, O., on Thanksgiving eve at Bethany Union church. A reception followed at the Brubaker home.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE TRAP PASS.

Very rarely should an opening bid be passed, when the distribution of the hand is not freakish. To pass a hand such as in the vain hope that the opponents will overbid and can be doubled is the height of guileless optimism. It is far more likely that a game will be lost because partner, holding a hand distributionally strong but weak in honor tricks, also must pass and the opponents will not have enough strength to open the bidding. Such tactics as passing a strong hand in order to lay a trap can be attempted only against erratic players who open the bidding "on general principles," in third or fourth positions. Such bidders, who were not uncommon a few years ago, now are so rare that the few survivors of their species are not bridge players but anachronisms.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the six of hearts and, before declarer touched a card in the dummy, he properly went about counting his potential winners. He could see two certain spade tricks, four certain diamonds, and one club, a total of seven, and it was apparent immediately that he would not require three tricks in hearts. If he had there would have been no doubt as to the proper first play; he would have let the heart lead run to his own jack, so that if the king were in the leader's hand the jack would win the first trick and a subsequent finesse win two more. The fact that he did not require three heart tricks made declarer give serious thought to the possibility that the heart king was held by East, and it was an easy matter to anticipate that, if that were the case, and dummy were to play the deuce on the opening lead, East, on winning with the king and being faced with two certain heart tricks in dummy, would shift to another suit. Obviously, there was danger that this shift would be to the declarer's badly protected club suit.

Had declarer needed only one trick in hearts to complete his contract, the proper play would have been to put up dummy's ace, since he still would have control of the heart suit, but with two tricks necessary neither the ace nor a complete duck was correct.

Declarer made the correct selection in playing the queen and, when East won this with the king, East was faced with a real problem. He simply could not tell whether declarer's original no trump and rebid had been based on the ace-queen of clubs or on merely the ace of clubs and a strong position in spades and diamonds. If West had a certain spade or diamond entry it might be fatal not to return his opening lead. A club shift might give the declarer just the time he needed in which to set up his diamond suit. East's decision, therefore, to return the nine of hearts cannot be severely criticized, for certainly there was no way for him to tell whether the play of the heart queen on the first lead had been a genuine finesse or merely a device by which the declarer was insuring a heart return.

Obviously, on the return of the heart, South had no trouble with the hand. He won with the jack, cleared away the diamond ace, and later was able to claim nine tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Dealer opened the bidding with one club. I, second hand, held:

♠ A K 8 5 3 ♥ A K 9 4 3 ♦ 7 ♣ 8 4.

What should I have bid?

Answer: Two spades.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Nobody who heard the première program of the Fireside Theater over W-G-N last night will ever need to speculate again on what goes on at Notre Dame besides football. For one thing they turn out glee clubs that perform as well on the kilocycles as their football men on the gridiron.

The Fireside Theater aims to present each week something of the best in musical or dramatic talent. It got off to a noteworthy start.

Besides the glee club it presented Wilfred Engelman, young Chicago baritone who is to make his Metropolitan Opera debut within a fortnight, the ever popular Margery Maxwell, and Lou Adrian's orchestra. Next week the Goodman theater group is to give Arch Oboler's play, "The Other Man."

Another promising program entitled "Romance and Roses" made its first appearance from W-G-N studios last evening. Conceived by Harold Stokes, it's a 30 minute cargo of soft relaxing music and poetry. Hugh Studebaker does the romancing and Berenice Taylor, Chicago soprano, tosses the roses—and deftly, too. Earle Tanner, popular tenor you used to hear on KYW long ago, was the other very capable soloist. [We should like to hear him more often.]

The Doring sisters, Glee club, and orchestra, augmented by pipe organ and harp, offered neat blends of dulcet harmony—and at least on soporific melody, "Opium Waltz," imported from Poland and heard on the air for the first time last night. "Romance and Roses" will make good listening at 9 p. m. Wednesday, when the alternatives are Gang Busters or the Hit Parade on the chains.

The Simpson case is scrambling radio schedules these days. Right in the middle of regularly sponsored programs announcers are cutting in with press-radio flashes relaying the latest information from the London front. Other night a dance program was interrupted by a bulletineer. When the orchestra was put back on the air a minute later it was in the middle of "A Fine Romance, with No Kisses."

If you haven't been listening a lot lately this will give you an idea of how the "constitutional crisis" is dominating the airfare: Floyd Gibbons has actually quit talking about butchery in Spain and is giving his full attention to the British affair.

arranged in eight distinct groupings, the floor is raised so that that part can be used as a stage. The antique Chinese figures that were grouped together in the hall of the old clubrooms are scattered around the lounge now.

The walls of another large hall and the galleries, where yesterday Joseph Winterbotham's collection of paintings and drawings was hanging, are of pickled wood and the indirect lighting is a superb achievemnt in which the experts at the Ast institute helped no end, Mss. Goodspeed said yestertay.

One coat of white paint is on the wood paneled walls of the circular sculpture exhibition room and the effect is a delicate flesh color that is very lovely. A tiny bit of a room cleverly has been made into a Beidemier library.

The staircase is modern baroque and in the upstairs hall the walls are gray blue. This color predominates in the flowered paper on the walls of the one dining room that is ready for luncheon service. There are two small private dining rooms that are enchanting, done in the most rococo-ish baroque and in brilliant colors. Magneta and plum are the colors of the draperies and satin covered seats in the larger dining room. The two larger rooms that are not finished are on the river side of the building.

Mrs. Mary Tilt Bartlett is responsible for painting the shell-like design around the windows of the cocktail room. The colors in this little room, which will be a popular one, no doubt, are various tones of Italian red. The light fixtures are especially effective and unusual, being large pale pink shells.

The galleries of the club are open to the public, free of charge, from 9:30 until 5:30 each day when there is an exhibition at the club.

CRITIC PRAISES LIGHTING

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The first exhibition in the Arts club's new galleries is a loan exhibition of modern paintings from the Joseph Winterbotham collection. The pictures are beautifully installed in galleries that have the last word in lighting.

The walls are a neutral white and the lights are overhead and concealed behind glass. With that practical bit behind us the exhibition itself comes more clearly into focus.

Chief among the paintings must be reckoned the brilliant "Self-Portrait" by Vincent Van Gogh and the deliciously expressive "Woman with Boa" by Degas. Chirico is represented with a noble group of sly Romans, all very uncomfortable in mind.

Salvador Dali shows a joyous bit of fantasy, "The Shades of Night Descend," which boasts the loveliest of color. Pissarro has a typical exquisite landscape, "Ducks in Pond." Among the Renoirs the "Girl with Golden Hair" is especially charming.

Pruna is noted for his decorative screens and the large and lovely mural that intrigues us here has been seen in earlier Arts club shows. The figure of the young girl to the right is John Carpenter's daughter. She appears lovely and slim. Across from her hangs a portrait of her mother, long a famous figure in Chicago as Rue Carpenter. The charming portrait, which makes the late Mrs. Carpenter look as insouciant as a boy, is by Paul Thevenez and was painted in 1919.

This dip into history is continued when we confront two intriguing early American paintings, one the portrait of a Mrs. White as a fat and pretty child, and the other a dignified family group.

The "Christ at House of Simon Peter" by El Greco is too well known for longer comment. Charles Dufresne is represented by a decorative flower composition, and there are several delightful Daumiers.

In the large drawing room of the club no one must overlook the Braque tapestry which was presented to the Arts club by Harold F. McCormick. Mrs. Goodspeed, president of the club, based her decorating scheme for this room upon its subtle greens and browns. The original cartoon is in the Copenhagen museum so this particular tapestry will never be repeated.

The exhibition will continue to Dec. 31.

TOWNSEND PLAN UNSOUND, HOUSE GROUP REPORTS

'Bad Records' of Some of Its Leaders Cited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The long delayed report of a special house committee on the Townsend old age pension plan was made public today. The committee reported that the Townsend plan was economically unsound and that many of the state leaders under Dr. Francis E. Townsend were men of "notoriously bad character and records," who had made large profits out of the contributions of the aged.

Dr. Townsend and two of his aids were indicted several days ago by the District of Columbia grand jury on charges of contempt of the house. The indictment was based upon the refusal of Dr. Townsend and his associates to testify before the house committee.

Assailed on Five Counts.

The Townsend scheme for providing pensions for the aged is economically unsound on five counts, the committee reported, listing them as follows:

1. Ten per cent of the people would receive half the national income from the labor of the other 90 per cent.
2. The cost of living would rise immediately and this rise would continue with increased rapidity.
3. The administration of the tax would be enormously expensive and its enforcement almost impossible.
4. Unemployment would be enormously increased.
5. Its operation would wreck the economic and financial structure of the country and bring chaos and ruin.

Summing up the evidence gathered, the committee reported that Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., was organized by Dr. Townsend and Robert E. Clements in 1934. Clements sold out his interests later, making $79,000 in salaries, dividends and profits in the little over a year in which he was connected with the movement in addition to having his living expenses paid.

Dr. Townsend received approximately $52,000 in salaries, dividends, and profits from the movement up to April 1, 1936, in addition to his living expenses, the committee found. In addition he controls the Prosperity Publishing company, with assets of several hundred thousand dollars.

"Making Large Profits."

"Some of the leaders of the Townsend movement, aside from Dr. Townsend and Mr. Clements, were men of notoriously bad character and records and most of the key men in the movement were making large profits out of it, together with receiving their living expenses on a lavish scale," the committee reported.

"The refusal of Dr. Townsend to proceed with his testimony and his instructions to the leaders in the movement to refuse their testimony, indicate the unwillingness of this group to make a full disclosure of their activities and their desire to conceal the unsavory records of many of them."

RICHBERG QUITS AS SPECIAL ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Resignation of Donald Richberg, one-time NRA administrator, as a special assistant attorney general was announced today by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Richberg, who had been assigned to prosecute oil companies charged with having defrauded the Osage Indians, resigned as of Nov. 30, when he formed a law partnership.

He was originally appointed to the justice department post April 25, 1935, and was reappointed last April 17 to handle the oil cases.

EDITH MAXWELL LOSES FIGHT FOR WOMEN ON JURY

Wise, Va., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The barring of women on Virginia's grand and petty juries was attacked without success today as Edith Maxwell, 22 year old former school teacher, went on trial the second time for the "slipper heel" slaying of her father.

Defense attorneys charged the girl had been unjustly discriminated against at her first trial in which she was convicted and sentenced to 25 years in prison on charges of killing Trigg Maxwell, 52 year old blacksmith-miner. The state Supreme court ordered the new trial.

The court overruled the defense motions as well as those of Miss Gail Laughlin, a member of the state senate of Maine, who appeared at the request of the National Woman's party to challenge the Virginia system under which women are barred from jury service.

As the second trial got under way, counsel for Miss Maxwell brought a new theory of defense into the case, contending that her father died in his mountain cabin 18 months ago of a heart attack.

The girl testified at her first trial that she struck her parent with a high heeled shoe when he tried to whip her for staying out late at night.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BOSTON TRADES WERBER FOR PINKY HIGGINS

WINSTON STOPS STRICKLAND IN FOURTH ROUND

Buddy Baer Knocks Out Barry.

Edward [Unknown] Winston, one of the best known long shots in eastern boxing circles, wrecked another title prospect last night. The burly colored heavyweight from Holyoke, Mass., who blasted Harry Thomas' championship hopes two months ago, ruined the title dream of Maurice Strickland, champion of New Zealand, by knocking him out in 2 minutes 31 seconds of the fourth round of their scheduled ten round bout at the Chicago Stadium.

A crowd of 5,303 attended the show. Gross receipts were announced as $9,222 and the net $7,435.

Although the spectators realized soon after the match was started that Winston was strong and tossed punches which carried dynamite, they recalled that Strickland displayed skill by whipping Max Marek in a previous battle here. So they just sat back and waited for Strickland to untrack himself and begin connecting with that powerful right which embarrassed Marek. The punch landed all right, but when it did it was the 22 year old foreign boxer's finis.

Winston Gets Mad.

Strickland, who was below normal at 180 pounds, scored with the right after about two minutes in the final round. This made Winston, 197¾, angry, and he drove his rangy foe from Invercargill to the ropes with a two handed fire to the stomach, paused for a fraction of a second, and then lifted his right to the chin. Strickland dropped to his knees, bewildered, misjudged Referee Joe McNamara's count, and tried to arise at ten, but fell back to the canvas on wabbly legs.

His unexpected defeat will cost Strickland a proposed bout with John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, at the Stadium Jan. 15.

Buddy Baer, 238 pound giant from Fair Oaks, Cal., fought according to form in a co-feature and knocked out Patrick Michael Barry, 226, of Ireland, in the first round of their scheduled ten rounder. The time was 2:46.

Baer didn't appear any too good until Barry shoved him into a corner and lambasted his chin with a right and then a left after the referee had asked the fighters to break. Buddy became incensed at this unintentional breach of etiquette. He shot both hands to the body, stepped back when his red headed foe sought protection in the ropes, and drove a right to the heart. Patrick, badly hurt, fell on all fours. He attempted to get up at eight, but couldn't make it.

Garrison Drops Connolly.

Jimmy Garrison, newcomer from Kansas City, Mo., knocked out Joey Connolly, courageous little battler from Scotland, in 1:24 of the fourth round. This battle, also booked for ten rounds, saw Garrison, 137¼ pounds, on the verge of a knockout in the first two rounds, only to rally in the third and score seven knockdowns. Connolly, 139, came out for the fourth appearing fresh, but it wasn't long until he was again down, this time for a five count. Then he was dropped for an eight before being counted out. All ten knockdowns were registered on rights to the jaw.

Eddie Pierce, claimant of the middleweight and light heavyweight title of South Africa, weighing 161 pounds, pounded out a 10 round decision over Ralph Chong, a Chinese battler from New Orleans. Pierce had Chong in a bad way in the ninth and tenth rounds, but could not finish him. Chong was floored twice in the final round, but finished the round fighting back. Chong weighed 166½ pounds.

Al Mollison, Omaha, Neb., 137¾ pounds, won a four round decision over Pete Poulos of the west side, 141¼, in the opening bout.

JEFFRA WHIPS SIXTO ESCOBAR IN TEN ROUNDS

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Harry Jeffra, hard hitting Baltimore bantamweight, defeated Sixto Escobar, world's 118 pound champions, in a hard fought ten round bout in the New York Hippodrome tonight. Escobar's title was not at stake. Weights were 121 for Escobar and 119½ for Jeffra.

It was the southerner's second victory over Escobar in a little more than two months. On Oct. 5 in Baltimore Jeffra won on a split decision.

Tonight's verdict was roundly cheered by a crowd of 4,000 who paid $6,401.80 to see the spirited struggle.

On the Associated Press score card Jeffra was credited with six rounds, Escobar with three, and one was called even.

Walker Wins Decision from Tommy Loughran

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Sonny Walker, 203, young Phoenix, Ariz., heavyweight, scored an important fistic upset here tonight, winning a 10 round decision over Tommy Loughran, 190, Philadelphia.

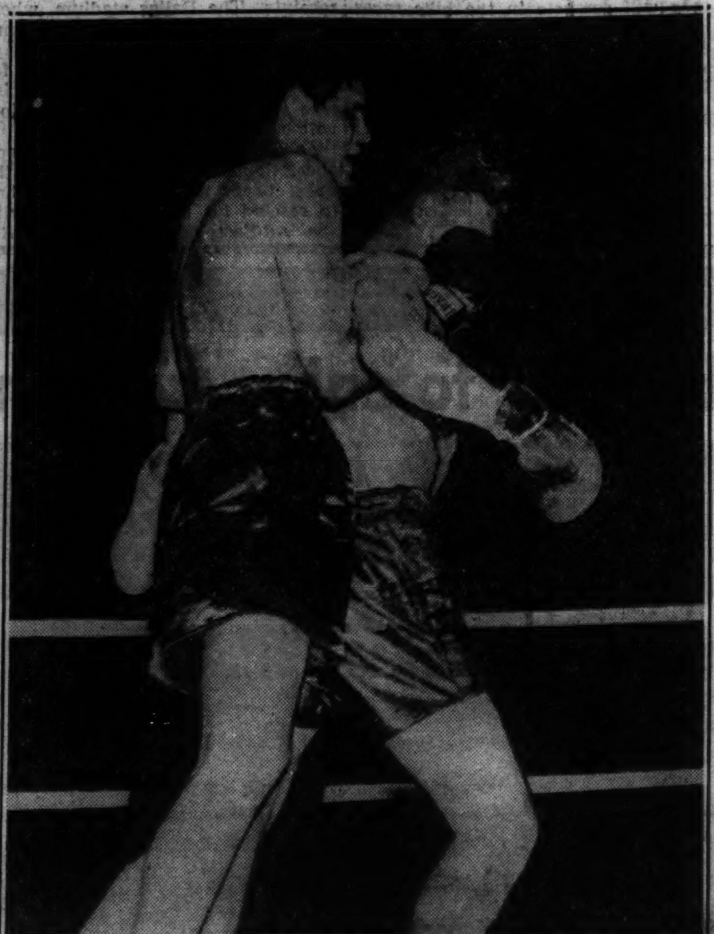
AFTER THE FIGHT WAS OVER



Buddy Baer, 238 pound younger brother of the former heavyweight champion Max Baer, assists Patrick Michael Barry, heavyweight titleholder of Ireland, to his corner after knocking him out in 2:46 of the first round of their scheduled ten round battle at the Chicago Stadium last night. A crowd of 5,303 saw the younger Baer flatten his opponent with a right hook to the heart.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

DEAR WAKE: In the Northwestern-Wisconsin football program appeared a list of Big Ten champions beginning with 1927. Appended is a summary of this list which shows relative standing over the thirty-nine year period from 1897 to 1936. In case of tie or triple tie each team is given credit for a championship.

Wisconsin won the first undisputed championship. Northwestern has just won the last undisputed title. Chicago was undisputed champion six times and in this respect has the best record. Here's the list:

	Champion first time.	Undisputed champion.	Tied for title.	Total.	Champion last time.
Michigan	1898	5	8	13	1933
Minnesota	1900	3	7	10	1935
Illinois	1910	4	3	7	1928
Chicago	1899	6	0	6	1924
Wisconsin	1897	2	2	4	1912
Ohio State	1916	3	1	4	1935
Northwestern	1926	1	3	4	1936

Purdue	1929	1	1	2	1931

Bertram F. Adams, Wis. '02.

THE TRIBUNE'S recent soccer tournament gave merited attention to this worth while game so generally played in Europe. Chicago is behind other American cities in its development. Both St. Louis and Philadelphia recognize it extensively. In the east soccer is an accredited minor college sport.

Those who cannot partake in football because of their physical disadvantages can have a somewhat similar game without football's roughness. New organizations are springing up. Oak Park now has a good team, as THE TRIBUNE contest brought out. Soccer is worth encouraging.
Carl Peterson.

I played fotball at an eastern college; then came west as a salesman. On a trip to Minneapolis in the fall of 1934 I was amazed to see team play such as I had dreamed of but never witnessed. I was prepared for a good team by the even then rabid fans of the Twin Cities, but they had not mentioned team play.

Last year and this year it was the same thing—team play, wonderful work in the line, beautiful blocking, and exceptional timing. Last year several players stood out, but this year only Widseth would get my vote for All-American, but for the BEST team give me Minnesota without any question.

This is not intended as an alibi for the Gophers. Northwestern took advantage of its breaks and deserved to win. On that day and as the game was played it was the better team. My thought, however, is that Minnesota, although beaten by Northwestern, is the best team in the country today.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
Denton, 50; Thurnblad, 42. [74 innings.]
Hoppe, 50; Cochran, 43 [45 innings].
TODAY'S GAME.
8:30 p. m.—Hoppe vs. Layton.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Willie Hoppe of New York and Tiff Denton of Kansas City were the winners of the two games played in the battle for the world's three cushion billiard championship at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

Denton trimmed Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago 50 to 42 in 74 innings. Hoppe, playing in his best stroke, came from behind to give Welker Cochran of San Francisco a 50 to 43 trouncing in 45 innings.

These victories tossed the play for the world's championship into all sorts of possibilities.

It can wind up with four players deadlocked for first place providing Hoppe beats Layton and Cochran wins against Kinrey Matsuyama and then loses to Layton.

Four Players Can Tie.

The four leaders if such a thing should happen each with a record six games won and three lost will be Matsuyama, Layton, Denton and Cochran.

The tournament can end with three players tied for the lead should Layton be beaten in his two remaining games by both Hoppe and Cochran. If that should happen the three leaders would be Matsuyama, Cochran and Denton.

Otherwise the championship play will come to a natural finish tomorrow night in a match between Matsuyama and Layton providing Layton beats both Hoppe and Cochran and Matsuyama defeats Cochran.

Only One Game Today.

But one game is scheduled for today. It brings together Hoppe and Layton at 8:30 o'clock tonight. This will force Cochran to play two games tomorrow. His two remaining foes are Matsuyama and Layton.

Hoppe, although out of the running for this year's championship played the best billiards in defense of the world's championship which he now holds when he defeated Cochran.

Throughout the early innings Cochran had him soundly whipped. Welker was in front 10 to 7 when the first 10 innings were completed. He led 22 to 14 in the 19th inning and at the intermission was leading 26 to 21.

Finally Gets in Stroke.

Into the 32d inning they went with Cochran enjoying a lead of 37 to 29. Hoppe was far off his best stroke but finally found it in the 32d inning. In three innings he made seven points. He trailed 38 to 34 at that stage.

A run of four in the 39th inning sent him into the lead by a score of 43 to 38. From that stage of the game until the finish the result was never in doubt. Hoppe made his shots. Cochran missed his by the narrowest of margins.

After he had beaten Thurnblad yesterday afternoon, Tiff Denton of Kansas City put on his bedroom slippers, touched a match to his best possum hunting pipe and prepared for a long vigil during which he will find out if he still has a chance to win the world's championship.

Denton Beats Thurnblad.

Denton's victory over Thurnblad ended up his tournament play in which he rolled up a record of six victories and three defeats.

He is in third place in the standings.

DON GEYER, N. U. FULL BACK, JOINS ALL-EAST SQUAD

Don Geyer, Northwestern full back, yesterday accepted an invitation to join the All-East football squad which meets the All-West eleven in San Francisco New Year's day in the annual Shrine hospital benefit game.

With the selection of Marquette to play in the Cotton Bowl game at Dallas Jan. 1, Capt. Ray Buivid, who had signified his intention of joining the All-East squad, was forced to withdraw. One more player from the midwest remains to be chosen.

The eleven midwest players chosen thus far include Merle Wendt, Ohio State, and Ken Nelson, Illinois, ends; Ed Widseth, Minnesota, and Charles Hamrick, Ohio State, tackles; Steve Reid, Northwestern, guard; Bud Svendsen, Minnesota, center; John Drake, Purdue, Ed Jankowski, Wisconsin, Steve Toth and Geyer, Northwestern, backs.

The complete east team consisting of eleven players from the east and eleven from the midwest, will assemble at Dyche stadium a week from tomorrow for its first workout. The team will leave that night for the coast.

Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley, formerly of Northwestern, had charge of assembling the squad. They will coach the team.

The Chicago Bears, second place winners in the National league, defeated the Gunners, a semi-pro team, 19 to 6, in an exhibition game last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory before a capacity crowd of 6,000.

The armory gridiron, considerably narrower than a regulation field, and their unfamiliarity with night football indoors, handicapped the Bears at the outset but they soon acclimated themselves and scored in the first, third, and fourth quarters.

The Gunners' touchdown came in the closing minutes of the game when Dick Schweidler, former Creighton half back, took a lateral pass from Fred Lind, old Northwestern quarter back, and went wide around the Bears left end for 42 yards.

Bears Score on Long Pass.

The Bears took a 6 to 0 lead midway in the first quarter on a 53 yard pass from Quarter Back Bernie Masterson to Right Half Beattie Feathers, after a 58 yard march with the opening kickoff had ended with an offside penalty and the Gunners throwing the Bears back 12 yards to the 18 yard line, from where Manders missed an attempted place kick. Manders also missed the try for extra point.

Late in the quarter the Bears, gaining 37 yards on three passes by Masterson to Feathers and Hewitt started a march that carried 64 yards to the Gunners' 6 yard line, but they were repulsed again, giving up the ball on downs. McWilliams relieved the pressure by punting 77 yards to the Bears' 17 yard line where Manske killed the ball.

Stopped Inches from Goal.

Ed Duval, former Northwestern full back and a member of the 1936 All-Star squad, led a Gunner assault late in the second quarter that advanced 50 yards to the Bears' 3 yard line where it was first down. Duval moved it up to the one foot line on the first play, then failed to gain on three smashes and the Bears took the ball inches from their own goal.

McWilliams, on the second play of the third period, got off another excellent punt, a 68 yard quick kick to the 13 yard line, from where the Bears marched 87 yards to their second touchdown. Manders, Corbett, and Sisk put together five first downs without the aid of a pass in the march and Manders smashed inside the Gunners' right tackle, Sam Papich, for the last 11 yards and the score. He also kicked the extra point.

A poor punt by Joe Desmond of the 124th Field Artillery, which went out of bounds on the Gunners' 36 yard line, set the stage for the third Bear touchdown midway in fourth quarter. Ronzani, Feathers, and Sisk lugged the ball to the 13 yard line in six plays and Ronzani passed to Feathers in the end zone to score.

A. L. APPOINTS CARLE M'EVOY RADIO CENSOR

Sox Agree to Play Night Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, announced tonight that he had traded Third Baseman Pinkey Higgins to the Boston Red Sox for Bill Werber. It was the only trade of the day at the major league meetings, which come to a close tomorrow with the annual joint conclave.

Higgins is the tenth player Mack has sent to the Boston club in three years. Unlike the earlier deals involving Lefty Grove, Jimmy Foxx, Roger Cramer, Max Bishop, Rube Walberg, Bing Miller, Dib Williams, Boob McNair, and Johnny Marcum, Mack is said to have received no cash.

Werber batted .275 last year and Higgins, who fell far behind his best years, finished with .289. Werber made his major league bow with the Yanks in 1930 and after three years in the minors, went back to the Yanks in 1933. Higgins joined the A's from the University of Texas in 1930, and after two years rejoined the A's. His best year was 1934 in which he batted .330 in 144 games.

The American league this afternoon appointed L. Carle McEvoy supervisor of radio. It was indicated that McEvoy, former vice president and general manager of the St. Louis Browns, is authorized to act in the rôle of muzzleman or radio booth bouncer, in a dignified way, of course.

The appointment of McEvoy as supervisor or censor of radio broadcasts from American league parks was in line with the blanket contract which the league will submit to the several radio stations of the country.

This contract, opposed only by the group of Chicago stations which broadcast games and said to have been tentatively accepted by stations in other cities, has as its most drastic feature a control clause by means of which the clubs, directly or through the new supervisor, may take definite action against unabridged and inaccurate comment by announcers.

Author of St. Louis Pact.

The result of the American league's action, in the adoption of the contract and the appointment of a supervisor, probably will be the reduction of broadcasting to routine description of the baseball game with some leeway on the favorable side for the announcers who like to "dramatize" good plays.

McEvoy drew the contract under which St. Louis announcers have been operating in that city. It is said that this was the first place where a censorship was attempted. There announcers have not been permitted to voice adverse criticism against umpires or players or mention any competitive sports event. Announcers have been permitted to dramatize plays and themselves, but never in a way that could possibly lessen the prestige of baseball.

The radio folks probably will find McEvoy a most agreeable air czar so long as they hew to the line. He is a pleasant gentleman and has no grouches on radio so long as the rules of propriety, restraint and accuracy are observed.

Managers Oppose Interviews.

No word was received here in regard to the stand Chicago stations will take under the censorship plan. Before the meetings here they had bucked at reading the muzzle clause and had submitted a contract of their own. This was tossed out with scant, if any, consideration.

No stations have taken any exception to the idea of a fee charge for broadcast privileges. In Chicago radio stations have never paid a fee either for broadcasting the game from booths or running around the field and through the dugouts during the practice intervals for "player personality broadcasts."

Some of the American league managers have protested that the swarm of personality broadcasters interferes with their practice sessions. Whether or not the nuisance will be abated by Supervisor McEvoy has not been indicated.

New Yorkers Favor Papers.

The National league is approaching the radio muzzle proposition a little more cautiously. According to President Ford Frick, the league acknowledges all the evils on which the American league has acted, but does not wish to get mixed up in any issue based on the doctrins of free speech and free air. The two leagues will report their actions and attitudes to Commissioner K. M. Landis, a severe critic of radio baseball broadcasting in its careless or critical forms.

The major league clubs of greater New York, the Yankees, the Giants, and the Dodgers, though approving regulatory contracts for radio, will not broadcast. It is said they are bound by contract not to broadcast in deference to demands of New York newspapers.

In Chicago newspapers never have tried to take any action against radio broadcasts. In fact, the leading broadcasters have coöperated with newspapers and vice versa in many

PACKERS ARRIVE IN NEW YORK TO FIGHT FOR TITLE

Weather Big Factor in Battle with Boston.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—The Green Bay Packers, western division winners in the National Football league, arrived here this morning, checked in at the Hotel Victoria and began practice at the Polo grounds.

The Boston Redskins, eastern champions, have returned to the Westchester Country club to prepare for the play-off game Sunday with the Packers for the national title and the Ed Thorp memorial trophy.

The Packers have met the Boston Redskins twice this season. Their first meeting saw Green Bay triumph, 30 to 6. In the second, Boston improved and held them to a 7 to 3 count. Weather conditions are the chief concern of the Packers.

Weather Is Big Factor.

Given a clear day the Packers should have little trouble. They have the greatest passing attack in professional football history. Arnold Herber, their ace passer, has set a new league record, throwing 77 successful passes for a total gain of 1,239 yards. That's better than 100 yards per game for 12 games.

But if the weather is as bad this week as it was for the New York Giant-Boston game Sunday it hardly seems possible that the Packers can throw the ball around that easily. And it is decidedly doubtful that the Packers will win if they can't pass.

Boston Can Run.

In the second meeting with Boston the Packers gained only nineteen yards rushing the ball. It was a desperate fourth down pass from Herber to Donald Hutson that won the ball game. Had it been any other team than the Packers, that pass might have been considered a lucky break. But the Packers have a habit of connecting with a few of their aerial shots in every game and, given a clear day Sunday, they should repeat the trick.

Boston figures to stop the Packer running attack in any kind of going. Boston also can be depended upon to do some running on its own. If anything, Boston will be in better shape than it was for the Giants last week. Cliff Battles, the team's chief ball carrier, had a stiff knee before the Giant game. Now it is completely limbered up and in fine shape.

BASSETT AND HIS HOODOO CAR GET BACK TO RACING

Bill Bassett and his ill fated car will return to midget auto racing competition Sunday night at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Bassett has recovered sufficiently from an accident which sent him to the hospital five weeks ago to take the wheel of the machine which has figured in more crackups in the last year than any car competing on small tracks in these parts.

Bassett hit the wall going at top speed and was carried unconscious from the armory. He spent two weeks at Chicago Memorial hospital and now has received the permission of his physician to resume competition.

Marshall Lewis and Wally Zale who were unable to start last Sunday evening on account of mechanical trouble also will be among the Sunday night contenders. Harry MacQuinn, who won the 15 lap handicap by coming from last place also will be at the starting tape.

Duke Nalon will try to make it four straight by winning the 30 lap feature. He now leads in the point standing for the championship with Shorty Sorenson second and Jimmy Snyder third.

Herber Sets New Passing Records in Pro Football

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Four new player records were established during the 1936 National Professional Football league season and marks in all departments surpassed 1935 totals, official statistics revealed today. The outstanding individual achievement was compiled by Arnold [Flash] Herber, Green Bay Packer half back, who shattered two forward passing marks as he practically pitched his team into the playoff for the world championship against Boston Sunday in New York.

Herber's 77 completions in 173 attemps is the most completed by an individual during a league season. These completions gained 1,239 yards, which bettered the old record of 963 yards made by Harry Newman with the Giants in 1933. This total is believed to be an all time record for American football.

A Team in Himself.

Only one team completed more than 77 passes, Herber's total, and the 1,239 yards gained surpassed the yards gained on passes by any team in the league. Don Hutson, formerly of Alabama, caught 34 of Herber's passes for 536 yards, thereby giving him two new league records. The former marks were 26 catches for 432 yards by Tod Goodwin of the Giants in 1935.

Earl [Dutch] Clark of Detroit, was the only individual to retain his 1935 leadership. His 73 points topped scorers and was 18 points better than his 1935 total. Jack Manders of the Bears, was second with 62 points which also bettered Clark's 1935 total of 55. Hutson was third with 54.

Leemans Gains 830 Yards.

Tuffy Leemans, New York Giants' rookie half back, won the ground gaining title with 830 yards. Eight players surpassed the 1935 high of 499 made by Doug Russell of the Cardinals. Ace Gutowsky, Detroit, was only three yards behind in second place with 827. Clark, Cliff Battles, Boston; and George Grosvenor, Cardinals, follow in order with 628, 614, and 612 yards. Ernie Caddel, Detroit; Bobby Wilson, Brooklyn; and Bronko Nagurski, Bears, also passed last year's totals.

Manders and Armand Niccolai, Pittsburgh, tied for the field goal kicking title with seven field goals. This was one more than kicked by last year's leaders. Ed Matesic, Pittsburgh and Ed Danowski, Giants, were second and third best forward passers.

Pro Football Not So Tough, Says Leemans

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—It costs more to be gullible in professional football than in the college game, Tuffy Leemans observed today as he sat back for a rest from his first season of cash play.

"It's easier to deceive college rivals than these experienced performers of the professional circuit but, generally, your gains are longer when you do get away with something than in the college game," he said.

After leading the National Professional league in ground gained—830 yards — and earning recognition as perhaps the best of the rookie lot, Leemans returned to the capital for the winter.

For three years he played with George Washington university here. Leemans was little known nationally until he sprang to fame after his exploits in the game between the college All-Stars and the Detroit Lions at Chicago last September.

Tuffy found it easier to gain in the pro league than in college, but he argues that the professional lines and blocking were far superior to those he knew in college. He thinks the collegians tackle just as hard as the pros, but that the cash players block much harder.

Professional forwards play more of a waiting game than the college boys, who often crash through and try to outguess their rivals, and for this reason — plus better blocking — pro runners are caught behind the scrimmage line less often than collegians.

RASPUTIN BEATS KILONIS; BOTH FALL FROM RING

Ivan Rasputin of Russia was awarded the decision over Mike Kilonis of New York in 4 minutes and 11 seconds last night at the Arcadia Gardens when both wrestlers went out of the ring and Kilonis failed to climb back through the ropes at the count of twenty.

Two thousand witnessed the show. Nango Singh clamped his cobra headlock on Roland Meeker in [6:14]. Sammy Kohn of California looked impressive in his Chicago debut in downing Clyde Boone [7:06]. Jack Conley threw Dennis Lentz [16:40]. Jack Brown beat Lefty Pacer [26:04].

Max Schmeling to Arrive Today for Showdown

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Max Schmeling is due on the S. S. Bremen tomorrow for a showdown with the New York state athletic commission on a heavyweight title fight with James J. Braddock next June.

The German is to appear before the commission Friday, along with the champion and representatives of Madison Square Garden and the 20th Century Sporting club, to sign for a battle either on June 3 or June 10.

There may be complications galore before the deal is made. If Schmeling should fire a broadside at the proposed Braddock-Joe Louis bout in Atlantic City in February, there is no guessing what course Braddock will follow.

And if the commission insists Max post $25,000 as a guarantee that if he beats Braddock he'll defend the title here within a year, the Teuton may kick up a few capers.

WALTHOUR AND CROSSLEY, BIKE WINNERS, SAIL

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Jimmy Walthour and Al Crossley, America's six day bike race champions, sailed on the Normandie today, no longer dizzy.

Young Walthour said they were looking forward to a rest during the crossing. He said:

"You get so dizzy from riding around in the race and feel so awful from inhaling all the smoke. We sure need a rest."

They will not ride the ship gym's bicycle on the way over. Instead they will row.

Walthour and Crossley are on their way to Antwerp, Belgium, where they will compete in the bike races on Dec. 19. They are planning to enter the English race during the week of May 16, which, according to Walthour, is "coronation week, if they ever coronate anybody."

SET SEASON MARK.

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—A. Wehner's three-game score of 712 and the MacWhyte bowling teams' 3,150 total were new city records for the season tonight as the MacWhytes defeated the Nash Motors bowlers in three games in the Industrial league.

PICK MARQUETTE FOR COTTON BOWL GAME IN DALLAS

Opponent Either Arkansas or Texas Christian.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 9.—Marquette's football team will appear in the annual Cotton Bowl game at Dallas, Tex., New Year's day, it was announced today by Conrad M. Jennings, the Hilltoppers' athletic director. Decision of the school's athletic board to accept the invitation was unanimous. The Rev. Raphael McCarthy, S. J., new Marquette president, included his approval of the post-season encounter.

Marquette, which finished its regular season with seven victories and one defeat, will represent the north against Texas Christian university or Arkansas, according to Jennings. T. C. U. is scheduled to engage unbeaten Santa Clara in San Francisco Saturday. The Hilltoppers will resume practice here tomorrow. Their last start was against Duquesne at Pittsburgh on Nov. 21, a game which the Milwaukee team dropped for its only defeat.

Stadium Accommodates 50,000.

Financial arrangements for the Cotton Bowl contest were not disclosed in detail, but Marquette will receive a substantial percentage of the gate receipts. The Dallas stadium, where the game will be played, accommodates 50,000.

The Marquette squad will leave for the southwest Dec. 18, when Christmas vacation starts. Twelve seniors will be included in the party.

As a result of Marquette's acceptance, Capt. Ray Buivid, one of the finest backs in the nation, has had to rescind his decision to play with the All-East team against an All-Western eleven in the Shriners' classic at San Francisco on New Year's day.

Buivid vs. Baugh?

If T. C. U. is chosen as Marquette's opponent, the contest will bring together two of the outstanding forward passers in collegiate circles, Buivid vs. Sammy Baugh. Buivid completed 60 out of 122 passes in eight games this year for a total gain of 817 yards and ten touchdowns.

Marquette, according to Athletic Director Jennings, also had been considering an opportunity to meet Loyola of Los Angeles in California Dec. 27.

Wartburg Seeks Membership in Iowa Conference

Davenport, Ia., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Wartburg college of Waverly, reorganized as a four year college through the merger of three Iowa Lutheran junior colleges, will seek membership in the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic conference during the annual conference meeting in Des Moines Saturday.

Announcement of Wartburg's application was made by Grover C. Hawk of Fletcher college, secretary-treasurer of the association. Since all the other four year colleges of the state are members, it is believed Wartburg will be voted in as the 13th team.

The conference group also will elect a commissioner to succeed A. G. Reed of Waterloo, who resigned last May, elect officers, and draft football and track schedules.

Buffalo Hocky Club Lacks Funds; Drops from League

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Maurice Podoloff, president of the International American Hocky league, announced today the Buffalo Bisons have withdrawn from the league because of financial difficulties. "With no rink in Buffalo to play on, the Bisons had to play their home games in Niagara Falls, 23 miles away, and they couldn't make a go of it," Podoloff explained.

CRIPPLED HAWKS AND MAROONS CLASH TONIGHT

Plan Close Defensive as Necessity.

Games Tonight

Chicago at Montreal.
Canadiens at Detroit.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks arrived here today to battle Tommy Gorman's Maroons tomorrow night. It will be the second meeting of the teams this season. The first game took place in Chicago and the Maroons shut out the Hawks, 4 to 0.

Commenting on the New York game Manager Loughlin said: "We were tickled to death to get a tie against the Rangers. Never since I have been with the team has it had as many badly injured players as it has right now. March, Romnes and Wiebe should not be in the game at all and injuries kept Cook from making the trip. We played close hocky from sheer necessity and will play the same way here because we have to."

Trainer Eddie Froelich is being overworked trying to get the injured Hawks into good playing condition. The team will leave immediately after Thursday's game for Chicago where it can have the services of the team's regular physicians and the benefit of modern hospital heating appliances.

Next Sunday the world champion Detroit Red Wings will tackle the Blackhawks at Chicago.

SCHRINER LEADS SCORERS

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Dave Schriner's leadership, with eleven points, among point getters of the National Hocky league is now being seriously challenged.

Nick Metz of the Toronto Maple Leafs is only one point behind, and five players—Gagnon of the Canadiens, Gracie of the Maroons, N. Colville of the Rangers, Aurie of the Detroit Red Wings, and Art Chapman of the Americans—are tied with nine points apiece, according to the latest release of statistics up to and including games played Dec. 6.

SPORTSMEN OF ROCK RIVER TO PRESERVE GAME

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Rock River Conservation club, whose membership is open to sportsmen of western Illinois and eastern Iowa, was organized in Rock Island last night. W. H. Clark of Milan is president.

Activities will include conservation, game and fish propagation, and education in conservation and game and fish law observance. A drive will be started at once to exterminate foxes, which, in a large part, are responsible for the shortage of game this season.

Wildcat Five, Pitt to Clash at Patten Gym

Northwestern's basketball team will seek its second victory of the season tomorrow night against Pittsburgh at Patten gymnasium. The game will be the first of the season for the Panthers, who will also meet De Paul and Butler on their annual midwest invasion.

The Northwestern-Pitt series, which began seven years ago, has produced some of the most thrilling encounters ever staged at Patten gymnasium. The Wildcats hold the edge, four victories to three, over the Panthers. Northwestern won last year's game, 38 to 30.

Veteran Team at Pitt.

Dr. H. G. Carlson, Pittsburgh coach, will bring a veteran team on his annual midwest invasion. Four of the five starting players are veterans of last year's team, which was runner-up for the Eastern conference intercollegiate championship.

Against Carleton, the Wildcats flashed a smooth working attack that centered around a trio of front court veterans, Mike McMichaels, Fred Trenkle, and Jean Smith. These three juniors carried the scoring burden last season and were again the principal offensive threats in the opener.

Teaming with the above trio were Guards Duke Vance, a senior, and Bob Voigts, a sophomore who starred at tackle on the football team last fall. Barring a sudden change, these five players will comprise the starting lineup against Pittsburgh.

Capable Wildcat Reserves.

Held in reserve are a number of other veteran players who have displayed ability in past seasons. These include Guy Mercer and Hi Bender, guards; Tug Blume and Don Worland, forwards, and Jake Nagode, center. All except the last two are seniors and all saw action against Carleton. Cloe Diehl, forward, and Bob Koble, center, both sophomores, also broke into the opening night lineup.

Iowa Five Will Play Carleton College Tonight

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Coach Rollie Williams of Iowa expects to use more than three full teams when the Hawkeye quintet seeks its second victory of the season here tomorrow night against Carleton college of Northfield, Minn.

Expecting less competition than from Bradley Tech, which fell before the Hawks in the opener last week, Williams seeks to give his squad plenty of seasoning in the Carleton contest.

The Carls, led by Wayne Sparks, a native Iowan, already have been beaten by two Big Ten opponents, losing to Minnesota, 41 to 11, and to Northwestern, 44 to 19.

No changes are likely in Iowa's starting lineup with Stephens and Gaddis at the forwards, Walsh at center, and Van Ysseldyk and Suesens at the guards. Drees is expected to replace Walsh at center when the Big Ten season starts.

DE PAUL HARD AT WORK

Hard work and plenty of it is to be the lot of De Paul university's basketball team this week in preparation for Saturday night's game with Pittsburgh at the 132d regiment armory. The Demons found it difficult to score in Tuesday night's opener against North Dakota, a game in which their four year home winning streak was broken.

Tom Cleland, reserve center, and Bob Neu, sophomore forward from St. Mel's High, probably will see a good deal of action in Saturday's game in place of Fred Knez, senior forward.

The De Paul forwards made only one basket in the opener, and Coach Jim Kelly is seeking more scoring strength.

Last year Pitt won 19 of 29 games, and this year's team should be as strong, possibly stronger. Coach Dr. H. C. Carlson of the Panthers has one of the best records of any coach in the east.

Hoppe Defeats Cochran in Cue Match, 50-43

dragged out through seventy-four innings of the tournament. It was for a time believed it might become the longest game ever played in championship competition. The world's record is eighty-six innings.

Denton took a long, early lead over Thurnblad who was playing in extremely bad form. The Kansas City veteran enjoyed a lead of 30 to 11 at the intermission. Then Denton lost control of the ivories. He had to work overtime on every shot. His points came few and far between. Still he was playing a masterful safety game and seldom left Thurnblad anything worthwhile in the way of a good easy shot.

10 Points in 45 Minutes.

Denton spent 45 minutes making his last ten points.

Ralph Burch, Steffen, Byrnes, Thiele, Lindow, Spoeneman, Walker, Oughton, Wilson, Stone, Gauer, Ross, William, Burch, Gentges, Fitzgerald, McCahey, Twist, Lipp, Nixon, Wampler, MacFarlane, Crane, Dana, and Jones.

Duffy Florals Defeat House of David, 46 to 23

The Duffy Florals defeated the house of David basketball team, 46 to 23, in the feature game of the program at White City last night. In other games the T. J. Bowler girls' quintet won from St. Rita of the C. Y. O., 19 to 6, and the Collegians triumphed over the Fouquette Books team, 19 to 14.

Regents Honor Stuhldreher in Resolution

Madison, Wis., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The same University of Wisconsin board of regents that much less than a year ago was faced with the problem of solving the most serious athletic upheaval in the university's history, was on record today as heartily approving the "New Deal" inaugurated with the arrival of Harry A. Stuhldreher as head football coach and athletic director.

A resolution praising Stuhldreher, members of the athletic department and the faculty athletic board, and members of the 1936 football team, introduced in committee yesterday by Regent Robert V. Baker Jr. of Kenosha, today was approved unanimously.

"For the past months it has been increasingly evident that a new and vigorous spirit has imbued the athletic activities on the campus—a spirit which has had a wholesome effect on the university in general," the resolution said.

Plans were completed today for a banquet in the fieldhouse tomorrow night in which Coach Stuhldreher and the football squads will be guests.

Charles Woldenberg, chairman of the ticket committee, estimated that more than 1,000 will attend. Large delegations from Milwaukee and other Wisconsin cities, as well as from Chicago, have made reservations. Leading high school senior athletes of the state and their coaches also will be guests.

Banquet speakers will include President Glenn Frank and Coach Stuhldreher, Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner; Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Don Miller, a Cleveland attorney; Rip Miller, assistant coach of the Navy eleven, and Dr. William F. Lorenz, chairman of the faculty athletic board here. The banquet will be served at 6:30 p. m., with Adj. Gen. Ralph M. Immell as toastmaster. The balcony will be thrown open an hour later to students and faculty members who wish to hear the program.

English Cricket Team Beats Australia by 322

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MILLER, SEEKING COMEBACK, WILL FIGHT SAGILIO

Wisconsin Golden Gloves Champion Signed.

Billy Miller, 1933 southern Wisconsin Golden Gloves champion, who is making a comeback after a long layoff, and Frankie Sagilio, Cicero welterweight slugger, yesterday were signed to meet in the eight round headliner at Marigold Gardens Monday. Freddy Graham of San Francisco, former Pacific coast amateur title holder, will make his Chicago debut in a supporting match, probably against Jackie Reed. Reed, Tinley Park middleweight, will be appearing as a professional for the first time. . . . Mike Primich, Indiana Harbor lightweight, will box in an exhibition bout on his amateur card at the Ringside, 2020 Broadway, Indiana Harbor, Saturday night. . . . Oscar Rankin, Los Angeles 160 pound challenger, who whipped Tommy Freeman, former welterweight king, at Milwaukee recently, has been forced to cancel a proposed scrap at Pittsburgh Monday on account of an eye ailment.

Laddie Tonelli continued drills yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium by boxing four rounds with Johnny Phagan while Milt Aron, his antagonist in a ten rounder at 124th Field Artillery armory Saturday, worked out in private with Benny Ray, one of his handlers. Gus Rock, an old hand at training boxers, has been appointed supervisor of Tonelli's routine. . . . Willie Oster, erstwhile wild swinging middleweight, was in town yesterday after a long absence. . . . More than fifty of the best amateur boxers in this section are expected to compete in the first annual Sons of Italy Youth organization tournament at Ashland auditorium Jan. 28 and 29. Boys of Italian extraction who have never fought professionally are eligible for the meet, for which entries can be obtained at 201 North Wells street. Paul Pantaleo and Leo Ranieri, former pro fighters, are members of the committee in charge of the affair.

Two more amateur shows have been added to tomorrow's schedule, making four in all, the heaviest one night program held here this season. The new cards will be presented at Northwest stadium annex and Cicero Stadium, while those previously announced are booked at Madison Athletic club and 8th Regiment armory. Max Marek and Frankie Sagilio will serve as referees at the Madison club show, which is topped by five round contests involving Jackie Reed and Leo Pilla, and Jack Fargo and Walter Schramm. Johnny Barbara, South Bend, Ind., sectional Golden Gloves 147 pound king, has been matched with William Thomas, while Verne Patterson is paired with Owen Woods in two scraps which feature the program at the armory. . . . Max Marek has opened sparring workouts at C. Y. O. center in preparation for his state heavyweight title encounter with Billy Treest at White City Dec. 18.

17 TEAMS WILL PLAY IN WATER POLO TOURNEY

Seventeen teams have entered the second annual water polo tournament sponsored by the Chicago Water Polo association. This was announced yesterday at a special meeting held at the Chicago park district offices, at which officers for the 1937 season also were elected.

The officers are Bonner Miller of the Illinois Athletic club, reëlected president; Francis O. McDermott of the I. A. C., vice president, and F. G. Roach of the Chicago park district, reëlected secretary-treasurer. Warner Gerhard of Bailfuss natatorium, George Iverson of Blackhawk park, and Sam Greller of the Jewish People's institute were chosen as members of the board of directors. Iverson and Greller will be in charge of publicity.

There will be two groups in the water polo meet with the teams divided into a north and south section. The north section will be composed of the German-American club, Turn Verein Lincoln, Northwestern university, Shawnee Country club, Austin town hall, Lafollette park, Blackhawk park, Independence park, and Beilfuss natatorium.

The south section will be made up of teams representing Ridge park, Whiting, Ind.; Griffith natatorium, Jewish People's institute, University of Chicago, Jackson natatorium, Madison Athletic club, and the Central Y. M. C. A.

Tournament play will open the second week in January.

*Field. Time, 1:44. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dark Prince, $18.80 straight, $8.20 place, $5.20 show; Kentucky Eagle, $6.00 place, $4.00 show; Burl, $4.60 show. Winner, b. or br. c., 2, by Prince Pal-Ceres. Owner, L. L. Kaplan. Trainer, H. C. Russell. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:38. Start good. Won driving; place same.

DARK PRINCE, hard hustled, kept close to the early pace and, standing a drive, outstayed KENTUCKY EAGLE. Latter, away well, dropped out of it entering stretch as if through, but came again and was going fast at the finish. BURL saved much ground all the way and held on with fine courage. ROBIN HOOD, a trailer for half a mile, finished fast and would have won in a few more strides. MISS AGNES and SKY CLOUD tired badly. MARGARET JONES broke from outside the stalls, away poorly, and never threatened.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Three year olds and up. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $450; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

Owner, A. L. Doland. Trainer, W. Walkonis. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:07½. Start good. Won driving; place same.

ORTHOPRISM, outrun early and a trailer, came with a great rush through the stretch and got up in the closing strides. GRUMBLE moved up fast in the backstretch and, finishing strong, caught SASS and almost lasted. POT AU MINT, saving much ground all the way, tried to get through in the stretch but could not and probably was best. SASS raced MY ROSANNE into defeat, but tired suddenly in the stretch. BATTING EYE, a keen factor from the start, was in close quarters in the final drive and weakened. MY ROSANNE tired badly.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds and up. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $535; second, $100; third, $45; fourth, $20.

Time, 1:13 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Funderburg, $15.20 straight, $6.40 place, $4.20 show; Onrush, $4.40 place, $3.20 show; Chinese Princess, $3.40 show. Winner, b. g., 4, by Delectable II.-Dizzy Blonde. Owner and trainer, H. H. Chopin. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:37½. Start good. Won driving; place same.

FUNDERBURG, badly outrun early, came to the outside entering the stretch and, finishing with a great rush, passed out ONRUSH. Latter, away well, followed CHINESE EMPRESS into the stretch and, taking command, fought it out gamely but could not withstand the winner. CHINESE EMPRESS weakened after disposing of TRACTABLE. BALDCREST, in close quarters in the stretch, finished well. TORNADIC, a trailer early, closed with a belated rush. STAVKA finished well.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Three year olds and up. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $450; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

Time, 1:55 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Laura Kiev, $5.60 straight, $3.40 place, $3.00 show; Zenka, $4.00 place, $3.40 show; Gannonic, $4.40 show. Winner, b. m., 5, by Kiev-Aunt Laura. Owner, J. Allgeyer. Trainer, J. L. Wischer. Went to post at 5:04. Off at once. Start good. Won driving; place same.

LAURA KIEV, well handled, improved her position rapidly in the last three-quarters, saving much ground and, finishing with a rush, passed out GANNONIC and was safe from the fast finish of ZENKA. Latter, far back early, lost much ground entering the stretch and finished fast on the outside. GANNONIC, reserved off the early pace, moved up stoutly in the stretch but could not last. DEARZIN, held off the pace, closed well. PLAYDEMA raced well. HIGHLAND LANE raced PISH TUSH into defeat but tired badly in the stretch. PISH TUSH quit in the stretch. MR. MARVEL was done early.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Three year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Laflesh. Trainer, E. A. Silver. Went to post at 5:30½. Off at 5:31. Start good. Won driving; place same.

FIRST ENTRY, well ridden, was taken in hand after being crowded back going into the backstretch and, making a timely move, went around the leaders when straightening out and came away from BOILING POINT. Latter set the pace, shook off HEART BREAK, and held on with fine courage. HEART BREAK hung in the drive after being well rated. CASCAPEDIA was never dangerous. OLDFIELD was outrun. COMBAHEE could not keep up.

Winner, ch. g., 6, by Actuary-Io. Owner, W. J. Miller. Trainer, M. Shields. Went to post at 5:58. Off at 6:00. Start good. Won easily; place driving.

JACK CONNER stole a long lead on his field at once and was never in danger. JONNIE NUCHOLS made up ground and held on well. MANNERLY improved his position rapidly after half a mile and held on with good courage. COMING BACK, well up from the start, tired in the drive. WAZAYATA saved ground and finished well. PERSUADER moved up fast entering the stretch, but hung in the drive. EXAGGERATION and CHARMING SIR quit. STROLLING HOME always was far back.

Sportsmen Ask Conservation Minus Politics

BY BOB BECKER.

The opening gun of a state wide campaign to secure a department of conservation for Illinois that will not have a foundation of politics will be fired next Saturday, Dec. 12, in Bloomington, when hundreds of sportsmen get together. The meeting is sponsored by the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A call has gone out to Izaak Walton league chapters, county sportsmen's organizations, the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, junior chambers of commerce, and other conservation groups to send representatives to this conference. The meeting will start at 10 a. m. in the Rogers hotel, Bloomington, and continue through the evening.

Must Decide on Plan.

According to Lester Colby, president of the Chicago chapter of the Izaak Walton league and director of conservation for the Junior Chamber of Commerce for three midwest states, the immediate problem confronting this meeting of sportsmen is to decide which model game code or plan should be selected for the reorganization of the Illinois department of conservation.

"The 60th general assembly of the state opens early in 1937," said Mr. Colby. "We want to decide on a model game code, and then get behind this code or plan for its presentation to the assembly since legislative action is needed to change the conservation department. Therefore this meeting of conservationists from all over the state is to correlate all of our activities so we can present a united front in efforts to get Illinois a conservation department that will be out of politics."

"On Two Cylinders."

This department has all but worn out several typewriters writing about the need for a new game code, a new setup for the conservation department, and the errors of omission and commission under the Illinois conservation plan as it has existed for many years. But year after year we have seen nothing done while the same old outmoded department worries along on two cylinders because, as other more progressive states have learned, it is impossible to do a good job of conservation when the department is not organized on a sound basis.

This drive to clean house which is about to start looks like the most promising organized push to get an up to date conservation department that we have seen in the last 15 years. We have a hunch that sportsmen everywhere will want to get behind it.

instances. Feuds have broken out among individual writers and individual broadcasters, but for the most part these have been boyish outbursts of no serious consequence.

Approve Seven Night Games.

The American league formally approved the playing of seven night games at St. Louis. New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers reserved the right to decline to play a night game in St. Louis. Two years ago, when Cincinnati introduced night baseball to the majors, the New York Giants refused to play at night and their date that year and last was filled in by the Cardinals, who broke all St. Louis attendance records. Yankee and Tiger dates will be filled in by other teams willing to play two night games. J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, does not favor night games, but is willing to go along with the league experiment by playing one or two games in St. Louis.

The National league made few announcements after its two sessions today. Ernie Quigley was retired as a regular staf umpire and promoted to the post of supervisor of umpires.

Adopt Seys' Plate.

Synthetic double-headers can be arranged after the third Sunday of the season. The former ban lifting was on June 15. The league adopted the home plate invented by John O. Seys, vice president of the Cubs.

Owner Comiskey of the Sox, who was ill during the Montreal and New York meetings, left for home today. Vice President Harry Grabiner and Manager James Dykes will break camp tomorrow. The Cub party will leave for Chicago at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Dykes was still hopeful of finding a new job for John [Wholesale] Whitehead. A deal with Washington for Buck Newsom was regarded as a possibility, though Bucky Harris still was aiming at Elden Auker, Jake Wade, and Pete Fox of the Tigers.

Pirates Lose Interest in Dean.

The sale of Dizzy Dean by the Cardinals still is in the talking stage, but unproductive of anything startling. Although William Benswanger, Pittsburgh Pirates' president-treasurer, stated he would like to have Dean, he declared he would not wreck his club to get him. The latest report was that Dean would go to Pittsburgh for cash and Paul Waner, National league batting champion; Pitcher Cy Blanton, Catcher Tommy Padden, and three rookies.

But Benswanger indicated that isn't the deal he and Branch Rickey, Cardinal vice president, discussed for several hours today.

"The deal Rickey proposed is entirely dissimilar to any which have been reported," Benswanger said. "Personally, I do not think any player, even Dean, is worth $200,000. Rickey wants Shortstop Arky Vaughan included in the deal, and I will not trade Vaughan."

Dodgers Sign Manush.

Heinie Manush, 35 year old outfielder, signed with the Dodgers today. Manush won the American league batting championship in 1926 when he was with the Detroit Tigers and signed as a free agent, having been given his unconditional release by the Red Sox at the close of last season. He batted .291 in 82 games last year. He is a 14 year man and his lifetime average is .330.

The announcement by the National and American leagues that they had voted for a slightly deader ball was somewhat misleading. The Majors do not propose to change the composition of the ball or the thickness of the cover. It will be just as lively as it was in 1936—when hit.

Though the Giants and the Yankees went into their respective meetings determined to stand by the 1936 ball, they were induced to go along with the mob. Col. Jacob Ruppert said that while he was opposed to deadening the ball, he was certain the proposed changes would improve pitching.

SPUR TO RAIL STUDIES SEEN IN RFC LOAN OFFER

Suburban Lines Tell Current Problems.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Jesse H. Jones' offer on behalf of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to finance modernized suburban service for Chicago will put new life into studies now being made, it was indicated yesterday by heads of leading suburban railroads.

FRED W. SARGENT.
[Matzene Photo.]

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western, said it is likely Jones' offer will speed up the studies of his road. Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, said he will give careful consideration to the RFC chief's plea for better service. Edward M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer of the Rock Island, said he had not had time to give the offer full attention but his road will continue its studies looking toward better suburban service.

Illinois Central Satisfied.

Officials of the Illinois Central said they are standing pat on their present electrified service, which they called the best in the world. H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee road, the only other Chicago steam carrier to have an important suburban service, declined to comment.

Sargent was reached in New York where he was attending a directors' meeting.

"We have studied the possibility of electrifying our suburban lines but found it would cost $60,000,000, so that method of improving them is not feasible," Sargent said. "We have continued our investigations of the newer developments and have been especially interested in the progress of the Diesel electric engine.

"The cost of Diesel-electric power has been prohibitive for suburban service, but when the builders of these engines get into quantity production the cost undoubtedly will come down.

Watch Steam Electric Turbine.

Another experiment which we are watching with special interest is the condensing steam turbine engine to develop electric power which is being built for the Union Pacific. Delivery of this engine is expected to be made shortly after the first of the year. The performance of this engine may change the whole power situation."

Budd said his road will give Jones' remarks its most careful attention.

"In the Burlington's case," he continued, "the problem is not so much that of finding financing as it is to devise a service which will be inexpensive enough to satisfy the public and yet return us an amount on the investment sufficient to pay for its cost.

"The problem presents two aspects. first, the improved service must pay for itself; second, the physical requirements which the engineers will have to solve.

Forsees Shuttle Type Trains.

"We believe a modernized suburban service will be of the shuttle type, that is, each train will have a control at each end to enable it to leave a terminal without having to turn around. Possibly the train will consist of units, each with a power plant that can be coupled together as needed. The power should be distributed throughout the train. This is done in electrified suburban service, but the cost of electrified service is prohibitive. We must build a reasonable amount of trains to handle the crowds at peak periods. Diesel-electric power plants as we now know them occupy too much space.

"However, I am satisfied that we shall find the solution. Light weight equipment in itself will give us a substantial saving in freeing us from having to carry around a lot of dead weight."

"I have not had time to give full study to Jones' remarks, Durham asserted. "However, the Rock Island road is giving consideration to the use of Diesel-electric equipment for its suburban service on the basis of economy. We are continuing our studies along these lines. Our especial engineering problems are the necessity of making numerous stops and the congested territory through which we operate."

Jones Praises Rail Record in Depression

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—American railroads today were commended by Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the excellent way in which they have weathered the depression. The chairman of the RFC, which is the largest single creditor of the carriers, was highly optimistic concerning their financial outlook.

Tracing the experience of the roads during the last few lean years Jones said he considered their performance "remarkably good."

"I know of no other big industry," he said, "which could have seen its revenues dwindle to half their former volume and still keep on going as have the railroads.

Cites Tremendous Obstacles.

"The managements of American lines have surmounted tremendous obstacles. They have been loaded with a heavy tax burden. They were able to reduce wage rates only slightly and that reduction was only temporary. They have been subjected to a greater degree of public regulation than any other type of industry. And they have had to cut rates.

"Despite these things the railroads, in general, have come through the depression in good shape and are now definitly on the upgrade. I think they deserve a lot of credit."

Jones indicated that the depression record of the railroads, plus their current recovery and encouraging prospects, formed the basis for his belief that the loans made by the RFC to the roads during the last few years will be repaid.

Ready to Lend More.

So firm is his belief in the future of the carriers that he, as chairman of the government's big lending agency, is ready to lend them additional millions to finance necessary improvements in their facilities.

Jones' offer to lend railroads entering Chicago the full amount of the purchase price of any new type trains necessary to modernize their suburban service was disclosed in an exclusive story in this morning's TRIBUNE.

The RFC head said that he was anxious to see the railroads start improving their suburban equipment as soon as possible.

"I believe," he said, "that the railroads have done a fine job in speeding up their long distance schedules, air conditioning and improving their passenger cars, and putting into operation attractive streamlined trains.

Decries Long Delays.

"I am convinced, however, that they waited a little too long before they got under way with these improvements. While they were holding off, buses, air lines, and private automobiles cut heavily into their passenger business. They should have started sooner."

Jones said he hoped the railroads would not make the same mistake in dealing with the modernization and speeding up of suburban service.

The RFC reported yesterday that of the 516 millions lent to the railroads since the agency started operations Feb. 3, 1932, more than 171 millions have already been repaid. During the wartime period the railroads borrowed $1,080,575,854, a much larger amount, from the government and they have repaid all but $31,192,156, of which only $5,320,854 is in default. Interest paid on the loans more than compensated for the unpaid balance.

Grt. Western Plan Hearing Is Postponed to Feb. 19

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission has continued until Feb. 19 its hearing on the proposed reorganization plan of the Chicago Great Western railroad. The hearing, opened yesterday, was adjourned so attorneys representing interested bondholders could have additional time to study the plan.

Navy Wants to Buy Copper But No One Is Interested

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The navy was in the market tonight for 2,600,000 pounds of copper but could find nobody willing to sell. This strange situation was due, navy officials said, to the new Walsh-Healey government contract act.

The act provides that concerns which make contracts of more than $10,000 with the government must pay "prevailing" wages as determined by the secretary of labor, must establish a 40 hour maximum work week and employ no child labor.

The navy's bids were to be opened today, but no bids appeared. Navy officials immediately made known they would discuss the situation with Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Report 48 Hour Week in West.

Although no comment could be obtained here directly from large copper companies, persons usually well informed said many western copper mines were operating 48 hours a week.

The navy also disclosed that an unusually small number of bids were submitted today for the complete east coast fuel oil supply for the navy, war, treasury, commerce, and labor departments during the first quarter of 1937.

Not more than two bids were submitted for any one lot. No bid appeared for one 170,000 barrel order.

Only one bid was received for a contract for 3,500 tons of steel to be used in new ships under the navy's building program. This bid, department officials said, was unsatisfactory.

May Seek Exemption.

Although she had not been advised officially of the copper, oil, and steel situations, Miss Perkins said both government purchasing agencies and private businesses had made requests for exemptions from the act. The navy department, she said, might ask for exemptions in the present cases.

Some government officials said the upswing in business the nation over might be more responsible than the Walsh-Healey act for an increasing trend of private industry to steer clear of government contracts.

Long strings of red tape usually were wrapped around large government orders, they said, and industry was finding sufficient markets in other quarters.

CONDITIONAL CONSENT OF KEESHIN MERGER PLAN RECOMMENDED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Conditional approval by the interstate commerce commission of plans of the Keeshin trucking interests to bring six operating subsidiaries under the management of a single corporation, the Keeshin Motor Express Company, Inc., was recommended to the agency today in a report by J. Edward Pavey, chief of finance of the bureau of motor carriers.

The proposed closer integration of the system with a view to promoting greater economies in operation was opposed by railroads of western and trunk line territories excepting the Baltimore and Ohio. Under the plan the managing corporation, an Illinois unit of the system, would lease the other five subsidiary lines and consolidate accounting and other managerial functions with an estimated saving of $50,000 a year.

The subsidiary lines conditionally recommended to be brought under one company include Keeshin Motor Express of Illinois, Keeshin Motor Express, Inc. [Indiana], Keeshin Motor Express Co., Inc. [New York], Bernd-Trux, Inc., Dickins Freight, Inc., and Scott Transportation company.

AIKEN SUCCEEDS BUCKNER AS HEAD OF NEW YORK LIFE

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The New York Life Insurance company announced today that its president, Thomas A. Buckner, had been elected chairman and Alfred L. Aiken, vice president, had been named president. The changes took place at the company's regular monthly meeting of the directors.

Directors also appointed Vice President Walker Buckner, a brother of the new chairman, to the position of executive vice president.

BANK OFFICIALS TO SEEK TIGHTER CHARTER LAWS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—State banking supervisors disclosed today they planned to suggest legislation to reduce what they called "promiscuous" chartering of new banks.

Luther A. Harr, secretary of banking for Pennsylvania and chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, said drafts of the proposed legislation would be submitted to congress and state legislatures.

NOVEMBER STORE SALES RISE 8 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store sales in 268 principal cities of the nation during November showed an increase of 8 per cent over November, 1935, according to preliminary figures issued by the federal reserve board yesterday. For the eleven months ended Nov. 30 sales gained 11 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

One of the best showings was made by the Chicago reserve division, which had a gain of 13 per cent over 1935 for both November and the first eleven months of this year.

BANK REVEALED AS REAL RULER OF RAIL EMPIRE

VanSweringensOnly Managers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—The Guaranty Trust company, largest institution of its type in America and popularly regarded as a J. P. Morgan bank, was in actual control of the Van Sweringen rail empire between 1931 and 1936, according to testimony given before the senate interstate commerce committee today.

William C. Potter, chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust, was the witness who added this new chapter to the complicated history of the fortunes of the vast railroad system which the late Van Sweringen brothers built. He protested, however, that the Guaranty Trust was not a Morgan bank.

Tries to Correct Impression.

"I have heard it referred to as a Morgan bank," he told Senator Burton K. Wheeler, chairman of the committee, "but I've tried to correct that impression whenever possible."

"Well, it's no disgrace," remarked Wheeler.

The trust company was in control of the system as trustee for the bondholders who invested in three bond issues, totaling 85 millions, and maturing in 1944, 1949, and 1950. There are still $77,791,000 of these bonds outstanding, Potter said, adding that the recent business revival has increased the value of the collateral behind the bonds.

Senators Vic Donahey (left) and Burton K. Wheeler, members of senate committee probing affairs of Van Sweringen rail system, at the hearing yesterday.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The trust company stipulated that the Van Sweringen brothers would have to keep a collateral value of $150 behind every $100 bond and, if this ratio were not maintained, the trustees could prevent further stock dividends, collect the interest on the bonds, and vote the collateral stock. When, in 1931, the Van Sweringens were unable to maintain this ratio, the bank took over control of the system.

Van Sweringens Managers.

The Van Sweringens remained as managers of the system. Potter testified he knew of no men better fitted

Continental's Net May Pass 20 Millions

Earnings of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company this year will run between 20 and 25 million dollars, according to reliable estimates obtained yesterday. The estimated profit includes a substantial amount that the bank has recovered on loans and investments that had previously been written down to conform with depression values. Like other banks, the Continental has experienced a material recovery in this class of investments which two and three years ago were of doubtful value.

Estimates are not available on the percentage of the bank's earnings that will come this year from such recoveries. It is known, however, that the amount is substantial. The 20 to 25 million earnings are estimated before provision for write-offs which are not expected to be material this year.

Preferred Stock Cut Expected.

The estimates on 1936 results indicate that the bank will be able to carry out its reported intention to retire $10,000,000 of additional preferred stock after the turn of the year. The action is expected to be taken at the annual meeting Jan. 8. Such action would be accompanied by the distribution of a common stock dividend of a corresponding amount to the present stockholders. The effect would be to reduce the amount of the preferred stock held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to $35,000,000 and raise the common stock capitalization to $40,000,000, leaving the RFC with the minority holding.

After the recapitalization of 1933 the common stockholders held $25,000,000 of the total stock and the RFC held $50,000,000. The gradual retirement of the preferred means no reduction in the total share capitalization of $75,000,000 because new common stock is issued as the preferred is paid off.

Earnings Gain Expected.

The Continental reported earnings for 1935 of approximately $20,000,000, including profit of $7,000,000 received on sale of securities. Net charge-offs were $9,250,000. Gross losses charged off were approximately $13,000,000, but were offset to the extent of $4,000,000 by recoveries. Because the bank does not face a repetition of last year's heavy charge-off the final results for the year as now estimated will represent a substantial improvement.

The bank received a total of $5,700,000 or $12 a share on the sale of its holdings of common stock in the Middle West corporation. The sale was made last August to the Chicago corporation, investment trust, and A. G. Becker & Co., investment banking concern. The price received for the stock was sufficient to cover the bank's loan to the old Middle West Utilities company.

Terminal National Boosts Surplus Account $50,000

Directors of the Terminal National Bank of Chicago have authorized an increase of $50,000 in the surplus account of the bank, Gaylord S. Morse, president, said yesterday. The increase brings surplus to $150,000. Capital of the bank is $200,000 and undivided profits are $45,000.

ATLANTIC STEEL TO PAY EXTRA DIVIDEND OF $14

Another 30 Million Voted in Day.

Another 30 millions of dividends was voted yesterday, bringing the total since Nov. 1 well above the billion dollar mark. One of the largest special payments was the $14 extra disbursement ordered by the Atlantic Steel company on its common stock. The directors also declared a regular $2 payment on the common.

The Chicago Title and Trust company declared an extra of $1 and the regular quarterly payment of $1.50 a share on the common stock. Directors of the Harris Trust and Savings bank put their stock on a $10 annual basis when they raised the regular quarterly dividend from $2 a share to $2.50 a share.

$3 Telephone Dividend.

A fourth quarter dividend of $3 a share was ordered by the directors of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company on the common stock, 99 per cent of which is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The disbursement, which will total $5,190,000, will bring payments this year to $9 a share, exceeding by $1 the largest amount previously paid. It was explained that the increase seemed advisable because of the federal surtax on undistributed profits. The directors also authorized payment of the regular $1.75 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

The Air Reduction company declared an extra of 5 cents a share and the regular payment of a like amount on the common stock.

An extra dividend of $1 a share on the common was ordered by the Diamond Shoe corporation, which will also pay the regular 50 cent dividend.

First Since May, 1932.

Stone & Webster, Inc., announced a 25 cent a share payment on the capital stock, the first to be paid since 12½ cents a share was disbursed in May, 1932.

Rose's 5-10-25 Cent Stores, Inc., declared an extra of $2 a share on the common. The directors approved a plan to split the stock on a five for one

R[illegible]D STOCK PRICES TO HIGHER LEVELS

Most Sections Advance; Changes Small.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—Railroad shares today pulled the stock market to higher levels after a period of hesitancy earlier in the session. Gains at the close ranged from fractions to a point, although prices were a little below their best marks of the day. Irregularity was shown in some groups, but nearly all sections of the list participated in the advance. Trading was quiet, with turnover amounting to 1,855,000 shares.

In accomplishing the rise the market had to absorb considerable profit taking. On the other hand, higher dividends and improved business and trade reports furnished a bullish incentive.

Rise Follows Trafic Gain.

Strength in the carrier section especially was encouraging. The splendid showing was attributed to advices that freight car loadings last week recovered sharply from the holiday week recession and also to rumors that the emergency freight charges expiring at the end of the month would be extended.

Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Great Northern, Louisville and Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific, and Delaware and Hudson registered advances of a point or more. Erie, Nickel Plate, Chicago Great Western, and Illinois Central moved forward on a more modest scale.

Old line industrial issues also reflected further improvement. Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical and Johns Manville chalked up gains of more than a point.

Steel Issues Buoyant.

Steel issues were buoyant, although some disappointment was expressed over the Bethlehem dividend. U. S. Steel pushed ahead a fraction and Truscon was bid up 3⅜ points to a new high.

Motor shares hardened and utilities as a group finished higher. American Telephone rose more than a point and Electric Power issues were buoyant. Western Union, however, sold off 3 points at the opening and failed to rally.

Except for Case, farm implements bounded forward. Mail orders did little. Oils were firm, while metals strengthened, with Anaconda and Cerro de Pasco standing out. Homestake lost 10 points on a single transaction.

Rail equipments, especially the locomotives, displayed buoyancy.

basis and voted to change the par of new shares to $1 from $5.

The Vogt Manufacturing announced a stock dividend of 100 per cent and a cash dividend of $1 a share on the common stock.

The New York Central will benefit substantially from the year-end flow of dividends. Mahoning Coal Railroad company ordered a dividend of $13 on the common stock, which will put about $240,000 into the treasury of New York Central. The road will also receive $2,651,000 as the result of a semi-annual payment of $1.50 a share on the common stock by the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad company, an increase of 25 cents a share over the previous annual rate.

Central Republic Pays 25 Cents.

The Central Republic company declared a dividend of 25 cents. The last payment, also one of 25 cents, was made in June, 1926. The company was an affiliate of the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

A dividend of $2 a share was declared by the Chicago Mill and Lumber company. The company on Oct. 1 paid a dividend of $1 on the common stock.

Directors of the Reliance Manufacturing company voted a special dividend of $2 a share on the common and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred.

Trustees of the Massachusetts Investors Trust declared an extra disbursement of 25 cents a share, representing net income from dividends and interest received in 1936, less the amount of distributions already paid to shareholders during the year. The trustees also declared a special distribution of $1.05 a share out of realized profits from the sale of securities in 1936. The total disbursements will be $5,500,000.

Inkmaker Pays More.

The General Printing Ink corporation announced a dividend of $2.50 a share on the common stock. The last payment was $1 a share.

An extra dividend of $1.12½ cents a share on the common stock was ordered by the Melville Shoe corporation.

The International Utilities corporation announced payments on arrears of $3.37½ a share on the $7 prior preferred stock and of $1.68¾ a share on the $3.50 preferred.

Carman & Co. voted a payment of $1.50 a share on the accumulations of the class A stock.

Republic Investors Fund, Inc., declared a dividend of 1-80 unit, each unit consisting of one share of 6 per cent preferred stock with warants on the common stock.

The Economy Grocery Stores corporation declared a dividend of 37½ cents a share payable Dec. 24 in lieu of the dividend which ordinarily would be paid Jan. 15.

Votes 30 Cent Extras.

The Seaboard Commercial corporation declared extra dividends of 30 cents a share and quarterly dividends of 20 cents on the class A and class B common stocks.

An extra dividend of 50 cents a share was ordered by the Buckeye Steel Castings company on its common stock.

BOOST IN INCOME OF WAGE EARNER URGED BY WEIR

Terms Step First Problem of Industry.

New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, suggested tonight that industry give more attention to low income groups "because any increase of income to these groups would be largely and quickly converted into increased demands for goods, increased production, and increased total wealth."

Weir told 2,000 of the country's business leaders, attending the Congress of American Industry, that industry must undertake a "constructive program" to solve the problems arising out of the depression and that one of the first steps must be to increase "real income."

Chester Addresses Group.

Other speakers at today's session of the congress included C. M. Chester, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mill company, and Lewis H. Brown, president of the Johns Manville corporation.

Chester said a survey of member companies of the National Association of Manufacturers — employing about one-sixth of the people at work in manufacturing—showed that employment was 106 per cent of the 1929 level. He told the industrialists, however, they should not slacken their efforts because of this.

"Our job," he said, "is to absorb all of the unemployed possible, to bend every effort of science and management skill to create still more jobs, and at the same time provide more of the comforts of life for the American people."

Full Publicity Urged.

Hook urged employers to "take the mystery out of business" and see that their employés thoroughly understand their policies and that they know at all times how the business is progressing.

Brown predicted that if "private enterprise is permitted to function unhampered we may look forward to a new era of abundance such as would have been undreamed of only a few years ago."

ILLINOIS RAIL PICKUP ORDER DELAYED 30 DAYS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today postponed for one month the effective date for free pickup and delivery service in the Illinois Freight association territory on freight hauled by Illinois territory railroads for a minimum of 45 cents per 100 pounds.

Rail carriers in the Illinois territory, which have been operating the free pickup and delivery service since January, 1936, with a 20 cent minimum filed a statement with the commission Dec. 4, asking the commission to reconsider its 45 cent minimum order. The Illinois carriers complained that it was too high and placed an unfair competitive burden on Illinois carriers competing with motor truck lines.

The commission's order fixing 45 cents as the minimum for free pickup and delivery service was scheduled to go into effect in the Illinois territory Dec. 21. The commission extended the effective date to Jan. 21.

Trustee Makes Final Report on Middle West Utilities

Daniel C. Green, president of Middle West corporation, yesterday presented his final report as trustee of Middle West Utilities company, predecessor company reorganized under the federal bankruptcy laws Nov. 27, 1935. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson immediately granted thirty days for the filing of objections and set Jan. 11 for hearing on the report.

D. C. GREEN.

A "paper profit" of more than $1,700,000 to the new company as a result of acquisition of Central and South West Utilities stock during the period of trustee operation of the old company was disclosed in the report.

Buy Additional Securities.

Though no properties of importance were sold during the trusteeship, it was pointed out that proceeds from sale of certain securities not considered part of the permanent portfolio of the big utility concern were used to purchase additional securities in companies already controled and to settle taxes, claims, and other liabilities.

Principal securities so acquired through open market purchases and settlements, it was disclosed, were 17,560 shares of Central and South West 7 per cent prior lien and 11,510 shares of Central and South West 7 per cent preferred stocks. Their aggregate cost was $720,198. On the basis of market prices yesterday these shares were worth almost $1,500,000.

Cash Increases $387,229.

Cash was increased by $387,229 during the trusteeship, the report said, and a balance of $1,706,991 was turned over to the successor company. Net receipts from interest, dividends, and management amounted to $235,653.

Liabilities of the old Middle West were reduced $26,850,000 during the trusteeship, effected with cash payments aggregating only $755,790. Of the cash $287,000 was paid in settlement of federal income tax claims for prior years.

The $60,571,000 of secured and unsecured claims remaining and allowed by Judge Wilkerson were settled through issuance of common stock of the new Middle West corporation, which has no bank loans, no bonded debt or other interest bearing obligations, and no preferred stocks.

The new company has not released a consolidated balance sheet, though preparation of such a statement has been in progress for months.

BANK REVEALED AS REAL RULER OF RAIL EMPIRE

Van Sweringens Were Only Managers.

to manage the more than 200 companies involved.

"While the general public thought that the Van Sweringens were in control, the Guaranty Trust was actually in control, deciding upon all ventures," remarked Wheeler. "A number of railroads, such as the Missouri Pacific and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, went into bankruptcy under such management, did they not?"

Potter said that was correct, but repeated that he knew of no one who could have done a better job.

"The Morgans wanted the Van Sweringens to stay in control, didn't they?" Wheeler inquired. "I don't know," was the reply. "I don't think they ever said so to me."

"But you had the advice of your lawyers who were also the Morgan lawyers?"

"Yes."

Causes of Auction Sale.

Inquiring into the reasons for the decision of the Van Sweringen creditors to have an auction sale of the collateral against a $39,500,000 loan in September, 1935, Senator Wheeler was told by Potter that various reasons motivated the different creditors.

"In the case of Morgan & Co. and George F. Baker, it was a desire to take advantage of the losses for income tax purposes," he told the committee.

Potter testified that he was glad to relieve his bank of Van Sweringen control.

"We were sick of putting up money for the Alleghany corporation," he said. "Ownership of that stock entailed liabilities, past and future, which we did not want to incur."

The financial plight of the Van Sweringens was revealed in an interesting manner with the introduction into the record of a memo found in the personal files of George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank of New York. The memo had been written by "A. C. N.," identified as A. C. Nagle, vice president of First National, and told of the proposal of Harold Stanley, partner of J. P. Morgan, to alleviate the personal distress of the Van Sweringens. It was dated March 23, 1935, and excerpts follow:

"On March 11, Mr. Stanley telephoned to say that the Van Sweringens, heretofore having drawn no salaries from their enterprises and for some time having been living on their insurance, are up against it to provide for living expenses.

Estimate on Requirements.

"They estimate their joint requirements to be $150,000 a year, the principal items being the following:

"Living expenses, $30,000; dependent relatives, $25,000; upkeep of farm, $20,000; taxes, $20,000 to $25,000; insurance, $25,000.

"It is proposed that they draw salaries aggregating $75,000 from their companies, presumably Chesapeake corporation, etc., and that the other $75,000 be provided in some way out of or by the participants in the credit.

"The Corner [this reference was to J. P. Morgan & Co., Potter explained under questioning] is willing to agree to this scheme because they feel that the Van Sweringens are the only ones who can handle this very intricate situation for them."

The memo went on to complain about the "costly upkeep" of the Van Sweringen farm which was mortgaged to Cleveland banks. It stated that Stanley defended the items on the list because "if these men are to do a good job for the creditors, their minds should be free from worries such as providing for their living and taking care of their dependent family."

The memo revealed also that the Van Sweringens were collecting $250,000 yearly in dividends from Cleveland railway stock which had been put up as collateral against a loan. The brothers used this money for rent, office expenses and salaries.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 9, 1936

At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of The First Boston Corporation held on December 9, 1936, a dividend of $2.00 per share was declared on the capital stock of the Corporation payable December 22, 1936 to stockholders of record as of the close of business on December 11, 1936.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCE ON HEAVY FOREIGN BUYING

Heavy foreign buying of cotton futures yesterday, part of which was attributed to Japan, featured trading in that commodity. There also was liberal buying by trade and spot interests. Announcement of the government's soil conservation campaign, which contemplates checking any increase in the cotton acreage for the 1937 crop, was a factor.

Closing trades on cotton futures in Chicago were at net gains of 11 to 14 points. Other American markets gained 11 to 16 points [a point equals 1-100th cent a pound or 5 cents a bale]. Japan yesterday was credited with having bought cotton futures in Liverpool.

Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points higher, with New Orleans at 12.70 cents; New York, 12.85 cents; Houston, 12.50 cents, and Galveston at 12.45 cents a pound. Prices follow:

COURT HOLDS BANK DIRECTOR LIABLE FOR ACTS

Reverses Rule Clearing Edward H. Sullivan.

Holding that bank directors are strictly responsible for their acts, the Appellate court in an opinion reversing a Circuit court jury verdict asserted yesterday that under the facts and the law the Circuit court last spring erred in instructing the jury on the question of fiduciary relationship, which resulted in the verdict freeing Edward H. Sullivan, a furniture salesman and former director and organizer of the closed Kenwood State bank. The case was remanded for retrial.

The jury verdict had freed Sullivan from a liability of $5,433 on a personal note found among the Kenwood bank's assets. The receiver of the bank had obtained a judgment of $9,894, later reduced to $5,433, and Sullivan moved to vacate it on grounds of fraud.

"Signed for Sums Not Owed."

In his defense Sullivan asserted that a "fiduciary relationship" existed between him and the other directors, because he had preferred not to serve as a director due to bad eyesight, but had been persuaded by the others with a promise they would guard his rights. Relying on this, he had signed notes for sums which he did not owe, he declared.

Yesterday's decision which was written by Justice Oscar Hebel and concurred in by Justices Ross C. Hall and Denis E. Sullivan, pointed out that after helping to organize the bank, Sullivan had obtained loans from the bank, and on Feb. 26, 1931, he signed a new note for $5,176, to cover the balance after 660 shares of Swift & Co. stock posted by him as collateral had been sold and the $13,000 realized applied on his debt.

Owed Duty to Stockholders.

"Defendant was director of this institution and he owed a duty to stockholders and depositors, occupying as he did a position of trust," the opinion stated. "It is rather an anomaly for the defendant to argue that the bank through its officers occupied a fiduciary relation in acting for him, not alone as a borrower but as director of the bank as well. . . ."

"His conduct indicates he has had business experience and his acts at the bank in borrowing money did not display a lack of knowledge of acts necessary to arrange a loan.

"It would rather display a lack of honesty on his part in allowing his name to be used as director to influence others to become depositors and then use his position to obtain loans which he now seeks to defeat because of this alleged fiduciary relationship with the bank."

The court held, however, that a new trial is necessary, because Sullivan is entitled to present his defense concerning the allegedly unauthorized sale of Swift & Co. stock.

YEAR END BONUS DECLARED BY MORE CONCERNS

Other Companies Vote Wage Boosts.

Many more Christmas bonus payments and wage increases were announced yesterday. The Singer Manufacturing company disclosed that it would give a bonus of two weeks' pay to its 4,400 employés. The bonus will be given workers earning less than $60 a week who have been employed by the company from June 15 to Dec. 12.

The Chicago Title and Trust company will give a bonus of two weeks' pay to employés in its service a year or longer and one of one week's pay to those employed less than a year.

Bonus Is Increased.

The Melville Shoe corporation announced that it has increased by one-third the Christmas bonus it had planned for its 3,000 regular and part time workers. The bonuses will range from one week's to four weeks' extra pay, according to length of service. In addition employés will get extra compensation next year through commissions on sales.

The Morse Chain company, Ithaca, N. Y., an affiliate of the Borg-Warner corporation, announced that its 576 employés will share a $15,000 bonus.

The Barber Colman company, Rockford, will pay a bonus of 5 per cent of the earnings of employés for the first eleven months of 1936 to 1,200 workers.

Get 10 Per Cent Pay Boost.

The seven mills of the French Spinning company, Woonsocket, R. I., announced that wages of 4,000 employés will be raised 10 per cent, retroactive to Nov. 23.

Earl D. Powers, general manager of the Lyon Metal Products company, largest manufacturers of lockers and steel shelving, announced that all employés will receive a 5 per cent increase in pay, effective Jan. 1, and Christmas bonus.

Five Rail Unions Planning to Ask Wage Increase

Cleveland, O., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The five railroad brotherhoods soon will ask wage increases affecting 300,000 railroad workers, a spokesman for one of the brotherhoods said today. A call for a special meeting probably will be issued in January, he said. Amount of the proposed increase has not yet been determined.

ALL DELIVERIES OF LARD REACH NEW HIGH LEVELS

General commission house buying and short covering yesterday carried all deliveries of lard futures to new high levels for the season, following an easy start. Strength in grains and cottonseed oil, which rose to new ground for the season, were responsible for the upturn in lard.

A number of provision brokers yesterday professed to see nothing in the situation except the prospect of war in Europe to justify buying lard at the current price level. Lard futures closed 12½ to 20 cents higher. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed unchanged.

Cash lard yesterday lost ground compared with December contracts. Cash lard was 17½ cents higher at $13.10, compared with an advance of 20 cents on the future. Loose lard advanced 12½ cents to $12.35, and leaf was 12½ cents higher at $11.87½. Clear bellies were quoted at $16.50 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

EGGS IRREGULARLY LOWER; BUTTER FUTURES ADVANCE

Deliveries of 149 cars, or 1,788,000 dozen eggs, valued at over $500,000, were tendered on December contracts on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, resulting in a decline of ¼ cent on the future to 28 cents a dozen. On Monday sales were made as high as 29¾ cents.

January eggs closed unchanged while fresh firsts for February delivery declined ¼ cent. Sales of egg futures aggregated 609 cars, the largest day's trading since Nov. 8, 1935.

Butter futures were easy early but rallied on bullish out of storage movement statistics and closed ⅛ cent higher with December at 32⅛ cents a pound. Sales of butter futures were 224 cars. The aggregate trade in butter and eggs yesterday was the largest single day's business in the exchange since October, 1933.

Idaho russet potatoes for January delivery declined 3 cents to $2.80 per 100 pounds. Sales were 15 cars. Prices follow:

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today and while the spot price remained nominally unchanged at 3.85c per lb sugar for 1937 delivery advanced 5 points with a sale of 18,000 bags of Philippines for January-February shipment to an operator at 3.75c. Futures were firmer, reflecting steadiness of the spot market and at one time showed advances of 5 to 6 points on increased trade covering and buying by commission houses. Realizing checked the upturn and there was a partial setback although final prices were still 3 to 5 points net higher. Sales were 7,600 tons.

RUSH OF STEEL ORDERS SENDS OUTPUT HIGHER

Week's Production Climbs to 76½ Per Cent.

With the heaviest unfilled tonnages since 1929 and orders still pouring in except in those products for which books have been closed at fourth quarter prices, steel companies are exerting all pressure to complete shipments to those orders by Jan. 31 to realize at the earliest possible moment higher first quarter prices, the magazine Iron Age said yesterday.

The publication estimated this week's steel ingot output at 76½ per cent of the nation's capacity, against 76 per cent last week. However, the magazine said this figure is possibly higher in view of the fact that actual output in November of 79.05 per cent was several points above the highest weekly estimates.

Rate Expected to Hold Up.

Iron Age said that it can be definitly predicted that teel plant operation at present or higher rates will continue at least through January and probably through the entire first quarter. Increased output at some plants will be prevented only by shortage of scrap, pig iron, coke, or raw steel, some companies feeling the pinch of insufficient blast furnace and open hearth capacity.

The steel scrap market reflects the stronger tone in the steel industry. Advances of 50 cents a ton have occurred at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, bringing the Iron Age composite price up to $16.50, or within 25 cents of the highest price on record.

POWER OUTPUT AT PEAK

Electricity production for the country last week reached a new all-time peak of 2,243,916,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. The previous record of 2,196,175,000 kilowatt hours was made the week before the Thanksgiving holiday week.

Last week's output represented an increase of 110,405,000 kilowatt hours over the preceding week, which included Thanksgiving day. The figure was 13.9 per cent ahead of the corresponding period a year ago.

Production of the four companies serving the Chicago area for the week ended Dec. 5 was 134,142,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 116,978,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period last year, an increase of 14.7 per cent. Output in the preceding week was 134,251,000 kilowatt hours.

All regions except the Pacific coast showed gains of more than 10 per cent over the corresponding week in 1935.

New York, Dec. 9.—The popular favor enjoyed by Argentine bonds for some months, especially since the Buenos Aires peace conference, spread to nearly all other South American bonds in today's market.

New high prices for the year were recorded in a long list of bonds, including Cordoba 7s, Brazil 6½s of two series, Colombia Mortgage bank 6½s and 7s, Colombian Agricultural bank 6s, Republic of Colombia 6s of two series, four Buenos Aires issues and Uruguay 6s of 1960. Cuban public works 5½s were one weak exception.

Domestic List Rises.

Taking guidance from the share list, domestic corporate liens moved moderately higher. Some obligations lacked spirit although losses were generally unimportant.

Rails came to the fore under a revival of buying activity prompted by an upturn in carrier stocks. Sugar company bonds and some miscellaneous inactive industrials provided interest with gains ranging to 5 points. The convertibles continued to attract a lively demand.

Railroad Group Strong.

Allis Chalmers 4s moved up close to their old high for the year, above 200. Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s and Chicago Creat Western 4s were taken in large blocks at rising prices.

There was a strong demand also for St. Louis-San Francisco 4s of 1950 and Consolidated 4½s. Mobile and Ohio 4½s and two issues of 5s, Southern Railway general 4s and Wisconsin Central general 4s.

There was an easier tone to the market for treasury bonds on a volume of trading plainly curtailed by a disposition to await allotments of the new issues. The 4¼s were again an exception, bettering their old high.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Standard Oil Co. (Ind.).

Investors' Guide: Do you think Standard Oil of Indiana is a good investment?—W. E.

Answer: Standard Oil company [Indiana] ranks as the leading refiner and marketer of gasoline and petroleum products in the middle west. It is one of the largest refiners of crude oil in the world, but it has produced only a small part of refinery requirements in recent years. Purchase in 1935 of the Yount-Lee Oil company producing properties considerably increased the company's supply of crude oil, which had been severely curtailed through sale of a substantial interest in Venezuelan reserves to Standard Oil of New Jersey in May, 1932.

The Yount-Lee properties include 283,000 acres of oil lands and leases in Texas and Louisiana. Crude oil production was increased 7,300,000 barrels a year by the purchase. In 1934 only 14,206,000 barrels of crude were produced. The figure was up to 19,317,000 barrels in 1935. Refinery runs amounted to 66,520,000 barrels in 1935 and 57,294,000 in 1934.

At the start of 1936 the company was producing 36 per cent of refinery requirements, compared with 22 per cent two years earlier. When producing only a small part of refinery requirements a company is heavily dependent on the ratio between gasoline and crude oil prices.

More stable prices in the oil industry and increased volume of business have resulted in sharp improvement in earnings during the last two years. Net income was up to $30,180,000, or $1.98 a share, in 1935, compared with $18,950,000, or $1.25 a share, in 1934.

Further substantial improvement in 1936 is indicated by dividend payments totaling $2.40 this year. In addition to regular 25 cent quarterly payments are extras of 15 cents on June 15, 25 cents on Sept. 15, and $1 on Dec. 15, to stockholders of record Nov. 16. Dividends were $1 each year in 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1935.

Net income was $17,674,000, or $1.14 a share, in 1933, $16,558,000, or $1.04, in 1932, $17,596,000, or $1.04, in 1931, and $46,371,000, or $2.73 a share, in 1930.

The company's large financial resources and firmly intrenched trade position are favorable factors in longer term prospects. Current assets at the end of 1935 totaled $204,857,000 at the end of 1935 totaled $204,857,000, cash alone being in excess of current liabilities of $33,980,000. The $42,000,000 Yount-Lee deal was put through without borrowing, and reduced working capital only $12,000,000.

Standard of Indiana has an adequate, wholly-owned pipe line. It also has a participating interest in the vast domestic and foreign activities of Standard of New Jersey through ownership of a substantial block of stock.

Capitalization consists of 15,215,677 shares of $25 par common stock. It has $10,580,000 of long term notes and purchase obligations outstanding, compared with $57,000,000 funded debt at the end of 1930.

The stock is considered high grade.

FARM IMPORTS LEAD TO PEACE, SAYS WALLACE

Promises New Program 'Better' Than AAA.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace told members of the American Farm Bureau federation today that the farmer must be willing in the cause of peace "to accept small increases in the imports of certain agricultural products." In an earlier address he promised the 7,000 delegates a farm program "better" than the ill fated AAA.

"In the cause of peace," he said, "the farmers of the United States must learn to say 'yes' as often as possible to agricultural imports from Pan-America, while at the same time reserving the right to say 'no' when any vital branch of agriculture is likely to be menaced by too great imports."

Gets Service Award.

The head of the department of agriculture spoke shortly after the bureau conferred upon him its highest honor—the award for distinguished service to agriculture.

Wallace said the preservation of world peace is more fundamental than national agricultural conservation, and added, "there is an important relation between the two, however.

"Farmers the world over like to talk about peace in a sentimental way and then stand for highly nationalistic trading policies which inevitably lead to war," he said. "Danger of the United States becoming involved in a serious war comes from the fact that we export goods to Europe and when war comes one side or the other interferes with trade."

Can Act Only Slowly.

"Last year 68 per cent of our agricultural exports went to five countries which are certain to be involved in any major difficulty in Europe and Asia," he said. "Only 10 per cent of our agricultural exports went to Pan-America. Both our hearts and our heads lead us increasingly to Pan-America but the facts are stubborn and of necessity can be brought in line with our desires only slowly."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the farm bureau federation, said that farmers will demand changes in the constitution, if necessary, in their effort to obtain a program for parity of income for agriculture.

WORLD WHEAT PRICES SOAR ON FOREIGN BUYING

Cash Grades Here Rise to Seven Year High.

Heavy buying of cash wheat by Europe and renewed fears over political conditions on the continent sent world wheat prices soaring yesterday to new high levels for the season.

Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade advanced 2 cents or more. December sold at $1.28⅛ a bushel, equaling the high point in July, 1933, and with that exception representing the highest level since January, 1930. Five cars of No. 2 red winter wheat sold in the cash market at $1.30 a bushel, the highest price quoted for that variety since 1929.

Nations Bid for Wheat.

Reports indicated a wild scramble by importing countries to secure wheat supplies. Purchases yesterday and Monday by Italy and the United Kingdom were estimated at 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels, largely Argentine and Australian grain.

China bought 500,000 bushels of Australian wheat, the first time that country has been in the market in several months.

Liverpool wheat futures sold at the highest level since 1929, while Winnipeg was in new high ground for the season.

Heavy speculative buying of wheat futures developed when traders who had taken profits on the belief that a reaction was overdue, rushed to reinstate holdings. At the high point yesterday December wheat showed an advance of 14 cents a bushel over the closing level Nov. 2.

Argentine Sales Heavy.

Argentina, according to reports, has sold 35,000,000 bushels of wheat of its estimated exportable surplus of 150,000,000 bushels.

Closing prices on the December delivery of leading grains on the Board of Trade, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.28⅛	$1.25⅝	$1.24¼	$1.15⅝
Corn	1.09⅝	1.08⅝	1.08⅜	1.02⅛
Oats	.49⅝	.48⅛	.48	.43⅛
Rye	1.01⅛	.99	.97⅞	.87⅛
Soy beans	1.42⅝	1.39⅞	1.34⅛	1.25⅛

All deliveries of oats and soy bean futures and May and July rye sold at new highs for the season, while corn came within small fractions of recent tops. Strength in wheat was the dominating influence in other grains.

Corn and oats futures advanced a cent a bushel for the day, while rye gained over two cents and soy beans rose as much as 3½ cents. The December delivery of barley at Winnipeg advanced 5 cents a bushel, the maximum permitted for one day under exchange regulations.

Chicago Board of Trade memberships sold yesterday at $4,800 and at $5,000 net to the buyer, the latter showing an advance of $500 over the last transfer made prior to yesterday.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Freeze Precautions.

December 9, 1936.

WHEN the mercury dropped below the zero mark Monday morning workers at the Tribune's Yorkville experimental farm were reminded of their troubles last winter in keeping a fresh supply of water before the live stock day and night.

Precautions already are being taken to prevent the freezing of water pipes leading to the tanks in the cattle yard. Some of the pipes were frozen more than four feet underground last winter when the frost line went to unprecedented depths.

More than 150 feet of water pipe lines have been covered with a layer of coarse straw manure to prevent freezing this winter. The material has been packed into a ridge two feet deep and three feet wide directly over the pipes that are buried several feet underground.

Protect Tanks and Hydrants.

A ton of manure has been packed around each of six hydrants at the farm. Three of the hydrants are kept completely covered during winter, while the other three are kept open. The manure is held in place by means of wooden frames five feet square built around each hydrant.

Since early Monday morning heaters have been kept going at full blast to prevent the water from freezing in three tanks used in supplying water to the horses and steers in the feed yards. A fourth heater is ready for use in an inside tank when the temperature goes down to 15 or 20 below zero.

Each winter the Yorkville farm uses about a half ton of coal to keep the water tank heaters going. The manager buys soft coal, the least expensive coal that can be bought.

In addition to keeping heaters going in the big water tanks, three oil lamps are kept burning in the water fountains in the hog sheds. These lamps burn only a small amount of kerosene but produce enough heat to prevent the freezing of water in the fountains.

Busy Pumping Water.

Windmills, gasoline engines and the hydraulic ram are kept in use through the winter supplying fresh water to the live stock. The hydraulic ram is kept running constantly. This little wonder of the mechanical world supplies water to two tanks in the cattle yards and a third tank used in watering the work horses.

Keeping the pumps and hydraulic ram running and the tanks from freezing is a major problem on the Yorkville place where hundreds of head of live stock must be watered daily. Even this winter, with the feeding program greatly reduced., there are more than 250 head of cattle to be supplied with water. In addition there are horses, milk cows, sheep and hogs to be watered.

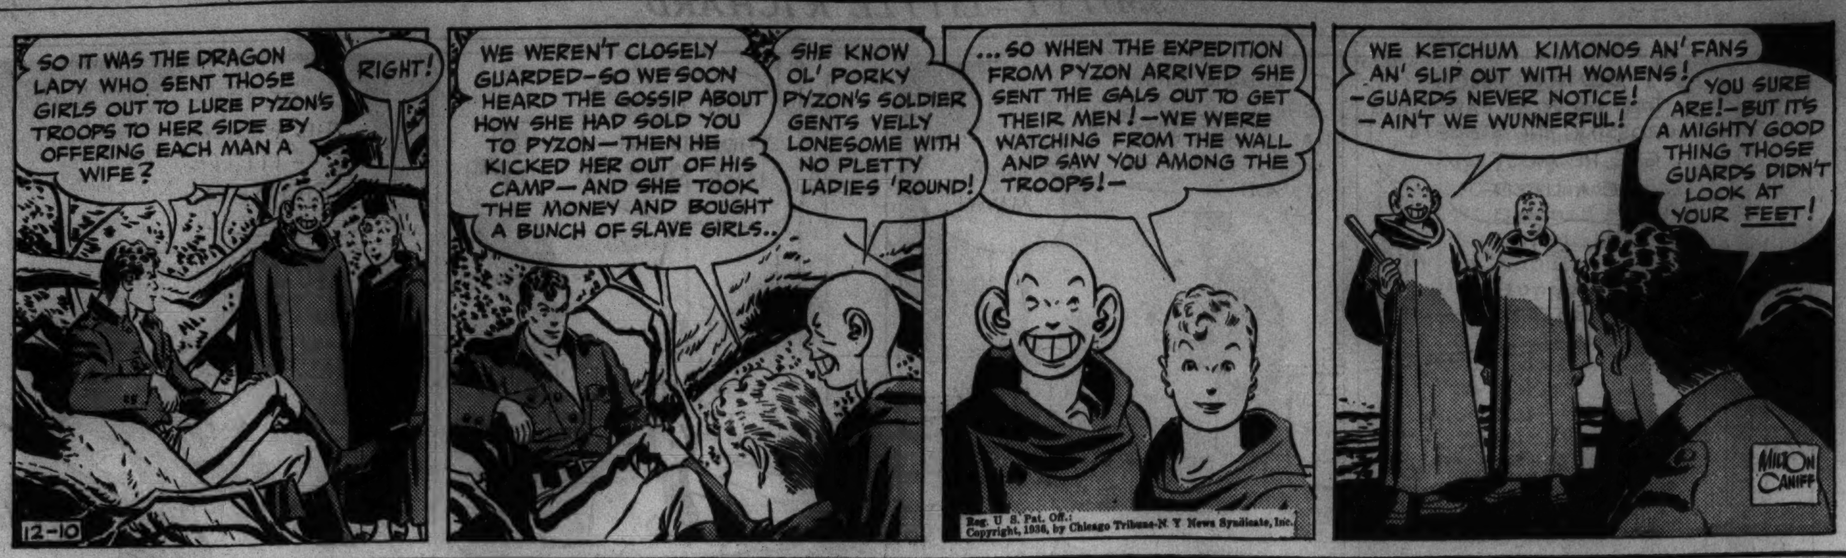
TERRY AND THE PIRATES—GUARDS MISSED THE GUNBOATS



SO IT WAS THE DRAGON LADY WHO SENT THOSE GIRLS OUT TO LURE PYZON'S TROOPS TO HER SIDE BY OFFERING EACH MAN A WIFE?
RIGHT!
WE WEREN'T CLOSELY GUARDED—SO WE SOON HEARD THE GOSSIP ABOUT HOW SHE HAD SOLD YOU TO PYZON—THEN HE KICKED HER OUT OF HIS CAMP—AND SHE TOOK THE MONEY AND BOUGHT A BUNCH OF SLAVE GIRLS..
SHE KNOW OL' PORKY PYZON'S SOLDIER GENTS VELLY LONESOME WITH NO PLETTY LADIES 'ROUND!
...SO WHEN THE EXPEDITION FROM PYZON ARRIVED SHE SENT THE GALS OUT TO GET THEIR MEN!—WE WERE WATCHING FROM THE WALL AND SAW YOU AMONG THE TROOPS!—
WE KETCHUM KIMONOS AN' FANS AN' SLIP OUT WITH WOMENS! —GUARDS NEVER NOTICE! —AIN'T WE WUNNERFUL!
YOU SURE ARE!—BUT IT'S A MIGHTY GOOD THING THOSE GUARDS DIDN'T LOOK AT YOUR FEET!

NEW Promise-to-Pay PLAN
No Security—No Endorsers.
No Wage Assignments.

Just Your Plain Note

Now you can get a loan on just your Promise-to-Pay. If you can make regular payments, sign only a plain note and nothing else. It is just like borrowing from a friend on a simple I. O. U.—no endorsers, no wage assignments, co-makers, furniture, real estate, stocks, bonds, diamonds or other security required. We take you at your word and give you the money you need on just your Promise-to-Pay. Unbelievably simple. Your honesty, integrity, and ability to pay are absolutely the sole requirements for a loan on the New Promise-to-Pay Plan.

Reduced Rates

Monthly charges are 3% on balances up to $100 and only 2% on balances above $100. Also all other types of loans at the same reduced cost. For full particulars, telephone, write, or stop in the office nearest you.

BORROW at
on YOUR Signature
REDUCED RATES
ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $100.

HOW YOU CAN BORROW.

1. If you can make monthly payments you can qualify for a loan.
2. You do not need co-makers or endorsers.
3. No inquiries made of employer or friends.

HOW YOU CAN REPAY.

1. Payments on all loans are small. For example, payments on a $200 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
2. Monthly rate is 2% on the balance above $100, 3% on $100 or less. On $200 repaid in 20 months this is substantially less than the lawful maximum on loans over $100.

No Endorsers.
No Salary Assignments.

King Edward VIII. to Give Up Throne Today for Love of Mrs. Simpson—Parliament to Hear Announcement

JUST PLAIN DAVY AND BROTHER EXPECTED TO SUCCEED HIM TODAY AS ENGLAND'S MONARCH—Forsaking the throne of the world's greatest empire for the love of an American born divorcee, King Edward VIII. of Great Britain (right) is believed ready to abdicate today so that he can marry the woman of his choice. He poses here with his eldest brother, the duke of York, who is first in the line of succession to the throne. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MAY BECOME ENGLAND'S QUEEN TODAY—The duchess of York in her most recent portrait. Before her marriage to the king's eldest brother she was Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, member of Scottish Strathmore line.

KING TO FORSAKE HIS THRONE FOR HER—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, to whom Edward VIII. is expected to fly today after formal announcement of abdication in parliament. She is now in Cannes, France. Her offer to give up Edward still stood last night, it was announced.

POSSIBLE QUEEN AND THE YOUNGER SISTER WHO WOULD RANK NEXT AS HEIR—The Princesses Elizabeth (left) and Margaret Rose, daughters of the duke and duchess of York. Some reports say that the duke may refuse to become king, whereupon Elizabeth, his elder daughter, would be proclaimed queen. She is 10 years old and Margaret Rose is 6 years old.

GRIEVING MOTHER OF SOVEREIGN—Queen Mary, reports said last night, might consent to become a member of regency to rule in Princess Elizabeth's stead should her father, the duke of York, decline the crown.

WHEN HE WAS A PRINCE AND SHE WAS AN UNKNOWN WOMAN FROM AMERICA AND THE FATE OF AN EMPIRE WAS FAR FROM THEIR THOUGHTS—Three pictures taken last year at a retreat near Cannes, France, showing the then prince of Wales and the former Baltimorean, Wally Simpson, as they enjoyed bathing and boating together. That's Mrs. Simpson's dog in the boat with the lolling prince. When they took this holiday the international lovers little dreamed that their romance would some day shake the British empire and bring about a "constitutional crisis," ending in his abdication as king and emperor.
